SUMMARY.

The disaffected 6th Regiment garrisoning Belgrade surrounded the Palace at midnight of Wednesday and overpowered the guards, killing 100.

By means of a bomb the revolutionists burst open the Royal bedroom and entered the apartment.

Colonel Naumovitch (who was King Alexander's Adjutant) presented the King with a form of abdication, directing him to sign it, because he had married a woman of ill-repute and had degraded the country.

King Alexander cried: "Traitor," and instantly shot Naumovitch dead. Colonel Mischets again presented the document, and the King and the Queen in their night attire fled to the roof, where they were killed.

General Nikolitch, with the Eighth Infantry Regiment, tried to come to the King's aid, but he encountered a strong force and was severely wounded.

Other accounts state that when Colonel Naumovitch was shot Queen Draga appealed to Colonel Mischets, who replied, "Let the King abdicate. Free Servia from your miserable presence."

Then Colonel Maschin, who had just murdered Captain Lengyeritza, who made an heroic resistance against heavy odds, entered the bedroom.

The King told the Queen to fly, but both were overtaken on the roof.

The King tried to face his assailants and to protect the Queen.

Major Lazarovitch, a disgraced officer, shot the King in the face, and he fell. When he tried to rise and speak a second shot was fired and killed him instantaneously.

The soldiers shot Queen Draga, who, falling upon her husband's body, received a bayonet wound in the neck.

The Royal bodies were rolled in sheets, lowered into the court yard, and placed in a waggon until their removal to the chapel.

Queen Draga's two brothers were killed in the Palace.

What every woman does not know is, that in common soaps she frequently pays for adulterations at the prices of oils and fats. Try Sunlight Soap next wash day, and you will see that Sir Charles A. Cameron is right—he should know.

LOWE'S,
"THE GOOD CLOTHES SPOT."

There's a wide margin between Sheeps' Wool and Shoddy, yet the art and cunning of man has made shoddy to so closely imitate the more desirable article that many a person has been betrayed by this

WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING.

Big Men! 'Ware of the Wolf. He snaps at your pocket, and lies in hiding in shops as bright as sunshine on snow, and shops as dark as

PINE FORESTS AT EVENING.

Parents and Guardians of little lambs and Big Boys who bravely boast that they "buy their own clothes" make for safety to
LOWE'S,
THE "GOOD CLOTHES SPOT," where there's no "Cry of Wolf," and where Mothers and Fathers can have money to spare in the wide margin between LOWE'S LOWEST PRICES and those of any other clothes spot in this land, which is no fable, but enables them to get the BEST CLOTHES,
"ALL WOOL AND WEAR," for what others want for "slops and shoddy," thus rendering much active service in severe seasons and all other seasons in keeping the

WOLF FROM THE DOOR,

so that thousands of Little Red Riding Hoods can rejoice.

OVERCOATS

LIKE EVERYTHING else, the PRESENT STYLE of OVERCOAT is the OUTCOME OF EVOLUTION. EVERYTHING evolves, EVERYTHING will evolve. The CULTIVATED AUSTRALIAN of to-day is but an EVOLUTION of the ANCIENT BRITON of away back, and the HANDSOMELY APPOINTED RESIDENCES where Mrs. POTTS POINT and Mrs. BURWOOD STRATHFIELD receive their friends is only a following on with improvements from the CLAY-DAUBED SHED wherein CEDRIC THE SAXON and his guests flung MUTTON BONES over their shoulders and DRANK THEMSELVES DRUNK, finishing by THROWING their SWINISH CARCASES down ON THE MUD which composed the floor.

EVOLUTION! EVOLUTION!

From NOAH'S ARK to a FIRST-CLASS LINER. From a STONE HATCHET to a DISSTON'S SAW.

OVERCOATS! OVERCOATS!
WHENCE EVOLVE THEY!

First, Fig LEAVES! Then the TOGA! Then the CLOAK! Then the OVERCOAT!

Possibly, as CENTURIES PASS, FASHION will unwind herself and hark back again to the FIG LEAVES of old. Then, perhaps, in the SHOP WINDOWS of the

ONLY UNIVERSAL PROVIDERS

of those days, instead of the OVERCOATS of to-day will be seen FIG LEAVES by the yard, and FIG LEAVES made into garments, and likewise turning to the newspapers of that coming period the reader will likely find that has decreed that FIG LEAVES shall cost SO MUCH A YARD, and FIG LEAVES made up, SO MUCH A GARMENT.

THE ARBITRATION COURT

ANTHONY HORDERN AND SONS ARE GREAT AT OVERCOATS.

OVERCOATS are AMONG their SPECIALITIES; they make OVERCOATS themselves; they know what are the OVERCOATS they put together, and they are ABSOLUTELY CERTAIN that OVERCOATS bought at

ANTHONY HORDERN'S

BRIDAL

PORTRAITS.

THE LEADING PHOTOGRAPHER,

SYDNEY AND MELBOURNE.

IT IS QUITE THE FASHIONABLE THING NOW TO HAVE WEDDING PORTRAITS TAKEN UPON THE DAY OF MARRIAGE. SCARCELY A DAY PASSES BUT WHAT CARRIAGES CONTAINING BRIDAL PARTIES DRIVE UP TO THE EDEN PHOTO STUDIOS, AS THEY ARE RECOGNISED AS THE BEST STUDIOS FOR BRIDAL PORTRAITS. NO PORTRAIT IS MORE TREASURED THAN THAT ONE OF YOUR WIFE AS SHE LOOKED AT THE TIME OF MARRIAGE, AND MANY WHO NEGLECTED THE OPPORTUNITY WOULD GIVE MANY POUNDS FOR SUCH A PICTURE. AT THE EDEN PHOTO STUDIO WE HAVE SPECIAL ROOMS FOR WEDDING PARTIES, WHILE THE PRICES CHARGED ARE THE SMALLEST IN SYDNEY FOR SUCH EXCELLENT WORK. THE EDEN STUDIOS HAVE WON SUCH FAME THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY THROUGH THEIR SPLENDID WORK AND LOW PRICES THAT SCARCELY A VISITOR COMES TO SYDNEY BUT WHAT RETURNS WITH SOME OF EDEN'S LIFE-LIKE PORTRAITS.

THE WINGS OF THE MORNING.

AN ISLAND ROMANCE.

BY LOUIS TRACY.

CHAPTER XII.—Continued.

He could not fall in with her unreflective mood and leave the dreadful truth to its own evil time. In her little nook the power of the sun had not yet made himself felt. By ordinary computation it was about nine o'clock. Long before noon they would be grilling. Throughout the next few hours they must suffer the torture of Dives with one meagre pint of water to share between them. Of course the wine and spirit must be shunned like a pestilence. To touch either under such conditions would be courting heat apoplexy and death. And next day!

He tightened his jaws before he answered—

"We will console ourselves with a bottle of champagne for dinner. Meanwhile, I hear our friends shouting to those left on this side of the island. I must take an active interest in the conversation."

He grasped a rifle and lay down on the ledge, already gratefully warm. There was a good deal of sustained shouting going on. Jenks thought he recognised the chief's voice, giving instructions to those who had come from Smuggler's Cove and were now standing on the beach near the quarry.

"I wonder if he is hungry," he thought. If so, I will interfere with the commissariat."

Iris peeped forth at him.

"Mr. Jenks!"

"Yes," without turning his head. He knew it was an ordinary question.

"May I come too?"

"What! expose yourself on the ledge!"

"Yes, even that. I am so tired of sitting here alone."

"Well, there is no danger at present. But they might chance to see you, and you remember——"

"Yes, I remember quite well. If that is all—" There was a rustle of garments. "I am very mannish in appearance. If you promise not to look at me I will join you."

"I promise."

Iris stepped forth. She was flushed a little, and, to cover her confusion may be, she picked up a Lee-Metford.

"Now there are two guns," she said, as she stood near him.

He could see through the tail of his eye that a slight but elegantly proportioned young gentleman of the seafaring profession had suddenly appeared from nowhere. He was glad she had taken this course. It might better the position were the Dyaks to see her thus.

"The moment I tell you, you must fall flat," he warned her. "No ceremony about it. Just flop!"

"I don't know anything better calculated to make one flop than a bullet," she laughed. Not yet did the tragedy of the broken kegs appeal to her.

"Yes, but it achieves its purpose in two ways. I want you to adopt the precautionary method."

"Trust me for that. Good gracious!"

The sailor's rifle went off with an unexpected bang that froze the exclamation on her lips. Three Dyaks were attempting to run the gauntlet to their beleaguered comrades. They carried a jar and two wicker baskets. He with the jar fell and broke it. The others doubled back like hares, and the first man dragged himself after them. Jenks did not fire again.

Iris watched the wounded wretch crawling along the ground. Her eyes grew moist, and she paled somewhat. When he vanished she looked into the valley and at the opposing ledge; three men lay dead within twenty yards of her. Two others dangled from the rocks. It took her some time to control her quavering utterance sufficiently to say—

"I hope I may not have to use a gun. I know it cannot be helped, but if I were to kill a human being I do not think I would ever rest again."

"In that case I have indeed murdered sleep to-day," was the unfeeling reply.

"No! No! A man must be made of sterner stuff. We have a right to defend ourselves. If need be I will exercise that right. Still it is horrid, oh, so horrid!"

She could not see the sailor's grim smile. It would materially affect his rest, for the better, were he able to slay every Dyak on the island with a single shot. Yet her gentle protest pleased him. She could not at the same time be callous to human suffering and be Iris. But he could not discuss such sentiments.

"You were going to say something when a brief disturbance took place?" he inquired.

"Yes. I was surprised to find how hot the ledge has become."

"You notice it more because you are obliged to remain here."

After a pause—

"I think I understand now why you were so upset by the loss of our water casks. Before the day ends we will be in great straits, enduring agonies from thirst."

"Let us not meet the devil half-way," he rejoined. He preferred the unfair retort to a discussion which could only foster dismay.

"But, please, I am thirsty now."

He moved uneasily. He was only too conscious of the impish weakness, common to all mankind, which creates a desire out of sheer inability to satisfy it. Already his own throat was parched. The excitement of the early struggle was in itself enough to engender an acute thirst. He thought it best to meet their absolute needs as far as possible.

"Bring the tin cup," he said. "Let us take half our store and use the remainder when we eat. Try to avoid breathing through your mouth. The hot air quickly affects the palate and causes an artificial dryness. We cannot yet be in real need of water. It is largely imagination."

Iris needed no second bidding. She carefully measured out half a pint of the unsavoury fluid—the dregs of the cask and the scourings of the ledge.

"I will drink first," she cried.

"No, no," he interrupted impatiently. "Give it to me."

She pretended to be surprised.

"As a mere matter of politeness."

"I am sorry, but I must insist."

She gave him the cup over his shoulder. He placed it to his lips and gulped steadily.

"There," he said gruffly. "I was in a hurry. The Dyaks may make another rush at any moment."

Iris looked into the vessel.

"You have taken none at all," she said.

"Nonsense!"

"Mr. Jenks, be reasonable! You need it more than I. I d-don't want to—live w-without—you."

His hands shook somewhat. It was well there was no call for accurate shooting just then.

"I assure you I took all I required," he declared with unnecessary vehemence.

"At least drink your share, to please me," she murmured.

"You tried to humbug me," he insisted. "If you will take the first half I will take the second."

And they settled it that way. The few mouthfuls of tepid water gave them new life. One sense can deceive the others. A man developing all the symptoms of hydrophobia has been cured by the assurance that the dog which bit him was not mad. So these two, not yet aflame with drought, banished the arid phantom for a little while.

Nevertheless, by high noon they were suffering again. The time passed very slowly. The sun rose to the zenith and filled earth and air with his ardour. It seemed to be a miracle that the sea did not dry up, and the leaves wither on the trees. The silence, the deathly inactivity of all things, became intolerable. The girl bravely tried to confine her thoughts to the task of the hour. She displayed alert watchfulness, an instant readiness to warn her companion of the slightest movement among the trees or by the rocks to the north-west, this being the arc of their periphery assigned to her.

Looking at the sunlit space from cover, and looking at the same place when sweltering in the direct rays of a tropical sun, are kindred operations strangely diverse in achievement. Iris could not reconcile her physical sensitiveness now with the careless hardihood of the preceding days. Her eyes ached somewhat, for she had tilted her sou'-wester to the back of her head in the effort to cool her throbbing temples. She put up her right hand to shade the too vivid reflection of the glistening sea, and was astounded to find that in a few minutes the back of her hand was scorched. A faint sound of distant shouting disturbed her painful reverie.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

THE NEW NATION.

Mr. Percy F. Rowland gives us a discriminating view of the Commonwealth in his book (which we have just received from Mr. E. W. Cole) "The New Nation." He spent several years in Australia, years which covered the inauguration of the Commonwealth and the opening of the first Federal Parliament, and his book was written in Sydney. It is not therefore the kind of book to which we are accustomed from so many wandering Englishmen, who get their facts from guide-books and their "local colour" from a few weeks' residence in Government House, or in less favoured habitations. It is informing, thoughtful, vigorous. The synopsis of the history of Australia will be found entertaining as well as useful by readers at a distance, and it is only here and there that the Australian will find the importance of particular circumstances and personages exaggerated or minimised. Mr. Rowland, for instance, is inclined to attribute to the first Governor an influence over the development of the country which can hardly be established, and in like manner to credit the persons who have entered upon the fruits of federation with more than their share of the preparatory work. In the former instance the verdict is mainly a matter of the taste of the arbiter, influenced by the sentiment naturally inspired by the consideration of an officer, not particularly equipped for the work, laying the foundation of a new nation. In the latter instance, Mr. Rowland may claim that, if he errs, he errs in good company, inasmuch as the political leaders of the Commonwealth pass over in silence the labours of the hundreds of men throughout Australia who, with no thought of personal aggrandisement or advancement or emolument, laboured without ceasing for the establishment of federation.

On the matter of our politics and politicians, Mr. Rowland is emphatic if not always correct. Thus, there is much exaggeration in the statement that Australians have ill requited those who have given their lives to her service. "The successful publican, doctor, merchant, barrister," says Mr. Rowland, "have surely not done more for Australia than a statesman like Sir Henry Parkes. Yet on these she has showered fortunes and honours, to them flings open the doors of Government House; while poor Sir Henry is thrown a careless crust, and lectured on the virtues of economy. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that there is not an Australian Premier of note who has not died in poverty." It is true—fortunately true—that we have not in Australia, as they have in the United Kingdom, a system of pensioning off ex-Cabinet Ministers who would otherwise be unable to maintain the dignity of their position; and it is also true—unfortunately true—that some Australian Premiers were poor when they died. But Australia has always paid her Premiers good salaries, and it is absurd to say that there is not one of them of note who has not died in poverty. For the rest, it is the politicians' own business. If they choose to enter upon a line of life which has its disadvantages as well as its advantages, how can the people be blamed if they find the former outweighing the latter?

It is perhaps in his chapters on Australian society and Australian literature that Mr. Rowland is seen at his best. He has, for instance, adapted from "Modern Painters" a term "colonial fallacy," which he applies to "the colonist's fancy or conviction that, though he lives under Australian skies, he is governed by the climatic conditions and lives among the flora and fauna of his distant motherland." This "fallacy" is to be found, according to Mr. Rowland, in dress and social conditions, as well as in the observance of festivals and in nomenclature. "But the most serious indictment against the 'colonial fallacy,'" he goes on to say, "is its paralysing influence on art and literature. Australians prefer to import foreign rather than to support native talent." This is an accusation often made, but the main concrete reason advanced in support of it is that Australians who have distinguished themselves in art or literature go to the old country if they want to reap the full benefit of their powers. But is not that because there they enjoy a larger audience? A country whilst it is young and busy in the work of development cannot devote time to the preparation of great works in art and literature; naturally it falls back in the first years on men who have graduated in the old world. Take as instance the journalistic branch of literature—if it be a branch. In the early days all the prominent men in Australian journalism were immigrants, but to-day, a generation having arisen which has had time to devote to this work, many of them are Australian by birth or Australian by education and long residence. So it is in art. Australia gives to native talent encouragement which is not to be paralleled in the history of young countries. But that would not keep a Melba here, or any other artist who felt it in him that he requires a larger audience. For the rest, Mr. Rowland's judgment on Australian literature is generally sound, and he gives full credit to men like Kendall and Gordon and Clarke for the work they did. The chapters on "Education in Australia," "Australian National Character," "The Case for Separation," and "The Case for Imperialism," are thoughtful and interesting. On the whole Mr. Rowland may be congratulated on having succeeded in his aim, which was "to afford to men who have not visited it a candid and impartial account of the young Commonwealth." It may be added that Australians themselves will learn much from this book.

PICTURES OF 1903.

The other day we took pleasure in commending the "Pictures of 1903," published as the "Pall Mall Magazine" extra, and now we have the "Black and White" reproduction of prominent works of art in the Royal Academy and New Gallery. Publications of this kind are a valuable education in themselves. Only a few years ago the pictures and statues chosen for reproduction were represented by a few scratches meaning little or nothing. To-day the reproductions are not only a guide to the galleries from which the works are taken, they are also in themselves art. In the "Black and White Handbook to the Royal Academy and New Gallery, 1903," we have fine illustrations of the work of artists such as G. H. Boughton, W. Lee Hankey, George Frampton, George Clausen, Alfred East, John Corries, Henriette Ronner, James MacWhirter, Seymour Lucas, Yeend King, Hamo Thornycroft, and W. F. Yeames.

MAX O'RELL'S LAST BOOK.

Mr. E. W. Cole forwards "Rambles in Womanland," Max O'Rell's latest and last book. The author had somehow managed to impress himself upon English readers as an authority on manners, and on English and French methods, and especially as an admirer and champion of the English-woman. His lively manner appealed to many, and the undeserved condemnation which he occasionally passed on our fellow-countrymen and countrywomen was forgotten in view of some attribute of his which, for our part, we have never been able to trace. But he is dead now, and this, his last book, should be treated with respect. It is full of the old admixture of praise, blame, and advice, couched in the same old form of sententious platitudes masquerading as originalities.

FATHER DOLLING.

Robert Dolling, born 52 years ago, who died last year, is probably little known in Australia. But his was a name to conjure with in East London, in Portsmouth, and in Winchester. An Irishman of Irishmen, he commanded the admiration of men of all communions, and "The Life of Father Dolling," by Charles E. Osborne (Edward Arnold), shows to perfection how it was that this Anglican clergyman did so much good in the world. He was the servant of the servants of the Master whom he served. Active, enthusiastic, whole-souled in the discharge of his work, he helped many and harmed none. Frequently he came into collision with his ecclesiastical superiors, and some of his methods invited criticism. But the world is the poorer for the loss of Father Dolling.

SOME STORIES.

"The Absurd Repentance," by St. John Lucas (Edward Arnold), suffers perhaps from too much cleverness. Four college friends—Lord Thicknesse, Frank Destrier, an artist, Algernon Brabazon, a curate, and Max Allonby, a popular novelist—find themselves converged on a neighbouring Grey family, consisting of Alys and Rosamond Grey, who are chaperoned by their aunt, Margaret Ormenthwaite. Max Allonby is successful in his suit with Rosamond, but he conceals from her the fact that he is the author of a book to which she objects, a book called "The Absurd Repentance." The other three are all in love with Alys, who will have none of them, and finally engages herself to be married to the Bishop of Weedon, an unconventional prelate of some 43 summers. It is this same bishop who upsets Allonby's calculations by revealing him to Rosamond as the author of the objectionable book, thereby causing an estrangement. Everything, however, ends happily, except for the three unsuccessful candidates for the hand of Alys Grey. Mr. St. John Lucas will doubtless produce better work, this one being merely meant, as it would seem, to while away a few leisure moments with.

"Park Lane," by Percy White (A. Constable and Co.), records experiences in financial life. J. Tully Drew has brought into existence a huge financial machine which he calls the "Oleptic"—a machine which in many respects resembles the involved series of companies which owed its origin to Mr. Jabez B. Balfour, of unhappy memory. Drew married first one Mary Banfield, and, on her death, Pauline Bartlett, the daughter of an eminent philanthropist who had made a fortune out of dog biscuits. The brother of his first wife, Andrew Banfield, is rescued by him from an unsuitable marriage, but, unfortunately for him, the lady whom he deemed unsuitable became the wife of one Gerald Oxley, a younger son of Lord Oxley. In process of time Gerald became Lord Oxley, and the lady maintained her unfriendly feelings towards Drew. These were emphasised by Drew's conduct, and the end was a financial duel, in which the "Oleptic" received its quietus. The book is pleasantly written, and the love stories running through it are interesting.

"The Wars of Peace," by A. F. Wilson (a copy of which reaches us from Mr. E. W. Cole), is a history of labour troubles in a small town in the United States. A side interest is an inside view of the "trust" system. Allison Hardy organises a combination of mill-owners, and in the process has to do some work which he finds unpalatable. But his only son finds the work still more unpalatable; so much so that he enters into opposition to his father and tries—indirectly, but effectually—to break down the "combine." There is not much of the pleasant element about the story, and even the love episodes are overshadowed by the sordid relations created between employer and employee. The book is well written, and some of the incidents—notably the burning of Teddy Hardy's mill, the last recorded meeting between Allison Hardy and his wife—are dramatic in their force and tensity.

"People of the Whirlpool," by the author of "The Garden of a Commuter's Wife" (a copy of which comes to us from Mr. E. W. Cole), is an agreeable account of life in a "between seasons" resort for New York society folk. The author is the happy mother of twins, but outside her family interests she is concerned in the domestic life of more than one of the old New York people, and is enabled to help in the maintenance of friendly relations between the people who are "in society" and the people who are not. His descriptions of New York—unfashionable New York—are admirable, and generally the story goes with a force and readiness which the reader cannot fail to admire.

CRITICISM.

Dear Herald, I write to ask, if you please,
My mind not to worry, brain not to tease
With problems at draughts which have an error,
For such to me are really a terror.

In five eighty-four black moves and must win,
But if White is careful Black will fall in;
With White's second move he goes to thirteen,
And that Black conquers is plain to be seen.

But White if he's wise this move will not make
For twenty-six twenty-two he should take,
Then you will find if there is not a flaw
Black must be clever to make it a draw.—A. E. P.

The position referred to stands—Black, 2, 6, 7, 10, 14, King on 15; White, 13, 16, 17, 21, 25, King on 8. The play for a win in solution ran thus—6—9, 13—6, 2—9, 17—13, &c. Our critic gives 26—22 for a draw, which I admit appears good. Can anyone win for Black prior to or after 25—22?

NOTES.

The Glebe Club since entering into possession of the fine premises, St. John's-road, off Glebe-road, have vastly increased its strength, several strong players having joined. I have been advised they are prepared to put a major or a junior team in the field against any club desirous of testing their skill. The major and junior tourneys are proceeding apace. Among the first grade players some very interesting battles have been fought. Mr. J. Lee met Mr. E. Grant during the week, who to Lee's surprise held his own in an able manner. E. G. having a natural talent for the game, without any knowledge of book, is able to hold his own with the best, and it would not surprise me to hear he carried off the first prize in the major tourney.

A tourney which has been in progress at the West Sydney Club is drawing pretty well to a close. I have been informed one of the leading players has scored 15 out of 16 possible points, which speaks well for his chance. As the handicap is a sealed one it would be a hard matter to tip the winner.

The East Sydney players, as of yore, meet at Holmes's, where some fine games are played.

The Foresters gave up their room in the Town Hall. A few of their best players having joined the Glebe Club they were unable to keep on; nevertheless a strong contingent remained true to their old love, and meet at Coblin's, near the scene of former triumphs.

The S.S.A.C., which for years was the premier club of New South Wales, is in a very low state. It is hoped a move will be made shortly to liven it up. Over 20 have signified they will rejoin if proper accommodation is afforded.

SOFT WHITE HANDS IN A SINGLE NIGHT.—Soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry thoroughly and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure and purest of emollients. Wear, during the night, old, loose kid gloves. For red, rough, chapped, and discoloured hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, shapeless nails with painful finger ends, this treatment is simply wonderful.—Advt.

THE MAY REVIEWS.

THE CONTEMPORARY.

The discussion of the prospect of a change in the Government goes on apace. A contribution here by Mr. J. A. Spender deals with "The Liberal Opportunity." He says the Government is undoubtedly on the down grade, and reasons from the rule that there is usually no recovery for a Ministry once fairly started on the downward course. The remedies proposed show the real cause of weakness—reduction of the income tax, conciliation of the brewers, abandonment of the army corps project, and so on. It is even suggested that Mr. Chamberlain might discover something really popular to take the place of the war, which he seems to have attempted with his preferential duties and old-age pension proposition. It is shown that the Liberal vote, as reckoned up from by-elections since 1900, is nearly 14,000 higher than its high-water mark in 1885, while the Conservative has declined by about 4000 since the last general election, and nearly the same number below the Liberal total. The Fourth party threatens to embarrass the Unionists, and the Labour movement the Opposition. Mr. Spender points out that the rank and file Ministerialist, whom the Whip expects to vote and say nothing, has always a tendency to find a long term for his own side in office a dull business. It is small wonder if the time comes when he pines for opposition and its chances, he says; and on the other hand recent trades union law decisions have stirred working-class politicians into new life. The controversy between the Imperialists and the anti-Imperialists, again, is said here to exactly reproduce that between Palmerston and the Cobdenites. But the writer asserts that if the Liberal party is to exist any longer as we have known it the effort must be made now or never.

A contribution to the woman suffrage argument is offered by Frances Power Cobbe. It is a reprint of a lecture, full of italics and capital letters. Replying to the contemptuous query addressed to women, as to where are their "Macbeth" and "Hamlet," she cheerfully answers nowhere unless Sappho attained it, and her books "men have unfortunately managed to lose." Queen Elizabeth, Catherine the Great, the Chinese Dowager are among the types adduced of great women, but some of the examples are unfortunate if intended as illustrations of woman's improving influence.

The trade of the great nations is the subject of a paper by Mark Warren, who affects to believe that England is in a state of senile sluggishness. Some of his statements are extreme. "Young America has won all our trade by its infinite superiority, and has driven our merchants from the markets of the world," is one of them, but it and others are intended as examples of what the adverse critics say. He inquires here as to how far they are founded on facts, and his tables are certainly informing. Thus one clearly-designed diagram shows a rise in British general trade, with fluctuations, from 639 millions sterling in 1876 to 880 in 1900, while Germany rose in the same period from 380 to 560. The general depression in the early nineties is strongly brought out. The import trade shows a similar sort of increase, but the United Kingdom comes second to the United States in exports since 1900; Germany and France coming next in order. The article is loaded with figures which it would be tedious to quote, but he shows that the percentage of the world's trade during five years ended 1900 was 37·7 with the United Kingdom, 24·2 German, 20·1 French, 19·0 United States. He concludes that the decay of British commerce is a malignant myth, that England's position of premier trading nation is not in jeopardy, that contemptuous views on the subject are due to rank ignorance, and that there is nothing in the condition of the world's trade to give reasonable ground for alarm as to the future.

Frederick Soddy offers an account of the researches of Professor Rutherford, at M'Gill University, into the properties of radium, thorium, and uranium, and the advances in radio activity. The interpretation of Dante, Faust in music, sobriety in Germany, the army problem, and Dr. Dillon on the Baghdad railway are among other noticeable contents.

THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

"What is the advantage of foreign trade?" asks the Right Hon. Leonard Courtney, who holds that the British people do not realise any increase in industry or commerce by the widening of the Empire's borders. He follows J. A. Hobson's book on Imperialism in believing that trade development with independent countries has been greater and more profitable than anything gained by trade in regions brought under the flag. Speaking from the statistical returns, he says the exports to foreign countries, exclusive of re-exports, have been nearly double those to the colonies, whose proportion has been dropping during the last 15 years of exaggerated Imperialism. Mr. Courtney ridicules the idea of Mr. Carnegie that commerce with other countries could without difficulty be displaced by an equal commerce at home. On the question of food taxes, he speaks of the necessity to starve and reduce the population to the level sustainable if the national wants were supplied at home. "Freetrade in corn," he says, replying by anticipation to Mr. Chamberlain, "has, in fact, increased the quantity of our industry and the number of our population to a degree which incalculably outweighs the diminution of agricultural produce and the reduction of agricultural labourers."

Deterioration in the national physique is written about by G. F. Shee, who considers that the modern advancement in sanitary science and hygiene are not sufficient to countercheck the results of the economic conditions of industrial life and the unavoidable absorption of the population into big towns. Hundreds of thousands of people whose forefathers lived healthily in the country now live in the towns. He advocates the adoption of some system of physical training for the whole nation, such as the Continental nations have. The army figures quoted show that while in 1845 only 105 per thousand men were under 5ft. 6in., in 1900 the total was 565. In 1900 men of 5ft. were allowed for the first time to enlist, the standard having been gradually lowered since 1872. The admissible weight has gone down to 7st. 2lb., and the chest measurement to 33in. Boys enlisted under 17 years of age are excluded from this calculation, but they numbered 35·6 per 1000 in 1900. As to the general health of the army, it is shown that while 10·6 per thousand of the German soldiers are constantly non-effective through sickness, the British rate is 46·08. Then the birth-rate has fallen from 36·3 in 1876 to 29·4 in 1896. In Germany there is shown an enormous physical development in spite of three great wars, and in France the nation is improving in stature, while advance in French physique during 30 years has been often remarked. Universal military training is advocated, and Lord Rosebery's remark pertinently quoted that "it is no use having an Empire without an Imperial race."

Some opinions about the canals in Mars, by the Rev. Edmund Ledger, have an added interest since the cabled news of the supposed projection noticed by an American observer. The writer, who is the Gresham lecturer in astronomy, gives a history of the finding of these markings by Schiaparelli, Lowell, and others, but adds that the general consensus of astronomical opinion was expressed by Mr. Maunder in 1895. "Canals in the sense of being artificial productions, the markings in Mars which bear that name certainly are not." All the theories are improbable, such as that they are tracks drawn by meteorites or by minor planets, fissures in the crusts due to contraction, or rising vapours. "Are they really there?" he asks, and adduces evidences to show that the appearance of canals is a common result of fatigue of the eye, and suggests that during the next appositions of Mars some skilful nerve specialists and oculists should work in conjunction with astronomical observers.

O. Eltzbacher throws some light on the working of the social democratic party in Germany. It numbers about two and a half millions of men voting under universal suffrage. Nobiling's attempt to assassinate the aged Emperor gave occasion for the socialist law in 1878, but Bismarck's severe measures seemed in the long run to pull the party together. Its vote rose from 312,000 in 1881 to 2,107,000 in 1898, being then over a quarter of the whole polled. The present Kaiser took a new method, but gradually drifted back into the old ways. Now, says the writer, the well-to-do liberal citizens are turning away from the liberal parties and joining social democracy in the hope of reforms from that party.

Other contributors deal with the Irish Land Bill, London congestion, radium and its position in nature, and some more letters of Mrs. Carlyle.

"The Lost Art of Singing" is a readable paper. "To-day we have either the declaimer or the 'diseur,'" writes Mr. Tuker; "we have no longer the 'cantante.' We roar, scream, or warble, we talk or we declaim, we pour out sentiment and classical taste, but we do not sing."

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

"The Revenge for Fashoda" is the title of a paper by "Vates," somewhat on the lines of the "Battle of Dorking," in which a French invasion of England is sketched. It is cleverly done, and reads plausibly enough. On March 1, 1905, the Emperor of Germany is lost in a dirigible balloon and reported drowned. His successor is led by the party which desires a coalition of Germany, France, and Russia to acquire England's colonies and destroy her dominion on the seas. At this time the Republic in France is overturned in the interests of Prince Napoleon, trouble arises on the Indian frontier, war is on with Russia, the navy is largely abroad, Australia is menaced by foreign cruisers, and the cables are suddenly cut. Some French ships are manœuvring in the North Sea, when France declares some interference with her merchantmen in the Ægean an act of war, and a descent in force is made in a flotilla of specially prepared boats. The operations at this point are described—the alarm of the country, the fruitless resistance, the capture of the Prince of Wales, the breakdown of our army organisation; and the enemy's victorious march on London is only prevented by a great naval victory won by our returning fleet off the mouth of the Channel. The German Admiral is not ready to co-operate with the invader, and the attempt breaks down on the arrival of our fleet off the Humber. The moral of the sketch is put into the mouth of the French General. "My dear sir," he says, "a merciful heaven, always too good to you, scorched you by holding you over the pit of hell during the Boer war. The war was hardly well over before you had forgotten the lesson. . . . You will not learn from scorching. You love shams. You will have to go down into the pit. Good-bye."

There is an anonymous paper on the Baghdad imbroglio which is interesting in itself but discounted somewhat by an interleaved notification by the editor that the British Government had disavowed all official interest and concern in the Baghdad railway since the article was written. It is made clear that Germany aims at obtaining the upper hand in control.

"The Macedonian Conspiracy" is again made the subject of discussion, this time in a contribution by Herbert Vivian. He shares the views we have already quoted. "The Turks proved their moderation during the Greek campaign," he says, "and they may be trusted to act with equal wisdom in pacifying Macedonia."

There is a good article by W. R. Lawson, contrasting the two budgets of 1860 and 1903. Frances Gribble has some severe strictures on the art of Lord Lytton. The new Dante play, Shakespeare's acquaintance with the Greek tragedies, and Samuel Pepys are among other subjects treated, and there are two sonnets on Dr. Wallace's theory of our place in the universe.

NEW SOUTH WALES v. VICTORIA.

This important fixture, which took place on Monday last, was the chess event of the week. The New South Wales team met at the Manhattan Tea Rooms, George-street, and their opponents at the Melbourne Stock Exchange. Play continued from 11.30 a.m., with adjournments for lunch and dinner, until 10.30 p.m., when the unfinished games, five in number, were referred to Mr. Charlick, the South Australian master, for adjudication, and his decision is anxiously awaited. Mr. Spedding, as hon. secretary of the N.S.W. Chess Association, was manager of our team, and Mr. Wilson captained the Victorians. Mr. Henning was umpire for us in Melbourne, and Mr. M'Donnell for Victoria at this end. The time limit was 36 moves for the first two hours and 18 moves an hour thereafter. The openings adopted:—Boards 1, 2, 3, Petroff; 4, 5, 10, Ruy Lopez; 6, Queen's Gambit Declined; 7, Centre; 8, Evans; and 9, Centre Counter. Interested onlookers lent animation to the scene, Messrs. Jacobsen, M'Donnell, Beeby, Beaumont, Christensen, Johnston, Walshe, Harris, Bamford, Cowley, Paige, Hardaker, Henderson, Nash, Revs. A. Miller and N. J. Cocks, amongst others. A special word of praise is due to Mr. Macrow, the operator at this end, for his phenomenal accuracy. Mr. Taylour, who is a successful match-player, and combines a good knowledge of "book" with plenty of dash when the occasion safely permits of that dangerous quality, scored first win for New South Wales by defeating Rev. T. Betts, who did not seem very happy in the defence he had adopted. Mr. Hay (Vic.) next won from Mr. Mackenzie (N.S.W.), taking full advantage of his opportunities. Mr. Crakenthorp (N.S.W.), playing carefully, exacted the full penalty of a miscalculation on his opponent's part, and Mr. Wilson resigned next. Mr. Turner (N.S.W.) took advantage of a cramped game played by Mr. Weldon, and secured a popular win. The game between Dr. Lancaster (N.S.W.), who had shown his public spirit by journeying from Kempsey on purpose to take his board, and Mr. Grant, who is well known to Sydney players, was drawn, and left the position—New South Wales, 3½; Victoria, 1½; unfinished, 5.

The pairing was:—

The Selection of Inter-state Teams.—"We lose by treaties what we gain by arms." In the days not so long ago, when the chess public here was dissatisfied with the existing state of things, one of the chiefest grounds of complaint was the mode of selecting inter-state teams. There can be no question that the N.S.W.C.A. is the proper body to make the selection; but the mode of selection is at least open to criticism. "The greatest good of greatest number" holds good in chess as in other things, and any system which brings into play a healthy feeling of rivalry has already done much to recommend itself. It cannot be said that the system of picking teams outright does this, to judge by the number of absentees at the call of play, match after match. If all the players who were qualified to play off for a place in the inter-state team were to be selected to play in a tourney against one another, the winners, after their hard struggle, would not be likely to absent themselves when the day came when they were to reap the fruits of their labour. Secondly, there are always a number of players who are so evenly matched that it is unwise for any committee, however conversant with their play, to select one in preference to another, when the easy and obvious method of enabling them to decide the matter themselves is available. A player's strength is made up of his experience, his grasp of principles, and his "form"—this test of match play to qualify for a place is the best test of this last. A neglect of it may work injustice to the State—it can hardly fail to do so to the individual.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Until recent years the often-quoted truism "that the great art centres of the world have opportunities for examining the tendencies of musical thought and progress which do not exist in Australia" referred exclusively to European capitals. Now, however, New York must undoubtedly be placed amongst the chief of these centres. To realise this more exactly we must remember that this city of three millions can boast an operatic season longer than that at Covent Garden, in a theatre (the Metropolitan Opera House) which seats larger audiences, and where more new works are produced. No doubt still truer art conditions exist altogether away from the English-speaking communities. At Paris, Vienna, Berlin, Milan, Rome, the subsidies of the State conduce to more frequent operatic representation. However, for that very reason, the opera becomes "an everyday affair," and the performances are not upon quite such a grand scale as those in New York and London. These preliminary facts are probably not mentioned in Joseph Sohn's "Lessons of the Operatic Season in New York" (1903), because they are so generally understood throughout the United States. The first "lesson" which this well-known writer derives from this year's season of German, French, and Italian opera, in which all the greatest singers of the world appeared, is this—that art, in the national sense, is slowly but surely becoming extinct. It is true that in Russia and Bohemia pronounced national characteristics are still developed, but it is contended that a transition-period of music has been reached upon which cosmopolitan influences are at work, and that Wagner even yet represents the music of the future.

The same transition-period has been reached by the performers. At one time the opera of Italy and France was distinctively national, so closely in touch with the people and the current events of the day which form history that there arose whole dynasties of singers who perpetuated the traditions of artistic interpretation which they inherited from the cradle. Now, however, the great singers of the day are called upon to cover more ground, and both localisation and concentration have been lost. The point not yet reached by the singers of the day as a body is the proper relation between the declamatory and the lyrical elements in singing. The writer quotes the names of various artists not known in Australia who are either too dramatic or too lyrical in style. Sydney operagoers will grasp this point more readily by contrasting the too declamatory style of Herr Arens with that of such a purely lyric artist as Carlo Dani. It may, perhaps, not be too far from the subject to add that one of the most astonishing experiences afforded us here arose from the choice of Herr Louis Arens by Mme. Melba as her tenor for a season of Italian opera in her own country. The robust, declamatory tenor of the Wagner season two years before naturally failed to do himself justice in "Rigoletto" and "La Traviata"—thus illustrating the contention of Mr. Sohn to the extent of showing that in this singer the lyrical element had not been properly fused in a style the foundation of which was essentially declamatory. But this writer makes a further complaint against the great singers of the day. He contends that they are not sufficiently dramatic in their style, and that if Wagnerian music-drama occasionally proves heavy, it is because the soloists drag the time, hamper and perplex the conductor, and endeavour to linger upon the more beautiful and effective of their tones for vocal effect when they should be animated, lively, and, as aforesaid, dramatic.

Mr. J. E. A. Malone, writing from Daly's Theatre, London, informs Mr. J. C. Williamson that he has on offer for him the Australasian rights of "The Medal and the Maid." This is a new musical comedy composed by Sydney Jones, just produced at the Lyric Theatre. Mr. Malone states that "The Medal and the Maid" is doing enormous business, but that he will see it again and watch it carefully in Mr. Williamson's interests. The plot deals with a fashionable school at Cannes for rich young ladies only, who are taught the fastest ways of killing time by the school-mistress (Miss Ada Reeve) instead of the ordinary accomplishments of "Shakespeare and the musical glasses." Miss Reeve's song, "My Curriculum," is the hit of the piece. In the second act all the young ladies are captured by brigands and placed upon a desert Grecian island in the Ionian Sea. This situation, by a coincidence, suggests that of "Moustique," the comic opera by Henri Kowalski, from which little Miss Maud M'Carthy, since risen to fame as a violinist, sang and danced "I am a Worthy Little Modstique" at society gatherings in the most captivating way. In the new piece at the Lyric, Merva, an heiress, and Josephine, a flower-seller, change costumes, and are ultimately re-identified by means of a Balaclava medal which gives the piece part of its alliterative title. Mr. J. C. Williamson has received news that Miss Maud Jeffries, Mr. Julius Knight, and the other members of Mr. Beerbohm Tree's Company will sail from London just a month hence, opening in Melbourne in September. The "Are You a Mason?" Company will open in Auckland on Monday. They did record business at Newcastle, but trouble was occasioned by the determination of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ward to reach Sydney earlier than others of the party. They accordingly sailed after Tuesday night's performance, but the steamer broke her shaft at daylight, and in the result, the New Zealand steamer Waikare, instead of sailing at noon, had to be held back until 2.30 for the missing ones. The Royal Comic Opera Company opened at Perth on Thursday with "Paul Jones," not previously staged in that city. The "Sherlock Holmes" Company will sail from Hobart so as to reach Sydney the day before they open in "If I Were King," due at the Theatre Royal next Saturday.

In Melbourne the production of "As You Like It," inspired by Mr. Robert Courtneidge, is declared to surpass in beauty that of "Midsummer Night's Dream." Mr. George Musgrove brought out the scenery for both pieces from the Manchester Theatre, and in "As You Like It" the forest tableaux by Messrs. Hawes-Craven, Tritschle, and M'Cleery are especially admired. Mr. Craven, for long years chief scenic artist for Irving at the Lyceum, is responsible for a view of "the rise of the full moon behind a dark mass of trees crowning a thickly-timbered ridge." At Her Majesty's Theatre the Neill-Frawley Company has done well with "Secret Service," which is to be replaced this evening with "Madame Sans-Gene," originally staged here by the Broughs, in London by the Irving-Terry combination, and in Paris by Mme. Rejane. Mr. Daniel Frawley, who in the street suggests himself as an Irish-American descendant of the great Napoleon, the profile forming quite a likeness, will be associated with Miss Mary Van Buren as the vivacious washerwoman. Mr. John F. Sheridan has produced "The Lady Slavey" with success at the Bijou Theatre, whilst at the Theatre Royal Mr. Bland Holt has staged "The Breaking of the Drought."

Mr. George Grimm is still studying and singing in London, where he has had the pleasure of a meeting with Edward M'Dowell, the American pianist, to whose pianoforte compositions so much prominence was given during Antonia Dolores' recitals by Mr. Clarence Newell. Mr. M'Dowell made his English debut with the London Philharmonic Society on May 4, when he played a piano concerto of his own. Mr. Grimm attended this concert, and has also been singing some of M'Dowell's songs. During the last week in April the Sydney baritone sang at five different concerts in London, including the Festival Dinner of the Royal Society of St. George at the Hotel Cecil. Besides passing Sir George Martin's examination appointing him an authorised deputy for St. Paul's Cathedral Choir, Mr. Grimm has secured the A.R.C.M., in which he won a specially endorsed certificate in theory, singing, and piano accompaniment for an aggregate of 80 per cent. marks. Mr. Grimm, who is still studying at the Guildhall School of Music, is evidently making the best possible use of his time, and he also appears to be thoroughly enjoying this his first visit to London.

Mr. J. Carter-Edwards, who played so many fine characters here during the various Wilson Barrett seasons, writes to Mr. E. Lewis Scott that the accidental poisoning of the actor-manager during his Easter provincial tour was much more serious than the press and public realised. A chemist gave Mr. Barrett 30 grains of aconite in one pill instead of dividing it amongst 20 pills. George Barrett, the actor-manager's nephew, held the unconscious tragedian in his arms under the impression that he had expired, and probably the only thing that saved him was the fact that he had just swallowed a large bowl of soup, and that he had been prescribed aconite for some time before. Mr. Wilson Barrett is now happily once more at the full flood tide of his arduous career, and he still has round him nearly all the artists who were with him in Sydney.

BILIOUSNESS,
INDIGESTION,
HEADACHE, and LASSITUDE
ARE PERMANENTLY REMOVED BY THE USE OF KUTNOW'S POWDER.

READ THE IMPRESSIVE TESTIMONY BELOW.

Unquestionably the necessity of vigorous health is seriously personal to everyone, and therein lies the value of Kutnow's Powder, which is transcendentally superior to any known remedy of the age. Its purity, its painless action, its prompt alleviation of suffering, and its strengthening, refreshing, invigorating virtues entitle it to the splendid tribute to its merit which was paid when the Court Physicians prescribed Kutnow's Powder for Members of the Royal Family.

Taken in the early morning, immediately on rising, a dessert-spoonful of Kutnow's is delightfully exhilarating and refreshing—a cup of hot tea 15 minutes later hastens its beneficial action—which is prompt and painless.

Instantly the improvement in energy is felt, a joyous feeling of vigorous health and a keen appetite renders one ready for breakfast and work, the magnetic enthusiasm of youth pervades the whole system, the thrilling sensation of acute perception and brain power induces renewed confidence.

Business difficulties disappear under shrewd solution; in fact, like all complicated and delicate machinery, the cleansing operation at once produces the perfect contributory working of all the functions which go to make a perfect man, who thus becomes himself again, eats well, works well, and sleeps well.

HOLD FAST TO THAT WHICH IS GOOD.

CAUTION.—There are unscrupulous dealers who for the sake of extra profit try to sell imitations of Kutnow's Powder. These may cost a few pence less, but are worthless, and consequently dear at any price. Insist upon having Kutnow's, and do not allow yourself to be persuaded to accept any substitute.

THERE IS ONLY ONE GENUINE KUTNOW'S POWDER.

MEDICAL APPROVAL.

"Dear Sirs,—I am constantly prescribing Kutnow's Powder, with invariably good results. I also use it myself in order to regulate the inactivity of the digestive and excretory organs. It is especially beneficial in stimulating a sluggish liver, preventing biliousness and dyspepsia, and permanently removes the baneful effects of chronic constipation.

"Yours truly,
"W. R. JONES, M.D."
Professor of Medical Chemistry and Toxicology,
University College, June 3, 1901.

"Birmingham Medical College,
"Feb. 13, 1901.

"Gentlemen,—I have tried Kutnow's Powder, and am pleased to say that the results have been very satisfactory. I have been a sufferer for the last two years with chronic Lithemia, and have been greatly improved since I began the use of Kutnow's Powder. I have prescribed it freely, and shall continue to do so.

"Yours, truly,
"B. L. WYMAN, M.D."

PROFESSOR LAWSON TAIT, M.D., the Great Surgeon and Therapeutist, wrote:

"Lawson Tait highly recommends Kutnow's Powder."

THE LATE SURGEON-MAJOR PARKE,
D.C.L., F.R.C.S.I., &c.
(late of the Emin Pacha Relief Expedition under Stanley), says in the "Book of Climates":

"Epsom and Glauber Salts are also very useful, but everyone should provide himself with Kutnow's Powder, which, being pleasant as well as safe and effectual, is preferable to either."

GENERAL APPROVAL.

"Care of National Bank (Ltd.),
Boshof, Orange River Colony,
South Africa, 19th July, 1902.

"Dear Sirs,—Although I have only used your Kutnow's Powder for a week I find it has a most beneficial effect, and shall gladly recommend it to anyone suffering. Knowing now that it can be obtained at Lennon's I shall not be without a bottle. The more your Powder is used the more benefit to the public.

"Yours very truly,
"L. MORGAN."

"10 Featherstone-buildings,
"Bedford-row, W.C.,
"18th July, 1902.

"Dear Sirs,—I must certainly endorse the opinion of your numerous eminent correspondents. The excellence of your Kutnow's Powder cannot be too highly rated. It accomplishes all that is claimed for it.

"E. ST. CLAIR."

"Florida Estate, St. John's,
"Grenada, Brit. W. Indies,
"16th July, 1902.

"Dear Sirs,—I have used your Kutnow's Powder, and have great pleasure in saying that I am indeed delighted with its virtues, as it has done all the good I expected. I am recommending it to my many friends, and am pleased to do so because of its great value.

"Yours faithfully, P. MENDS."

"Galtee Castle, Mitchelstown,
"Co. Cork, 20th Jan., 1902.

"Please send me two more bottles of your Effervescent Powder. The bottle you sent me last I find is doing me a great deal of good, and I am pleased to say I am still feeling a great deal better since taking your Powder.

Yours faithfully,
"CHARLES DURRANT."

Irish Nationalists and the King—Secrets of the Budget—Sunshine in South Africa—Mr. Balfour's Recantation—An Interesting Find—Champagne Vintages—An Historic Town House.

WESTMINSTER, May 8.

An Irish Nationalist member, not chiefly notable for public expression of loyalty to the Throne, tells me the King is certain to have a popular welcome during his forthcoming visit to Ireland, exceeding anything evoked on behalf of Queen Victoria. Personally, whilst Prince of Wales, his Majesty was a favourite with the Irish people. But for political reasons enforced by the Parliamentary party they have dissembled their love. Rightly or wrongly they have convinced themselves that his Majesty is actually the originator and encourager of the new policy that finds expression in the Irish Land Purchase Bill. Long habit restrains them from expression of gratitude to Ministers avowedly responsible for the Bill. The happy accident of the visit of the King taking place just now will give them an opportunity of indulgence in constitutional exuberance of good spirits that will be eagerly seized. "The King," says the honourable member, who certainly has fullest opportunity of gauging Nationalist feeling, "had a warm reception in Paris. It is nothing to what will be seen and heard in Dublin on the day of his arrival."

Some day, in someone's memoirs, the story of the surprise of Mr. Ritchie's first budget, the abolition of the Corn Tax, will be told in detail. I hear some hints on the subject which suggest its interesting character. The idea was Mr. Ritchie's own, its submission to the Cabinet creating as much surprise as did the announcement in the House of Commons. Mr. Chamberlain was dead against it, which, taken in conjunction with the natural indisposition of other members of the Cabinet to eat words emphatically spoken just a year ago, would seem to imply the hopelessness of the cause. Mr. Ritchie, however, stuck to his point, which he chiefly pressed home by insistence on that openness to misrepresentation pertaining to a bread tax which he cynically admitted in his budget speech. The view Mr. Chamberlain took, still holds, and in private conversation expresses with characteristic frankness, is that, rightly or wrongly, the Corn Tax reimposed had come to stay. Any political damage it had done to the Government in view of a general election was irrevocable. To abolish it was an admission of error not calculated to improve their position. As a matter of fact, it was demonstrated that the consumer did not appreciably suffer from the imposition of a shilling tax, whilst it conveniently widened the basis of national revenue and yielded the respectable sum of two and a half millions. That Mr. Chamberlain was correct in his view of the tactical position is proved by the absence of anything like popular enthusiasm at the repeal of the shilling tax, whilst on the other hand there is active revolt within the Ministerial ranks led by Mr. Chaplin and Mr. James Lowther.

Apart from these considerations of political strategy, the procedure places prominent members of the party in painful predicament. Mr. Arthur Balfour, with customary gay courage, has already faced his, explaining that the arguments he used last April to demonstrate the desirability of reimposing a corn tax are applicable to its abolition in the April following. A statesman less light-hearted amuses his friends by the sombre gravity of his complaint. "What am I to do now?" asks Lord Goschen, nervously wringing his hands. "Last year they got me to make a speech in the House of Lords, pledging my reputation as a freetrader, and my renown as a financier, in demonstration of the assertion that the imposition of the shilling tax on corn was not only innoxious but was the wisest and most beneficent thing that could be done for the people of England. How can I get up in the House of Lords 12 months later and defend its abolition as against the alternative of reduction of the duty on tea?"

The current of events in the House of Commons has this week been varied by delivery of two epoch-marking speeches. It is difficult to say which more deeply moved a crowded House, the Premier's outburst of confidence on the Irish land question, or Mr. Chamberlain's picture of the Transvaal, rising from the ashes of the war, already blooming in fuller prosperity. Both had the charm of the unexpected. It was generally understood that the resolution submitted in Committee of Supply on which the Transvaal loan is based would be in charge of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and would prove a formal business. The consequence was that when Mr. Chamberlain rose the House presented the, to him, unfamiliar aspect of wastes of empty benches. Speaking at exceptional length—as an old Parliamentary hand he knows the advantage of limiting his addresses within the space of an hour—there was time for the audience to gather, and when at the end of an hour and 40 minutes he resumed his seat the House was crowded.

He was studiously quiet and unassuming, rather conversing with the House than delivering to it a momentous speech. There was not a flower of rhetoric in his address, nor, stranger still, an orchid in his buttonhole. One does not remember an earlier appearance of the Colonial Secretary at the table shorn of his floral decoration. The effect of his description of the accomplished and progressive prosperity of the newly-acquired colonies was not least profound in the quarter to which he directly addressed himself, the Opposition camp. It was felt that peace had her victories not less renowned than war, and that the pacification of the lately riven territories is a greater triumph than the capture of Bloemfontein and Pretoria.

The Premier's testimony on the Irish land question had the dramatic quality of the appearance of a quite unexpected personage amongst those who have "found salvation" at an army meeting. He was absent throughout the speeches of the mover and seconder of the rejection of the Irish Land Bill upon which his own remarks were based. One of his colleagues tells me that the absence was necessitated by business of Cabinet importance in his own room. It was of a character quite apart from Ireland, dealing with critical affairs in relation to the Persian Gulf. It was indicative of the enormous pressure upon a Prime Minister, that hurrying from such a council, on whose issue possibly lay the contingency of peace or war, he found himself immediately confronted by a political question of the highest home interest.

He faced the situation without sign of overwrought energy, mental or physical. It would have been hard enough in the circumstances of the hour to have to reply to gentlemen opposite. Much more difficult and delicate was the task of dealing with fresh revolt in his own camp. Neither the mover nor the seconder of the hostile amendment is personally of great importance on the Ministerial side. But they represented perhaps the majority of the party, who look with traditional suspicion on a Unionist Ministry trafficking with the Nationalists, more especially at the expense of the British taxpayer. More than 30 years ago Mr. Gladstone began his campaign against Irish landlordism. Up to the last he was fought foot by foot by the party whom alike by birth, associations, and social position, Mr. Balfour prominently represents. On Monday the hushed House heard the Premier emphatically declare, "In Ireland we have a land system under which the landlord does not spend a shilling. It is the most intolerable land system the world has ever seen. I can imagine no fault attaching to any land system that is not added to the inherent badness of the Irish." Well might Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, recovering his breath, declare this to be one of the most masterly vindications of Irish land reform he had ever heard. The pity of it is Mr. Gladstone did not survive to hear it.

Mr. John Murray, of the famous publishing house in Albemarle-street, has had a great find. In an old family mansion in the north of England he came upon a mass of manuscript, which, upon investigation, he found to contain the diaries and correspondence of one Thomas Creevey, some time member for Thetford and later for Appleby. Though unknown to fame, not finding a niche in the "Dictionary of National Biography," Mr. Creevey was held worthy of Ministerial office, serving for some years as Secretary to the now extinct Board of Control. His record lies between the end of the eighteenth century and the accession of Queen Victoria. The treasure trove was placed in the hands of Sir Herbert Maxwell, who has nearly completed the editing, and the book will be forthcoming in the autumn. Both the diaries and correspondence are full and minute. Sir Herbert tells me that some of the records and comments upon the doings of the Prince who was afterwards George IV., and his boon companions, are not suitable for publication. But there remains enough to make the book of value only less than the Greville Memoirs and the Croker Papers. Mr. Creevey was a contemporary of Croker, viewing current events from the opposite political camp.

The representative of a great wine import house, who has just returned from a visit to the champagne country, gives me some interesting information with respect to the most recent vintages. Since 1893, the best champagne year is 1898, rather a long jump after the rare sequence of 1892 and '93 which followed on the splendid vintage of 1889. He says the wine of '98 will closely resemble the 1889 vintage. The 1899 crop is only ordinary. But the 1900 already shows signs of making its mark, having, according to the expert, something of the character of the long-vanished but well-remembered vintage of 1865.

In the threatened demolition of the Albany in order to make room for modern flats Piccadilly will lose one of its landmarks and London one of its historic treasures. The residential chambers are best known by the passage in Trevelyn's "Life of Macauley," where the historian joyfully records his instalment at an address where he might lead a college life in the West End of London. Earlier residents at the Albany were George Canning, Lord Althorpe, Lord Byron, who wrote "Lara" in "my new apartments, spacious and roomy for my books and sabres," Lord Lytton, Lord Brougham, and Mr. Gladstone, who began his life in London at the Albany. Among present residents is Sir Harry Keppel, who commanded the Naval Brigade in the Crimean War, and, if he lives six years longer, will be a centenarian. A constant visitor to the old sailor is the Queen. A short time ago Sir Harry endeavoured to induce his co-lessees to invest in a lift for the convenience of her Majesty. But they said she did not visit them, and suggested that the Admiral would acknowledge special Royal favour by building the lift at his own charge.

A WOMAN'S LETTER.

THE KING'S TOUR.

LONDON W., May 8.

The King is safely back in his own country after a wonderfully successful series of visits to the Latin countries of the Continent. The enthusiasm for his Majesty began in Portugal, and grew in volume until he reached the Eternal City itself, where, contrary to the wishes of a narrow-minded faction, he was received by the Pope on such terms of intimacy that their interview was held tete-a-tete, without witnesses or attendants. This was a fitting tribute from the two great Temporal and Spiritual rulers of the world. One to the other they could meet and discuss whatever subjects they had nearest at heart entirely alone.

France welcomed our King with open arms. No better silencer could have been given the small horde of gutter pressmen than the complete success of the King's visit to France. He knew the country so well: it was to France that the late Queen so often went to recruit her health. The King had always a personal following there; his geniality and his great grasp of the French language made him welcome whenever he visited Paris, and Paris with one accord welcomed him with kingly honours in addition to the affection the gay city has always felt for him.

It needs little imagination to picture the beautiful town, at her best in the mouth of May, with the Boulevards in the loveliness of freshly leafed chestnut trees, and the Bois de Boulogne looking surpassingly lovely in its wealth of green and brightness, under azure skies so clear and with air so light that only in Egypt and Australia can you match it. There are the historic streets, the Rue Royale, along whose way were drawn in tumbrils Louis XVI. and later the fair Marie Antoinette to the Place Louis XV., renamed in 1793 Place de la Revolution, where stood for so long the dread knife, until the very stones of that beautiful open space, glittering like snow in the sunlight, were crimsoned with the best blood of France. After the Revolution its name was altered to the Place de la Concorde, and the obelisk which was brought from Egypt was placed there so as to obliterate the memories of the Terror. The King drove through this very spot with flags waving, with the shouts and acclamations of a delighted populace, who appreciate more keenly than does any other people the splendour, the refinement, and the etiquette of kingly life.

The King looks much better for his long tour and is quite sunburnt. He chatted merrily to the Prince of Wales, who went to Victoria station to meet him, and one hears on all sides from those who went with his Majesty how entirely successful the Royal tour was.

The Court is in residence at Buckingham Palace at present, and to-night there is a Court, the first of the present season.

SCOTLAND.

Next week the ancient palace of Holyrood will be the scene to which the eyes of Scotswomen are turned. The old palace, which remains practically as Mary Queen of Scots left it, will be thrown open and Court will be held there: true, the King and Queen will live under the roof of Lord Rosebery, because the sanitation of the palace is not considered adequate for the large party in attendance upon their Majesties; but the receptions and levees will be held there, and the little dark room in which Mary sat at supper when Rizzio was dragged out to his doom will be duly visited; so will the bedroom of the unfortunate Queen; and there are still on her bed some needlework and a quilt which are invaluable to the student of stitchery. Even Elizabeth could wield the needle. I think there is a baby's cap which that lion-hearted woman wrought for her sister Queen, which was worn by the baby Prince James, who, in his own person, was later to join Scotland and England in that embrace of interests which has remained unsevered to this day. You cannot mention Holyrood or visit the old palace without feeling the rush of history upon you; it is so unchanged in appearance since the days when it loomed large upon the political history of this country.

THE DECEASED WIFE'S SISTER BILL.

Before touching on lighter matters, having already dwelt upon politics, I must make some comment upon the bill for legalising the marriage with a deceased wife's sister, which was brought before the House of Commons last Friday. It is hardly my province to urge my own views upon my readers. This is a subject upon which most women have their own views already well thought out. From the point of view that it would be more natural that the dead wife would wish her children cared for by her sister in preference to a strange woman it is natural; but I am inclined to think that the living wife might, if the bill were made law, be uncomfortable as to the relations between her sister and her husband during her life, and thus spoil one of the most charming relationships in the world by removing the bar of affinity which has stood so long.

It certainly upsets the scheme of family life, and, as was justly urged, if a man might marry his deceased wife's sister for the convenience of having his children looked after, why should a woman be debarred from marrying her deceased husband's brother. In nine cases out of ten such a marriage would mean that, instead of the widow toiling on for the mere pittance, which is really all a woman gains by work, she might marry her late husband's brother and be comfortable and do better for the children of the first marriage than if she herself worked for them. I would vote heartily for the two sides being considered, for at present the man only is considered and his convenience in having his home and children cared for. The question of relief to the woman in being freed from care and anxiety by marrying the deceased husband's brother never seems to touch the framers of this bill. I do not think it wrong or wicked for a man to marry his deceased wife's sister. I merely think it a pity that such a change in family life should be contemplated; but if relief is afforded to the men in such a case women should be treated with the same consideration.

THE SEASON.

If we could only have some fine weather life in London would be delightful just now. The season has just begun, and people are fresh and inclined for fun and entertaining; but it is hopeless to expect much while the temperature is so low and the rain continues. You get a dull wet morning, then a sudden clear up with blinding sunshine, then low clouds and severe rain-squalls, muddy streets, and quite cold evenings. It always comes as a matter of course when the exhibition opens that we get such cold evenings that to enjoy al fresco amusements is impossible.

DRESS.

But dress is very much to the fore in the minds of women just now. The gowns are ready to wear at this or that function and the actual summer is being prepared for in the shape of linen gowns and the most fairy-like of muslins. I never remember such lovely washing materials as we now have; their name is legion, and cotton has been so treated that it imitates, not only silk but voile and canvas.

The short skirt is having a great boom; it is the very thing for this changeable weather, and women seem to rejoice in the freedom it gives them in getting about. The pleated short skirt is absolutely worn like a uniform. Apparently the dressmakers have not tried to make any other shape, though there are several that might answer if care is given in the cutting. The newest way of mounting these short skirts is to cut the skirt yoke very short on the hips and bring it down into a flat front piece. This yoke is stitched in rows all over, and is the most becoming of all the yokes that have been tried; the back part is also kept quite short. Tweeds in mixture of grey are immensely worn; indeed, grey in wool things has come to stay, for it is no less fashionable in canvas, dark in hue and flecked with white.

The long afternoon gowns are made with wide tucks going the whole length of the skirt, left loose near the knee; and when well cut it is a becoming form of skirt. The backs of these skirts are generally cut with a box pleat, and any trimmings you fancy can be introduced where the tuck is left open. As for trimmings, I am very tired of them—I mean the bought trimmings. Far more fashionable is it to trim your gowns with ruchings and quillings and much gathering mounted on piping cords. Rosettes play an immense part in modern dress. They are quilled up on a foundation and the centre filled in with passementerie ornament, or you make them of ribbon. First run across zig-zag fashion and then drawn up and coiled flat on a round foundation.

Then there is another kind made also of ribbon of wider soft satin. Ribbon first of all gathered across the width at intervals and then fastened off. You then lay this gathered ribbon on a foundation, beginning at the outside and gradually filling up till you get to the centre, which is finished with a little gathered knob, kept quite soft.

These are the newest rosettes for millinery and dress wear. By keeping these centres deeper in colour than the outer edges you arrive at a very good imitation of roses; and you will find in green ribbon that a delightful effect is got by shading the ribbon from light to darker green. Some milliners place in the centre of these rosettes a small ring of tiny roses, which has a very pretty eighteenth-century effect. Marie Antoinette decked her hats thus when at the Trianon, as did her maids of honour.

Small circular wreaths are used on the upturned brims of toques made in the small Banksia variety; or if in red like the rose we see so much of, called the Crimson Rambler.

There is a great run on small flowers and trails of blossom, and for popularity cherries beat everything. You see cherries on blue hats, on red; a new shade of geranium on black hats and on burnt straw, which latter variety covers the head of nine out of every ten women one meets.

London is always a place where things suddenly become a uniform. There is very little independent taste amongst the average run of Englishwomen. Of course there are beautifully-dressed women; many of them, more than there used to be, and they go in for the more exclusive modes; but if you arrived in town to-day you would say, as I do, that the prevailing hat is the burnt-straw variety in every known shape.

Nearly all the hats have flat crowns, or rather, no crowns at all; but they are lifted off the head with bandeaux of velvet on to which are attached flowers, or large soft rosettes of ribbon or tulle. The top of the hat is covered with foliage, or with wreaths of roses or cherries. Underneath the brim at the back droop loops of velvet.

Those clever at making adornments for the neck will doubtless make long scarfs of ribbon and insertion of coffee lace, and run ruchings all round the edges, finishing off each end with some heavy silk or chenille fringe. Of all the ruffles these will be the most popular, and they hang so gracefully from the shoulders and hide none of the best lines of the figures. These should measure three yards along. They suit short people as well as the taller ones, and can be worn by short-necked women as well as those more favoured in length—a thing which makes for improvement on the thick ruffles which have for so long a time spoilt the lines of the figure.

At the throat itself one always finds some new conceit or other. Tiny stoles of cambric, embroidered at the ends, look well with morning blouses. The Col Abbe still holds good here, and those neat little stocks which turn over the neckband are quite as much worn as ever. We do not get back to the linen collar period, though in Paris with all forms of morning dress they are most fashionable.

AN OPERA COAT.

I saw a most lovely opera coat the other night made of rose, coloured chiffon all gauged and drawn, lined with accordion pleated chiffon, and worn with a pelerine and long ends of the material trimmed with some bands of geranium velvet connected with herringbone stitchery. This pelerine was detachable, and could be slipped on over the low body when the coat itself was removed. A huge muff of gathered chiffon went with this charming garment.

All the outdoor wraps are far more like capes than coats, though they are, as far as the body part of them, cut on coat lines. The sleeve portions are cut large, and have the appearance of capes so as to admit the dress sleeves, which in size show no sign of abatement.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Lord Mayor's Drought Relief Fund was held at the Town Hall yesterday. Mr. George Maiden occupied the chair, and there were also present the Rev. J. E. Carruthers, Dr. Burne, Messrs. J. S. Brunton, Frank Grimley, J. P. Gray, V. R. Gosche, and H. C. Brierley (hon. secretary).

A police report in connection with an individual application received from near West Maitland stated that applicant's husband had lost his reason through the drought, and had died in a lunatic asylum in Sydney. The applicant had been left with six children. It was reported that £5 had been sent as a matter of urgency, and the executive voted an additional sum of £10. The secretary was also instructed to forward particulars of the case to the Ladies' Benevolent Society at West Maitland, in order that further relief might be given locally.

The hon. secretary submitted an estimate of the amounts available for the various local committees, as follows:—Angledool, £50; Bingara, £50; Balranald, £100; Brewarrina, £50; Bowen Park, £20; Bogan Gate, £50; Budgerabong, £50; Bourke, £100; Byrock, £50; Boggabri, £50; Bungendore, £150; Bobadah, £50; Condobolin, £600; Collarendabri, £50; Coonamble, £100; Cudal, £100; Collie, £25; Coolamon, £150; Cariuda, £50; Cootamundra, £100; Coonabarabran, £200; Cargo, £50; Dubbo, £300; Deniliquin, £100; Eugowra, £50; Forbes, £300; Gunnedah, £150; Gulgong, £200; Gunning, £150; Gearie and Murrumbidgerie, £50; Gilgandra, £100; Hay, £300; Hillston, £300; Iliabo, £30; Jerilderie, £350; Kildery, £50; Moree, £200; Manildra, £50; Murrumburrah, £220; Mossgiel, £200; Narrandera, £300; Narrabri, £350; Narromine, £250; Peak Hill, £100; Parkes, £500; Queanbeyan, £500; Singleton, £50; Savernake, £30; Trangie, £75; Trundle, £50; Temora, £200; Tucklan, £50; Wellington, £150; Whitton, £50; Wentworth, £75; Warren, £300; Wyalong, £100; Wallendbeen, £25; Young, £200.

It was resolved that the estimate of amounts available be adopted, and that the local committees be informed that no grants could be made beyond those named. Even these, it was pointed out, were liable to be reduced if unforeseen demands were made upon the executive.

The hon. secretary reported that the Wyalong distribution sheets showed the lump sums of £25 and £20 had been granted to individuals. It was decided that no further grant would be made until a satisfactory explanation was received from the local committee as to why this had been done.

The following sums were granted to the local committees at the places named:—Narrandera, £200; Queanbeyan, £200; Hay, £150; Forbes, £100; Coonabarabran, £100; Gulgong, £100; Hillston, £100; Mossgiel, £100; Temora, £100; Angledool, £50; Bobadah, £50.

The financial statement was as follows:—Total receipts, £22,991 11s 1d; disbursements, £13,841 2s 10d; balance, £9150 8s 3d; contributions received since last meeting, £106 11s 11d; disbursements, £868 12s 10d.

MARK! SUFFERERS.

I have had thirty years' experience in the medicine trade.

That is more than you have.

I know what I am writing about.

You probably only know what advertisements assert.

I want to talk to you straight.

My statements are facts, and must convince you.

CLEMENTS TONIC is the most popular remedy in the land.

Why?

Because of its merit:

No medicine could remain popular year after year except by inherent merit.

CLEMENTS TONIC is pirated and imitated ten times more than any other medicine.

Why?

Because CLEMENTS TONIC has ten times the reputation, therapeutic value, and consumption of any other preparation, and ten chances occur to impose on a sick man a hogswill mixture as a substitute where one chance occurs with any other article.

Is it any wonder people try to imitate and foist a more profitable article on you when they get the chance?

It is mean—dirty—despicable and contemptible, but continually attempted and sometimes done.

Don't you be "had." When you are sick you want the remedy to suit your case; you don't want a bottle of stuff because it is cheaper—cheapness in medicines means nastiness. There is no trade you can be so easily swindled in, no article you are so blind about, nothing you are so much in the dark about, as the contents of a medicine bottle. Don't forget that.

PONDER—CLEMENTS TONIC can't afford to do any tricks: it has a reputation to keep up. If its high standard of curative excellence was not maintained, its popularity and extensive sale would not be sustained, and then the whole concern would burst.

Clements Tonic lives and leads by its pharmaceutical excellence, curative properties, therapeutic value, restorative power, and that is a lesson you don't want to forget. Remember, Clements Tonic is a friend in need.

A VERY CONVINCING NARRATIVE.

THE CASE OF MR. P. B. HUNT.

(BY A SYDNEY REPORTER).

The ready compliance of Mr. Percy Bordon Hunt, of No. 8 The Terrace, Bourke-street, Redfern, with the request of a special interview, illustrates a series of difficulties and complications from which there was no immediate prospect of escape. After mentioning that he was a native of London and a resident of these colonies for the last 10 years, Mr. Hunt went on to say:—

"It was when I came out to this country that I had a very bitter experience with bad health, and I hope I shall never have to go through anything like it again, as once in a life-time is quite enough. I had previously been suffering from a complaint called locomotor ataxia, and I had never felt really well since. The change in climate evidently did not suit me, for my head started to ache most unmercifully, making me feel quite unfit to take part in anything. I was so drowsy and low-spirited, too, no pleasant thoughts ever coming to give me a moment's happiness, and I did not seem to care what happened.

"Did you receive any medical attention?" asked the writer.

"Yes. I had been to several hospitals, where the doctors prescribed physic for me, but it could not have been suitable for my complaints, as it took no effect upon me. Their medicines were so useless that I might as well have thrown them down the drain. The doctors said it was next to impossible to properly recover from the complaint, which had made a wreck of me, and this was an awful reflection for one who had always been so hale and hearty before, and naturally making me more sad and hopeless than ever; but I thought I would try some other medicine before giving up all hope, and when I had done so my condition was just as bad as ever. I could not get my breath freely owing to the heavy sensation in my chest, and I could not sleep at all well. If I did doze off I was made restless by dreams that were most repulsive, and, once more finding myself awake, I dreaded the thought of falling asleep again because the dreams were so unpleasant. That was through being so nervous, I suppose, for I trembled at the slightest noise and was excited at every turn. My mouth had a nauseating taste which I imagined came from the white coating on my tongue, and there was such a strange feeling about my eyes—a heavy sensation as if they had swollen during the night. When in London I was secretary to one of the most eminent Congregational ministers in the city, and consequently had a great amount of brain work to do, so that when I came here and felt so brain-weary and fagged out I felt my position all the more keenly. There was no life in me, and I gave myself up as helpless to throw off the utter deadness of vitality under which I was existing. Simply through excessive weakness my limbs were racked with aches. It was just the same in the morning after lying down all night, for my legs were as tired as if I had been climbing steep hills instead of trying to rest myself, and the mere thought of going to work made me shudder in despair. There was something radically wrong with my loins, too, as the painful aches across them caused me no end of inconvenience, and more so when I had to walk to any place. But so far as that goes there was nothing that I could find any pleasure in doing, as my loss of energy was so great that it was almost a trouble to dress myself. For a man whose temperament is naturally active and energetic it was a terrible hardship to be in such a weak and powerless condition, but the most melancholy phase of the situation was that I could get no medicine to help me out of my difficulties. It seemed a forlorn hope to think of recovering my health again, but was there anything I had not given a trial to? I asked myself. A little reflection told me that Clements Tonic had escaped my notice up til now, and as my deplorable state of feebleness required immediate attention I said I would give it a trial."

"Were you pleased that you did so?"

"My word I was, for Clements Tonic acted on my system as no other medicine had done. Do you know that I had no real appetite from the time I was taken ill until I took Clements Tonic, which made me so hungry that I was always wanting food. I was overjoyed at this success, especially as my pains were diminishing with each bottle of Clements Tonic, which made my digestive apparatus able and willing to assimilate my food and fill my veins with pure, rich blood, and with my heart strong and vigorous to pump that blood to every part of my body. As time went on it became apparent that I was on the road to recovery, as my headaches and giddiness were gone and my sight was good. I breathed freely owing to chest pains being relieved, while the flatulence which had affected my stomach did not trouble me after using a few bottles of Clements Tonic. Would it be possible for me to speak too well of a medicine which did so much for me when all others failed? My opinion is that I shall never be able to liquidate my debt to Clements Tonic for its miraculous influence over me, for it actually raised me from misery and helplessness to a life of cheerfulness and activity. This was done by degrees, of course, for I got stronger because I was getting plenty of rest, my sleep being sound and dreamless, and the morning life found me equipped for the duties of life as I had not been for many a day. I was no longer sickened by a bitter taste and a dry tongue when I woke up, neither was I troubled with that weariness of limb which had made all my movements so irksome. I had reason to look at life in an entirely different aspect then, thank God, as the pain-killing properties of Clements Tonic gave such prompt relief that I was soon free from all my torments, and as a remedy for invigorating the nervous system I am sure that medicine is the best in the world. My nerves were so steady and keen that my daily work became a pleasure, and a capacity for physical and mental exertion proportionally increased. I did not relinquish the use of Clements Tonic until my health was as sound as it had ever been, being an entirely new man, and as I have since enjoyed immunity from the ailments which nothing but Clements Tonic could cure, it is only fair to my fellow-colonists that I should tell them by what means I was released from wretchedness."

"It will be necessary to print your statements, then."

"Of course it will; and you may publish them in any way you like."

STATUTORY DECLARATION.

I, Percy Bordon Hunt, of 8 The Terrace, Bourke-street, Redfern, in the State of New South Wales, Commonwealth of Australia, do solemnly and sincerely declare that I have carefully read the annexed document, consisting of four folios, and consecutively numbered from one to four, and that it contains and is a true and faithful account of my illness and cure by Clements Tonic, and also contains my full permission to publish in any way my statements, which I give voluntarily, and without receiving any payment; and I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the provisions of the Oaths Act, 1900.

Percy B Hunt

Subscribed and declared at Redfern, this twenty-second day of April, one thousand nine hundred and two, before me.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

THE CLOSER SETTLEMENT ACT.

The statement that the Queensland Government is about to resume further areas for closer settlement should revive interest in this important question in this State. So far the Closer Settlement Act in New South Wales has been almost a dead letter. We understand that the excuse for inaction in the matter is that the bill is not complete, the chief amendment desired being one to enable the Government to resume compulsorily at valuations based on the valuations for land tax. This, if true, bears a strong family resemblance to other expedients for delaying the operations of an Act which are at times resorted to by all Governments. In Queensland the State has resumed considerable areas of the most valuable land in the State without a compulsory clause. The Government has always had ample land under offer, and has had a very wide choice of properties. To the end of 1900 14 estates had been resumed, principally on the Darling Downs. At the end of 1901, out of a total acreage of 127,813 acres repurchased and offered to settlers, 122,359 acres had been selected, and the balance, almost all, taken over by the Agricultural Department for experimental farms. The resumed area carried 912 selectors and their families, in place of the handful of people hitherto on the land. The area under cultivation was 31,798 acres, and the improvements were valued at £108,000. Last year the Government repurchased Mount Russell, 40,000 acres; Gowrie, 10,000 acres; Goomburra, 13,000 acres; Durundur, 21,443 acres; Mount Kilcoy, 18,075 acres; and Holmwood, 3800 acres, the lastnamed three being in one estate. These later purchases have, we understand, been satisfactorily settled, and now that the whole country has had soaking rains the settlers should make good use of their acres. Apparently Queensland has had no difficulty either in settling people on over 200,000 acres without loss to the State, or in securing further desirable estates. There is an objectionable clause in the terms and conditions of selection under the Queensland Act which allows that an agent may be appointed by the selector to reside on the land, but the operation of this was last year curtailed by giving preference to applicants who guaranteed five years' personal residence. The conditions provide that the land shall be purchased by the selector on terms extending over 20 years, but a grant may be obtained after five years on payment of the balance of the purchase money. A deposit of £10 in every £100 is required, and the instalments begin in the third year. In that year the selector pays for every £100 of purchase money, principal £3 4s, interest £4 15s, total £7 19s. As the yearly instalments are paid the interest of course decreases, and the amount of principal is increased in proportion, so that the selector pays £7 19s for every £100 of purchase money each year. In the twentieth year the principal paid is £7 6s 8d, interest 12s 4d. During the 20 years the selector pays £53 2s in interest on every £100 invested. These would probably be about the terms adopted in this State, and should be acceptable, seeing that for a farm purchased for £1000 the annual payment would be under £80. If the Act is to be put into operation, the first lands to be resumed should be distinctly good farm lands, and situated in districts with a reliable rainfall. The demand within the State is for this class, and in all probability should such lands be secured and offered our own people, sons of established farmers, would be the principal applicants. It is unlikely that no estates of the class required would be offered in this State, and the resumption will undoubtedly be delayed through the introduction of the compulsory clause. The Government should at least put the question to the test, and in the event of no suitable properties being offered a good case could then be made for compulsion.

THE MINIMUM WAGE.

Mr. J. Gordon, Newtown, writes:—"'Orchardist's' letter on this subject seems to me misleading. Admitting that the wage brought hundreds to Sydney from the farming and grazing districts, I do not believe it was the cause of men leaving fruit districts. It was hard living, long hours, and low pay which drove the best men out of the orchards. A wage of 8s to 10s per week and keep for hours from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. in summer, or £1 to 25s without keep, cannot ensure good men for the orchards. If 'Orchardist' will pay 15s per week and keep he will get plenty of good men. I doubt that any orchards have been abandoned for want of labour at reasonable wages. If they have been 'Orchardist' will have the kindness to mention these. Many would be glad to rent them."

ORANGE SHIPMENT.

In view of the low prices ruling for oranges this season the fruit branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Co-operative Society is arranging to test the London market again with this fruit, and a number of the principal growers have expressed their desire to co-operate in this movement. Shipments will leave Sydney on July 4 and 18 and August 1. A number of shipments of oranges have from time to time been placed on the London market, with variable success. Some have turned out remarkably well; others have proved failures. As with the export of meat, failures had to be recorded for the first shipments, and until experience had shown the proper conditions to be observed in its treatment in transit. So with the fruit repeated tests will prove the best method to adopt to land it in good condition. Our local markets during some months in the year are over-supplied and prices are unremunerative, and the successful transport of this fruit to the English market, where the demand is unlimited, will prove an immense boon to our languishing fruit-growing industry. Any grower wishing to participate in these shipments should communicate with the society.

THE WOOL TRADE.

Friday Evening.

The record of this market for the week now ending is one which is not unusual at this particular time of the year, and though not, therefore, in itself remarkable, is at all events interesting if only for the reason that the course of events has proved somewhat of a surprise and a little disappointing to the trade as a whole. Progressive scarcity of the staple, fairly good trade in the industrial centres, as attested by recent official returns, and the depletion of stocks acquired by direct purchase in Australian and South American markets last season, alike pointed to an easy maintenance of values for all kinds of wool, with the possibility of a further advance. In place of an improving tendency dealings in wool have, however, of late been characterised by an almost entire absence of activity not only in Sydney but in Yorkshire, and on the Continent also, and although this want of buoyancy is so far unaccompanied by any appreciable or quotable change in prices current locally, it must be admitted that in the case of many wools the enhanced rates of the early part of last month are not now uniformly supported. The past week was uninterruptedly quiet, the only transaction of note being the sale of a line of between 400 and 500 bales of scoured skin wool at figures which are not disclosed, and in the absence of any definite information which would satisfactorily account for the existing slackness in the demand, it is of course difficult to predict how long the present phase of the market may continue. Probably, however, the requirements of many users are for the time being covered with wool purchased at the May sales in London, and until the higher level of values then attained is fully established the general feeling is against the acquirement of additional stocks, even on the same terms. That the new basis arrived at in London last month yet requires confirmation is evident from the fractional decline reported a few days ago in quotations for merino tops in Bradford. Whether this slight check, which only affects merinos, will be sustained remains to be seen, but in the meantime holders are very reluctant to part with their stocks except at very full prices. As the monthly returns relating to the wool exports become available the tremendous decrease in production is forced into greater prominence. Whatever happens fine wools will be unusually scarce in Europe during the next five months, and sellers in all our local markets fully appreciate this telling factor, and act accordingly.

For the auction sales which are fixed to take place on the 23rd, 24th, and 25th instant a fair supply of wool is expected. Among other consignments which will probably be available for cataloguing at that time there will be a nice selection of Queensland new clip wools, including such favourably known marks as the BXM over Huntly, WdcM over Maneroo, GF over Wolfang, GF over Bimerah, GF over Barcaldine, GF over Delta, GF over Peak Downs, TC over Vindex, MMP & B over Corella, and JB over Cassilis.

In their circular of the 10th March Messrs. Helmuth Schwartze and Co., of London, furnish some interesting particulars relating to the production and consumption of wool in Europe and North America for several years past. According to these authorities the quantity of clean wool available in 1902 amounted to 1240 million lb., against 1236 million lb. in 1901, the slight increase being due to a higher estimate of the yield of the United States' clip and to the great increase in the imports of mohair, an article giving a very high yield. The quantity of clean wool at the disposal of the industry (not the quantity actually consumed in the form of manufactures) was, on the average of periods, as follows per head of population:—

	Lbs. and Decimals.
1871-80	2·43	...	increase—7½	per cent.
1881-90	2·57	...	" 6	"
1891-1900	2·76	...	" 7½	"
1901-1902	2·68	...	decrease 3	"

The compilers point out that "the last two years show a rather important falling off, but the decrease will be still more remarkable if we contrast the four years 1899-1902, which for well known reasons should be combined, with the eight years 1891-98. In this case the average works out at only 2·65lb. against 2·80lb., being a reduction of nearly 5½ per cent., while so far as we can judge the average price paid during the last four years, making allowance for the mass of low-priced coarse wools, was probably a little lower than the average of the preceding eight years. This year's supply will no doubt show a further reduction, as the most moderate estimates of the decrease in Australia do not go below 200,000 bales. Those best informed with regard to the River Plate do not expect an increase in the total weight of the clip. There is much uncertainty about South Africa, as considerable quantities of old wools have still been shipped and as the arrivals have so far been heavy, but on the whole it is not probable that last year's imports will be reached or exceeded. There may be another increase in the United States clip, but the receipts of 'other sorts' will hardly be larger unless a considerable advance takes place in the prices of coarse wools."

Although there are still isolated portions of the State which have either not had a share of the late rains or have not benefited much from what has fallen, it may now be assumed that over the great bulk of our pastoral areas there will not only be a sufficiency of food, but in most cases an abundance for the limited number of sheep that will face the shears. It is a fact, however, that in some places, notably those which may be said to be chronically overstocked, the rains which have fallen during the past few weeks have failed to bring up the grass to anything like the extent that has been the case where the pastures have not been completely eaten out. Where the roots of the grass and herbage have been sought out and devoured, the rehabilitation of a sward must be a matter of time, depending on the vivifying of such seeds as may have escaped the hungry onslaught of the sheep, or as the result of the putting down or scattering of artificial grass-seed. Whereon the other hand grass is abundant, the usual effects of grass feeding and high condition will be evident in the state of the wool and a large proportion of yolk be associated with it. While this greasy exudation is a necessary adjunct in the production of a well-grown and nourished staple, its effect on the per pound value of the fleece should not be overlooked. This natural grease, together with everything of a foreign nature, everything in fact which is not wool fibre is so much waste that has to be eliminated from the wool before it goes into the process of manufacture, and the great point with the buyer is to estimate what this loss will be, and allow for it in the price he bids. Similarly, to be in intelligent touch with market value, the owner must also take into consideration, when instructing his broker, the condition in which his wool comes under the notice of buyers, for after all, what must be regarded is not the price per pound but the result per head. Thus, 7lb. of wool at 9d is better than 5½lb. at 11d, and though the latter looks better in a price list the former does the bank account most good. Another detriment that will come along with the abundance of vegetation will be a liberal crop of burrs, both of the Bathurst and closer varieties. With the latter little else can be done than to keep it eaten down, for though the closer burr is the greater nuisance when impregnated with wool, it has much to recommend it from a fodder point of view. The Bathurst burr should have a vigorous war waged against it and be systematically rooted out before the seeds have time to ripen and drop off. Money spent in the extermination of this noxious weed will be well repaid by the difference in price wool will bring when free from such undesirable accompaniments.

Home advices by last mail contain some items of more than usual interest, one being the statement that at time of writing the raw material was strongly asserting its influence, governing the course of values in opposition to the attitude of merchants, who had found difficulty in getting for their goods prices commensurate with the advanced rates for wool in its natural greasy or scoured state. It is thought on the other side, that the higher rates will limit the production of and business in fine goods, though much stress is laid on the limited supplies for the July, September, and November series. The July series is generally the best supplied of the whole year, but only 140,000 bales of new stock is available for the sales then. A similar quantity is spoken of for September, and only 80,000 bales for November, so that it is no wonder the assimilation of this knowledge gave the fillip to the May sales already reported, or that expectations regarding the near future of merino values are deservedly high.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BATHURST.—At an exhibition at the Bathurst Experimental Farm on Thursday exception was taken by farmers to the exorbitant charge made for seed wheat grown at the experimental farm. As a result the wheat did not get distributed as it should do, as every man should have a chance to procure some. It was contended that the department should sell wheat at the market rate.

BOMBALA.—Splendid rain fell to-day. The country is looking well, and up to the present the winter has been very mild, no snow having fallen.

CANDELO.—Heavy rain commenced to fall here this afternoon, and it has every prospect of continuing.

COOLAMON.—The crops are doing splendidly. Taking the whole district through, the acreage under cultivation is about the same as last year. Artificial manures are being freely used. The prospects for the ensuing season are good.

FORBES.—Showery weather continued yesterday.

LISMORE.—The committee of the Lismore Agricultural Society had under consideration on Thursday the revision of the schedule of the next annual show. Other sites are to be inspected with the object of obtaining, if possible, a better site than the existing showground and situated alongside the railway. The land board finished a three days' sitting on Thursday.

NYNGAN.—The crops throughout are looking well. They showed signs of want of more rain, but some showers fell last night, and they freshened up splendidly. The Commissioners for Railways on their last visit promised to have some troughs placed at the trucking yards, on condition that the town supplied the water, and the boon will be appreciated by stockowners.

WARIALDA.—The following nominations were declared on Friday for the Pastures Protection Board directors (two to be elected):—John Yamala Block, Wallangra; Daniel Charters, Cobbadah; John Makin, Gum Flat.

YASS.—Good winter grass is now certain, owing to the recent rain, and the crops are looking well.

STOCK PASSINGS.

FORBES.—45 head cattle, from Burdett to Darembalgie, Whitman Brothers; 900 wethers, Forbes to The Oakes, J. B. Reymond and Sons; 1800 sheep, Wagga to The Oakes, J. B. THE COMMONWEALTH PARLIAMENT.

THE SENATE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTERS.)

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY, JUNE 12.

The President took the chair at 10.30 a.m.

POLITICS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

Senator M'GREGOR (S.A.) moved,—"That in the opinion of the Senate regulation 41 under the Public Service Act should be amended." He said that the first portion of this regulation provided that public officers were forbidden to publicly discuss or in any way promote political movements, and this took away the liberty of public servants.

The POSTMASTER-GENERAL said there was nothing in the regulation referred to that prevented a public servant from becoming a member of a political organisation. All that was said was that he should not take a prominent part in politics.

Senator WALKER (N.S.W.) said that a public servant knew before joining that taking part in politics was forbidden. If he did so he would be in the position of serving two masters.

Senator FRASER (Vic.) said there was no objection to a man joining a society provided it was not revolutionary. He was not in favour, however, of Civil servants taking a leading part in political matters. It seemed to him that the labour section desired to subvert everything that tended to the greatness of the community. (Laughter.)

Senator BEST (Vic.) moved an amendment to add to the motion the words "providing that a Public servant shall not take part in political matters in public."

The amendment was agreed to after debate, and the motion as amended was then carried.

STANDING ORDERS.

The consideration of the Standing Orders was resumed in committee.

Standing Order No. 273 dealing with motions,—"That the chairman do now leave the chair, or that the chairman do report progress, and ask leave to sit again, or that the chairman do now leave the chair" was under discussion on the previous night, and the debate on it was now resumed.

Senator HIGGS (Q.) proposed to strike out the word "motions," and substitute the words "a motion" in the beginning of the Standing Orders. He said he did not believe in restricting the right of free speech to any member provided its exercise did not interfere with the rights of free speech of others.

After a long discussion the amendment was negatived by 12 votes to 9.

Senator STAINFORTH SMITH (W.A.) moved to insert after the words "that the committee do now divide" the following words:—"Which motion shall not be carried unless by a majority of at least four." He said he thought this was a fair compromise between those who wished for a two-thirds majority and those who thought a bare majority should suffice.

The POSTMASTER-GENERAL opposed the amendment.

The debate lasted till 4 o'clock, at which time progress was reported, and leave given to sit again on Wednesday.

ADJOURNMENT.

The Senate at 4.5 p.m. adjourned till Wednesday next at 2.30 p.m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY, JUNE 12.

The Speaker took the chair at 10.30 a.m.

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION.

The PRIME MINISTER, in answer to Sir Langdon Bonython (S.A.), said that the manager of the Eastern Extension Company and the Postmaster-General had under consideration arrangements for improving the telegraphic service between the eastern States and Western Australia. It was probable that the cable would be used more freely for transmission between the States, but the postal revenue would be guarded.

ACQUISITION OF NEW GUINEA.

Mr. KIRWAN (W.A.) moved,—"That as the Commonwealth is undertaking the control of territory in New Guinea with a frontier of about 900 miles exposed to German and Dutch territories, the Government should, in the opinion of this House, intimate to the Imperial authorities that it would be gratifying to the people of the Commonwealth if the Imperial Government availed themselves of any opportunity that might arise to secure by exchange of territory or other peaceful means Dutch and German New Guinea, or either, so as to lessen the danger to the peace of Australia through foreign Powers controlling countries adjoining the Commonwealth territory." He thought that in the interests of internal administration and good government, so far as both the native and European populations in New Guinea were concerned, it was desirable that the whole island should be under the control of one Power. (Hear, hear.) Although the British administration in New Guinea had been starved, it had been decidedly more successful than that of either the German or the Dutch. Friction might at any time arise between the representatives of different nationalities in connection with tribal disputes, or extensive gold discoveries, or other development of the country. It was also possible that Great Britain might become involved in hostilities with Germany or Holland, and New Guinea would naturally be seriously affected. At present Britain held 90,000 square miles of territory, Germany 70,000 square miles on the mainland, and 20,000 on the adjoining islands, while 150,000 square miles were under the Dutch. Great Britain had again and again ignored Australia's advice that New Guinea should be acquired. That was before Germany appeared, and after the Imperial authorities had muddled the matter German acquisition was made in direct contravention of the existing agreement between the two nations. It was not for the Commonwealth to suggest what territory should be exchanged, but the motion would bring under the notice of the Imperial Government the desire of the Australian people. (Hear, hear.)

The PRIME MINISTER asked the mover not to push the motion. Since the Government came into office it had been untiring in watching and urging the interests of the Empire in the Pacific. He shared the opinion that in 1883, when Queensland made an informal annexation of New Guinea, it might have been well if Great Britain had recognised the claim. Should other annexations be made they might be on lines that were not suitable to Australia. If the Imperial Government saddled the administration of New Guinea on the Commonwealth with increased financial responsibilities it would be the Commonwealth that would have to pay. He assured the hon. member that the matter was receiving the closest attention of the Government, and that being so he would ask him not to place the motion on record at the present time.

COMMONWEALTH COINAGE.

Mr EDWARDS (N.S.W.) moved.—"That the report of the select committee on Commonwealth coinage, brought up and ordered by the House to be printed on April 4, 1902, be adopted." He considered that £35,000 would be saved by the coinage of silver under the committee's scheme, and the decimal system would eventually save the Commonwealth over a million. The witnesses before the committee were remarkably unanimous in support of the change which could be effected with a minimum of inconvenience. If Australia was to obtain a profit in silver coinage there must be a distinct difference between our coins and those of Great Britain so that the silver could not go home to be redeemed. Of the systems proposed the decimal system was undoubtedly the best in the world and the one to be adopted. (Hear, hear.) A piece of extravagance that struck the committee was the minting of gold to the value of about five millions annually into sovereigns in Australia and exporting it thence to other countries, largely to the United States, where it was melted down again. The committee had recommended the use of gold bars of about 10oz. for shipment. The gold currency in Australia was anything but satisfactory, 50 per cent. of the coins being notoriously below standard. It was not suggested that the coinage should be at once brought to standard, but it had been clearly shown that once placed on a satisfactory basis £3000 a year would keep it so. If there was not sufficient gold for profitable coining arriving at the federal mint in Melbourne or at the federal capital he believed it would pay to buy it in Western Australia and undertake the charge and risk of shipment. He estimated that the profit from a Commonwealth system of currency at £1,200,000, which at 3 per cent. would mean an annual gain of £36,000. The danger of an over-issue of silver could be guarded against by granting the currency only in exchange for gold. If the proposed system had prevailed throughout the Commonwealth the errors which had given so much trouble to the Minister for Customs might have been avoided.

Mr. BAMFORD (Q.): You have set him against it now. (Laughter.)

Mr. Hume Cook (Vic.) supported the motion.

The TREASURER said that the question was a most difficult and intricate one. To some degree he was in sympathy with the committee's recommendations, but he could not see his way to go the full length in regard to decimal coinage. He supported without reserve the coinage of our own silver. The great objection of the British Government had been to the danger of over-issue, but that had been successfully combated. The matter had not been neglected by the Commonwealth and negotiations were now pending, and it was hoped that they would be satisfactory. At first he advocated local coinage, but now he favoured getting the home authorities to do as they did for Canada, and carry on the work in England and hand over to Australia the profits resulting. Hon. members must abandon the thought of upwards of a million being gained by any change. The question of exporting gold in bars instead of in sovereigns was most intricate, but consideration would be given to see if the penny cost on each sovereign could not be saved. The profit on silver coinage would be about £30,000, but that sum would be reduced to about £20,000 or £25,000. It was, however, a sum which the Commonwealth should get, and would be an appreciable acquisition to the revenue, and might, as suggested, go to paying off the national debt. In discussing the decimal system it had to be considered whether the advantages of the change would counterbalance the inconvenience both in Australia and in our dealings with Great Britain. It seemed to him that the decision of the committee was against the weight of evidence. He saw such practical obstacles to the system that he could not give it unqualified support. One chief point on which he differed was that in this matter we should follow and not lead Great Britain. The primary object of money, as shown by the evidence before the committee, was to pay rather than to exchange, and that being so it met much of the opposition to the existing system. It was proposed to drop the threepenny-bit, and that would at least affect the church collections. (Laughter.) They were told that the changes suggested had been made in other countries, but each nation had dealt with it in a different manner, and no uniformity had resulted. It appeared that the alterations had been made, not so much for the benefit of the alterations, but to strike uniformity in countries which had been troubled by the use of a varying system. If Australia was to change he would favour the American system, rather than that recommended by the committee. Of course, he looked forward to the time when the world would adopt a uniform coinage, but that was not for the immediate future. To adopt the decimal system would have an effect the reverse of educational upon the children of the Commonwealth; and unless the system adopted was the same as that ruling in Great Britain then the children must be taught both systems. Apart from any question of sentiment, that was a strong reason for opposing the alteration.

Mr. PAGE (Q.): How does Canada get over that difficulty?

The TREASURER did not know, but supposed that Canada was prompted to adopt the American system by her proximity to the United States, and the trend of trade with that country. In many cases he thought it easier to reckon by fractions than by decimals. The great difficulty that the committee had to face, and one which it failed to surmount, was that we wanted to retain the pound for large transactions and the penny for smaller retail transactions. There were penny stamps, penny fares, and very many domestic necessities for the use of the smaller coin. He knew that such objection could in time be got over, but the question was whether the loss and inconvenience that would be entailed would be justified. He had been surprised by the absence of evidence from representative men before the committee. There was no general demand for the change, and nothing should be done before the people had a chance to express themselves in favour of it. He maintained that it was not wanted, and he could not see that it could be adopted except by a small section of the people. To force it would be to have for some time two systems, entailing embarrassment and loss. It would be a hardship to enforce such a change to allow merchants a little more facility in calculation. It had been pointed out in evidence that no demand had been made for the change by the London Changing House or the Institute of Bankers. He welcomed discussion, which might educate the people to appreciate a change that aimed to give a simplicity in every-day calculations and business. If it was found that the Australian Parliament and people were in favour of reform in that direction, the British Government might take action and thus permit of a uniform change. He moved as an amendment,—"That in the opinion of this House any change to decimal coinage for Australia should, in order to confer a great measure of the benefits resulting from it, be preceded by its adoption by the British Government, and, if possible, be accompanied by a metric system of weights and measures; and in view of the fact that the time had not, in the opinion of the British Government, arrived for a system of decimal coinage, it would not at present be desirable to initiate the system in the Commonwealth."

The debate was adjourned till Friday week.

ADJOURNMENT.

The House at 3.35 p.m. adjourned until 2.30 p.m. on Tuesday.

CUSTOMS ADMINISTRATION.

Senator Pulsford writes:—

On Wednesday in last week Mr. Kingston told the House of Representatives that a certain statement of mine was "a half-truth, the sort of fib which is the hardest of all to fight." He also said: "Senator Pulsford has every reason to be ashamed of himself for it;" further, that I "wilfully misled the public." If these and similar charges were true then I should have forfeited any claim I have on the confidence of the public, and also on the valuable space which I have been allowed to occupy in your paper. I will refer as briefly as I can to the matter.

On October 8, in the Senate, I drew attention to various prosecutions, and amongst them one—which now threatens to become quite historical—in regard to a bale of rugs, value £37 4s 6d. This value was correctly stated on what is known as the "slip," but in the entry the figures were transposed and read £34 7s 6d. The mistake was obvious, but as it made 9s difference in the amount of the duty, a prosecution was instituted in regard to it.

On May 6 at his meeting in Sydney Mr. Kingston said that there was "not a word of truth" in what I had said. That the firm had made two mistakes, one much larger than that in regard to the bale of rugs, that the prosecution took place on that larger mistake, and that the prosecution in the "bale of rugs" case was withdrawn.

In your issue of May 21 I stated that I had seen the firm concerned and that they confirmed the statement originally made. Further, I said that I had myself examined the depositions at the Water Police Court and found that they proved that the prosecution had taken place in regard to the bale of rugs and that the other case was marked "withdrawn."

Then a singular thing occurred. Two days later—May 23—I was again at the Water Police Court. I went with Mr. Hannigan, the chief steward of the Sierra, whose case I was investigating. Whilst so occupied I was told by the clerk, who was not the one I had seen on the previous occasion, that he had read my published statement about the bale of rugs; that he was sorry he had not himself seen me on that prior call, as he believed a mistake had been made in the records, the case proceeded with and the case withdrawn being reversed. A second time I examined the papers; the clerk was not quite sure, he "believed." I ascertained from him that the prosecuting solicitor had been Mr. Cargill, of the Crown Law Office. Within an hour of seeing the clerk I had written and posted a letter to Mr. Cargill, telling him of the dispute between Mr. Kingston and myself, asking him to kindly let me know in which case he had prosecuted, as, if I had been mistaken, I wished to admit it. On the 25th Mr. Cargill replied, saying: "I regret I am unable to furnish the desired particulars. You will readily understand that as the information I possess came to me in my official capacity, I cannot furnish same except through the proper channel. Perhaps Mr. Shorter, who represented the defendant company in the two cases in question, could afford you the information required." This letter made me feel sure there was something yet to learn. With the consent of the firm concerned, I saw Mr. Shorter, their solicitor. I learnt from him that the Crown having consented to prosecute on one charge only, asked which one the firm were willing to plead guilty to. The reply was "the rug case." The Customs objected, wishing to prosecute on the larger matter. However, when the case was called on the Customs, whether by mistake or not—they had the prosecutions on hand that day—did proceed on the information in the rug matter, and the £5 fine was recorded thereon, the larger, the furniture matter, being recorded as "withdrawn."

I have, however, learnt something more. The goods, both the rugs and the furniture, arrived in July of last year, and in consequence of the mistakes the Customs seized both lots of goods and held possession of them from July to the end of February, and only released them then on the firm entering into guarantees to pay the value in case the Customs decided on forfeiture. I am assured by the firm that separate guarantees were given, that for the rugs containing the words "prosecution having taking place," that for the furniture the words "in the event of prosecution taking place." Here there is means of clearing up the point as to which matter the fine relates to. But it will strike everyone as strange that whilst Mr. Kingston, both in the Sydney Town Hall and in the House of Representatives, has denounced me for charging him with prosecuting at all in the "bale of rugs" case, he yet behind the closed doors of the Custom-house was withholding the goods from the owners, and that even now, 11 months after the goods were landed, he is holding over the head of the firm a threat to punish them by forfeiture of the whole value of the rugs—£37. In the furniture matter the mistake occurred in an entry for warehousing. "I may say at once that there was no charge of fraud," said Mr. Kingston last week, yet the Customs kept their grip on the goods, both in the case "withdrawn" and in the case proceeded with. The dispute as to which of the two cases was proceeded with is, I think, contemptible. But I have made it quite clear that I was ready to promptly acknowledge an error if I had made one.

Reference to "Hansard" (page 476) will show that the Customs themselves wrote to the Crown Solicitor, after my letter appeared, for Mr. Kingston quoted from his reply. I will give the whole to avoid any charge of "half-truths":—

"I have the honour, with reference to your letter of the 22nd instant, relating to two cases of prosecution against ——————, on September 24 last, to inform you that my papers do not disclose the subject matter of the charge upon which the conviction was obtained. The prosecuting officer distinctly recollects that the plea of guilty was accepted in respect of the charge concerning twelve cases of furniture. He informs me that the day before the cases came on for hearing Mr. Shorter, solicitor for the defendant company, saw him in reference to such cases, and asked if the department would be prepared to withdraw one of the charges in the event of his pleading guilty to the other. Mr. Shorter was told that a definite reply would be given at 10 o'clock in the morning, and at that time he expressed a desire to have the plea recorded in respect of the charge relating to one bale of rugs. The prosecuting officer declined to accede to this course, and eventually Mr. Shorter pleaded guilty to the other charge."

It will be observed that the whole of this is a statement by the Customs officer. Mr. Kingston further read a letter from Mr. Means, Chamber Magistrate, Water Police Court, as follows:—

"With reference to the communication between Senator Pulsford and the deposition clerk, it appears that the latter saw Mr. Pulsford inspecting the papers, and explained to him that although the 'furniture' summons attached to the 'rug' information was marked 'withdrawn,' it was almost a certainty that the word 'withdrawn' referred to the information to which the summons was attached."

It appears that Mr. Kingston, reading this, hastily assumed that this conversation with the deposition clerk occurred before my letter appearing May 21 was written, whereas it was two days afterwards, and as a result of the appearance of that letter. When I first referred to the "rug case" in the Senate I knew nothing of another case which had been withdrawn, or I should assuredly have mentioned it, not only with a view of being absolutely fair, but for three other reasons: First, the withdrawal showed that the charges were contemptible; second, that the Customs prosecute at their own pleasure; third, that though they had two summonses against another firm on the same day, on equally or still more paltry charges, they yet proceeded on both, and secured two £5 fines in the case of this other firm.

I have referred more than once to a case against the Fuller Carrying Company, when they were proceeded against, though the Customs had in the same invoice received an over-payment which exceeded the shortage on which the prosecution was based. A fortnight ago the same firm were again proceeded against, and fined a further £5 for an error of 15s 3d. One would have thought that the regulation that where the error involved less than £1 a post entry should be accepted would have covered this case, but the proviso "if there has been no previous case" was brought in, although the previous one was of the character described.

I shall render a public service by drawing attention to the following order issued only a few days ago:—

"Duty must be paid on catalogues printed outside the Commonwealth and posted separately to customers here, otherwise they are to be seized under section 30 of the Customs Act."

The section in question gives power to seize dutiable articles coming through the post. The effect of this is that any private person receiving through the post from abroad any catalogues of books or price-list of goods is liable to be prosecuted. I mentioned the matter in the Senate last week, and asked if the Postmaster-General had nothing to say on behalf of the thousands of people in Australia to whom catalogues and price-lists are sent—why should not a price-list come in free! Senator Drake interjected, "It is dutiable." Spite of the P.M.G. the order is likely to be a dead letter. I think I am right in saying that the opinion in the Sydney G.P.O. is that to carry out such an order the number of hands would have to be enormously increased. The new German tariff provides that anything coming through the post up to a certain number of ounces is to be free. Fancy being behind Germany in such a matter!

SOCIAL.

Our Japanese visitors have been the guests of honour at many and varied functions during the week, all of which have more or less been already chronicled in our issues. On Thursday afternoon his Excellency the Governor-General and Lady Tennyson witnessed a wrestling match and some sword exercises at Government House by some of the Japanese sailors, and besides the members of the house party the spectators also included Miss Rawson, Major-General Hutton, Mrs. and Miss Fanshawe, Lady Barton, Lady See, Miss See, Mrs. M. H. Stephen, Mrs. Finn, Mrs. MacLagan, and a few others, all of whom were much interested in the display.

An English correspondent writing from Malvern by the last mail says that much interest had been taken in the musical competition arranged by Lady Mary Lygon, and that a concert of the combined choirs was attended by Lord and Lady Beauchamp and Lady Mary. Lord Beauchamp presented the banners and certificates to the successful competitors, having driven over from Madresfield for the occasion.

Lady Rawson opened the sale of work in aid of the Melanesian and New Guinea Missions at the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Thursday afternoon, and was accompanied by Captain Robertson Clark. The stall-holders were kept busy all the afternoon, the beautiful specimens of church needlework which are made and sold for funds in aid of the Melanesian and New Guinea Missions being much admired. The stall where the home-made sweets were disposed of was largely patronised, and those that sold flowers, and also the refreshment stalls, were always surrounded by visitors and buyers.

Some excellent tableaux and a concert took place in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Thursday evening in aid of the Melanesian Mission. The attendance was so great that the promoters of the entertainment could easily have filled a larger hall, and by special request Mrs. Lampard and Miss Thea Stephen, who arranged the tableaux, have promised to have them repeated at an early date. In the first part of the programme the representations were taken from nursery rhymes, and Master Jack Brunton as Little Boy Blue and Kathleen Macrae as Humpty Dumpty were particularly pretty, and excellently carried out. In the second part, the tableau "Faith, Hope, and Charity," represented by the Misses F. E. Stephen Nellie Campbell, Dorothy Dibbs, Marian Mein, and Hope Alison, was very beautiful, and so was "Non Angli sed Angeli," represented by Miss Muriel Dangar and Babby Osborne, the Misses Maud Harrison, Dorothy Docker, Frieda Docker, Constance Stephen, Nita Walker, Nellie Campbell, Sylvia Docker, Constance Docker, Valerie Devonport, and the Messrs. J. Mein, Eric Harrison, and T. Walker. Very good indeed was "Ogden's Guinea Gold Cigarettes," by Mr. M. Walker and Adrian Consett-Stephen. "A Japanese Tea Party" was another tableau which was much admired and applauded, those taking part in it being Miss Muriel Dangar, the Misses E. Roberts, May Airey, Reda Lingen, Pearl Airey, Joscelyn Mort, Brenda Lord, Ethel Ranken, Dorothy Mair, Dorothy French, Gladys Gould, and Sylvia Bedford. "In Love," "The Quarrel," and "The Peacemaker" was prettily represented by Miss Nora Dangar, Miss Gladys Mort, and Mr. Frank Lamb. The concluding tableau was excellently posed and carried out. Miss Jeanie Ranken represented "Britannia," Miss Elsie Harrison "Ireland," Miss Doris MacCulloch "Scotland," Miss May Airey "Wales," Miss Muriel Dangar "India," Miss Roberts "Egypt," Miss May King "Canada," Miss Dorothy French "Malta," Miss Reda Lingen "South Africa," Miss Ruth Dangar "New Zealand," and Master Jack Turnbull "Australia." The programme was a long one, and included songs rendered by Mrs. J. S. Brunton, Miss Esther Roberts, Mr. Kendall, Mr. P. Williamson, a recitation by Miss D. M'Culloch, and a pianoforte solo by Miss Rose Milne, who also acted as accompanist. The large audience included Mrs. Dangar, Mrs. C. F. Roberts, Mrs. Arthur Allen, Mrs. Consett Stephen, Miss Madge Suttor, Mrs. C. Alison, Mrs. Busby, Mrs. Pascoe, Miss Faithfull, Mrs. and the Misses Airey, Mrs. Turnbull, Mrs. W. Mort, Mrs. Lee Lord, Mrs. Thorne, Mrs. and Miss Iceely, Miss Maxwell, Miss I. Griffiths, Miss V. Turner, the Misses Lamb.

Jonsen, Mrs. Peach, Mrs. Tudgay, Mrs. Calder, and Miss Daly were amongst the executive officers present. Reports of a favourable character regarding the sale of tickets, donations, &c., were received.

The annual children's ball, in aid of the funds of the Civil Ambulance and Transport Brigade, is to be held on Thursday, July 9, at the Town Hall. His Excellency the State Governor and Lady Rawson have promised to be present. The committee met yesterday, and were able to report great progress in their preparations. Carroll, Mrs. Lamb, Miss Brady, Miss English, the Misses Farrelly, Miss Jones, Miss O'Rourke, and Miss Flynn are giving valuable assistance on the committee.

An excellent programme of music and singing had been arranged, which was contributed by Mrs. Haswell, Mrs. Furber, Mrs. Reginald Quesnel, Miss Russell, Miss Ethel Pitman, Miss Wilkinson, Miss Harper, Miss Trevor Jones, and Miss Ada Hogg. Amongst those present were:—Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Pitman, Mrs. Barry, Mrs. Norton, Miss Mukle. Afternoon tea was served, and the music was much enjoyed.

There was an animated scene at Coolagantta on Friday, June 5, when Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Morton entertained over 400 guests at a concert and dance. Dobbie, W. A. Walsh (of Sydney), and the host. At the conclusion of the programme a vote of thanks to the performers was proposed by Mr. P. W. Hall, and acknowledged by Messrs. Walsh and Dobbie. The ball which followed was most enjoyable. The dances on the programme were named after the host's well-known jumping horses. There was the "Desmond" waltz, the "Demos" Lancers, the "Pippo" gallop, and the "Cockspur" mazurka. The hall was tastefully decorated with large portraits of Mr. Morton's equine possessions, and the many prize ribbons won by them at city and country shows. The supper was served during a dance interval. The programme card bore the motto, "May the joys of a sportsman never know an end," and this wish was expressed by all the guests.

The Manly Cottage Hospital adult and juvenile balls are to take place on Wednesday and Thursday, July 8 and 9, at the Victoria Hall, Manly. Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Sadler are the secretaries for the balls committee, and prizes are to be awarded for the best juvenile fancy costumes.

E. O. Daly, of Twickenham, Newtown, and granddaughter of the late Mr. Christopher Newton, of Sydney, took place at St. James Church, King-street, Sydney, on Wednesday, May 6. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. I. Carr Smith, assisted by the Rev. S. Marston. The church was prettily decorated, and the city organist (Mr. Mason) and the members of St. James' choir rendered the choral portion of the service. The bride wore a dress of white silk and lace, with a white felt hat trimmed with lace and ospreys, and was given away by her father. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a pearl and turquoise pendant. There were two bridesmaids in attendance—Miss Muriel Myles and Miss Daly. They wore pale string-coloured silk dresses trimmed with lace and black picture hats, the bridegroom's presents to them being turquoise and pearl crescent brooches. Mr. E. Newton Daly acted as best man. A reception was afterwards held at Twickenham, only near relatives on either side being invited. The bride wore a going-away dress of grey voile and a black picture hat.

A quiet wedding took place at St. Matthias', Paddington, on Wednesday evening, June 3, when Mr. J. D. The bride was dressed in grey voile over grey silk, elaborately tucked and trimmed with white chiffon and handsome applique; with this was worn a white felt hat trimmed with white silk, and relieved with turquoise blue velvet. She entered the church on the arm of her brother Mr. E. West, who gave her away, and her only bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Alice West, who wore a frock of rose pink voile, tucked and trimmed with black velvet and cream lace, and a white felt hat. The officiating clergyman was Rev. J. W. Gillett, and Mr. Robert Brownhill was best man. After the ceremony the happy couple left for Gosford, where a part of the honeymoon will be spent.

The second part of the ceremony, which was performed at the residence of Mr. E. QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Rogers and juries.)

Mr. J. H. P. Murray, Crown Prosecutor.

ACQUITTAL.

William Ford and Alexander Edward Parnell pleaded not guilty to a charge of having, on May 3 last, at Redfern, assaulted Mary Kenny with intent. There was a second count of assault. Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for the defence.

The Crown case was that while Mrs. Kenny, a respectable woman, was going to the place where she was employed at Redfern, she had occasion to cross the Prince Alfred Park. She had been on a visit to Duke-street, Woolloomooloo, and the return across the park was at about 12.30 a.m. According to the story of the prosecutrix, she had got half-way through the park, when the two accused and another man pulled her off the footpath. They threw her down, and she screamed from the moment they touched her. The men dragged her along the grass and bruised her shoulders and body as they wrestled with her. Ford knelt at her head and held her arms while Parnell attempted to assault her. Just as she was exhausted Constable Robertson, who had run from near Cleveland-street Public School, came upon the scene. One of the men, hearing the constable approaching, ran away, but Robertson secured the two accused after threatening to put a hole through Parnell, who endeavoured to run away, in order to check his progress. Constables Green and M'Atamany also came upon the scene upon hearing the disturbance. Prosecutrix admitted having called at a hotel at Redfern on the night of the assault, but denied drinking in it or leaving it in an intoxicated condition.

The defence was that the two accused hearing screams from the prosecutrix on the night in question, saw a man run away from the woman. When they came up to the woman she charged them wrongfully with assault. They both denied on oath having interfered with the woman in any way. Evidence was given by several witnesses that the prosecutrix was drinking in a Redfern hotel with them on the night of the assault, taking part in dancing and singing until a late hour.

Counsel's addresses and his Honor's summing up concluded at 8 p.m. After an hour's retirement the jury returned into court to ask some questions regarding the evidence of the three constables. At 10 p.m. the jury again returned into court with a verdict of not guilty in favour of the two accused, who were then discharged.

The Court adjourned to Monday.

CUSTOMS PROSECUTION.

CASES AGAINST R. REID AND CO.

TERMS OF THE SETTLEMENT.

BRISBANE, Friday.

An interesting announcement was made at the Supreme Court to-day, when an application was made to Mr. Justice Cooper on behalf of plaintiff, the Minister for Trade and Customs, in the case against Robert Reid and Co., for leave to compound the second action commenced against the firm on Customs matters in terms of a settlement which had been arrived at between the parties.

The following are the terms of settlement:—

1. Defendants shall pay to plaintiff, or his solicitor, a sum of £250 by way of penalties, all plaintiff's costs of this action to date, including costs of commission to London, the amount of costs to be agreed upon within one month from date of this order, or within such further time as may be granted by plaintiff, or to be taxed by the taxing officer of this honourable Court under authority of this order.

Defendants shall also pay to plaintiff or his solicitor duties on Customs alleged by plaintiff to be unpaid on goods imported by defendants into all States of the Commonwealth, including all duties the Customs claimed on the inside boxing in cases of goods imported by them, especially the sum of £53 duty on boxing not paid by defendants in Sydney.

3. This order for leave to compound shall have the same effect for all purposes as if judgment had been given for plaintiff in respect of offences alleged in the statement of claim, especially as to the forfeiture of goods referred to in the statement of claim in respect of which offences were alleged to have been committed, which goods are to be considered of the value of £250, also for the purpose of taxation of costs in the action if necessary.

4. Plaintiff shall not in the meantime further proceed with this action, and shall, on compliance by defendants with the terms of this order, discontinue this action.

5. Defendants shall not proceed with the appeal against the judgment obtained by plaintiff in action No 52 of 1902, and shall forthwith withdraw their notice of appeal, shall pay to plaintiff or his solicitor the cost of such appeal, such costs to be agreed upon within one month from date of this order or within such further time as may be granted by the plaintiff, or to be taxed by the said taxing officer.

6. Judgment in the second action, No. 52 of 1902, shall not be altered or affected in any way by anything in this order contained.

7. Plaintiff's costs of and incidental to settlement and of application shall also be paid by defendants to plaintiff, or his solicitor, the amount thereof to be agreed to within one month from the date of this order, or within such further time as may be granted by plaintiff, or to be taxed by the said taxing officer.

8. Defendants shall comply with all the terms of this order within one month from date thereof, or within such further time as may be granted by plaintiff.

The formal and written consent of the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth to the compounding action has also been given.

Mr. Feez, for the defendants, said that defendants had something to say on the composition, which for the sake of accuracy he would read: "The composition mentioned has been assented to by defendants. Defendants do not admit that they have been guilty of any of the offences alleged, and particularly deny any intent to defraud, but as it has been made, and looking at the great expense of what would necessarily have been a very protracted trial, defendants thought the course now adopted, namely, that of a settlement, the better one, and consider they have been met in a very fair way by the representatives of the Commonwealth Customs Department. Defendants have agreed to the payment of the duties claimed on inside packing, though they have not admitted their legal liability to pay the same." Mr. Feez added: "You will notice, your Honor, that we agreed to pay this, but have not admitted the legal liability to pay on these goods."

His Honor: I really don't think this Court has anything to do with the reasons which have led to this composition. It seems to me to have nothing to do with the course I ought to take.

His Honor then granted the parties leave to compound upon the terms and conditions mentioned.

ALLEGED COUNTERFEIT COINING.

TENTERFIELD, Friday.

At the police court to-day, before the police magistrate, Charles Wilson and Arthur Armitage, both of Queensland, were charged on remand, the former with having 17 counterfeit coins in his possession resembling sixpences, and Armitage with uttering a counterfeit sixpence and knowing the same to be such, and also with having other counterfeit coins in his possession. THE MURDER OF KING ALEXANDER.

The tragic history of the Obrenovitch dynasty in Servia has ended, as it was begun, in blood, and a kind of poetic destiny will be fulfilled if Prince Karageorgevitch is elected to fill the throne which was erected by the murderer of his grandfather, Kara George. To find a European parallel to the blood-stained reign of the Obrenovitch family in Servia one would have to go back to the middle ages and to the Courts of Italian Princes, when the right of succession was secured by murder and when rival factions thought every means justified which thwarted or removed opponents. Guelf and Ghibelline are repeated in Obrenovitch and Karageorgevitch—were repeated, rather, as the last Obrenovitch has now been murdered. In the 74 years which have covered the occupation of the Servian throne by members of the Obrenovitch house—in which term is included the Karageorgevitch interregnum—there have been five Sovereigns designated as Prince or as King. Of these, two were forced to abdicate, and a third abdicated of his own free will, to all appearance. The revolutionary spirit of the turbulent State brought back two of these men, one of them to be murdered by cowardly assassins in the pay of the Karageorgevitch of the day. The worst of the family, Milan, died quietly in his bed, away from the turmoil of Belgrade, and it is his son, Alexander, who was murdered last Wednesday by officers of the army in which he implicitly trusted.

The world has taken somewhat of a personal interest in the life-history of Alexander of Servia. The name of his father Milan was a byword in every great capital of Europe. Conscienceless, without, as his bitterest enemies declared, even the saving virtue of personal courage, the man was an adept in the arts which go to make a blackleg of the worst kind. He had not the decency to cloak his excesses from the public gaze, and the world, with the chivalry which really belongs to it, after all is said and done, regarded with pity the beautiful Queen Nathalie whose feelings he outraged in every conceivable way. What was to become of the son of this unhappy marriage? Would he inherit the criminal propensities of his father, or would these be restrained by the virtues which he derived from his mother? The boy—he was only thirteen years of age when he ascended the throne and only 27 when he was murdered—was brought up in a bad school, and it came as no surprise to learn that, when 16 years of age, he emancipated himself from his regents' control at the point of the revolver and took command of the ship of state. His power was practically unbridled, whatever King Milan's Constitution of 1889 might say to the contrary. The details of government were naturally irksome; and these he would seem to have left for a space to his Ministers. But the opportunities of pleasure and indulgence which are furnished by a kingly position, even in a state of Servia's comparative poverty and insignificance, would assuredly commend themselves to the son of King Milan. If he availed himself of these opportunities who shall blame him? Restrained by no control, uninfluenced by good example, the lad might have rivalled his father in iniquity. Fortunately for him there was the ex-Queen Nathalie by his side more or less, and the world was not startled by his doings until nearly three years ago, he married the widowed Madame Draga, a lady-in-waiting to his mother and his senior by nine or ten years. He took this step in the teeth of his mother's opposition, but, at first, at any rate, it was not unpopular. There could be little suggestion of a mesalliance. Rather, people thought at first, that it was a fine thing for a king to follow his bent. Then troubles came. There was no issue of the marriage, and Servians thought that the succession to the throne was sought by the new Queen's relatives, that their King was a mere pawn in the hands of his masterful wife. Then came the suspension of the Constitution a few months ago, and now the end of all: the murder of the King and Queen in their palace. The pages of history may be searched in vain for a parallel to so tragic an ending of a romantic love-story. In their death King Alexander and Queen Draga were not divided.

Turning away from the thoughts suggested by the description of the murder contained in this morning's cables, the mind naturally reverts to the effect which the crime will have upon the whole Balkans question. The late King dallied with the Russian and the Austro-Hungarian alliances, at one time leaning to the former and at another to the latter. But if Prince Karageorgevitch should succeed to the throne the tendency of Servia, so far as the royal influence is concerned, will be towards Russia, which has always supported the pretensions of this family. Incidentally it is to be noted that the national feeling of Servia is against Turkey, whatever else it may be; and herein lies a natural bond of union with Russia. On the other hand there is the friendship with Austria-Hungary founded on geographical conditions and sustained by recollections of good service. Without the aid of Russia no Karageorgevitch can ascend the throne of Servia and make sure his station there. Yet it is essential to the peace of Austria-Hungary that Servia shall be at least a neutral State; if it were reduced to the position of a province of Russia, nominally independent but really a vassal, the Austrian army on the frontiers would soon be strengthened. Then, with the Turks massing in force in Old Servia, we have all the elements of a conflagration, especially if Russia, as she assuredly would, felt herself impelled to discharge the functions of the divinely appointed guardian of Christians. The barbarous method adopted by the Servian revolutionists for ridding themselves of a King of whom they have become weary has so far succeeded that King and Queen now lie dead. Whether they have thereby secured a greater degree of liberty for their country yet remains to be seen, but the probability is that they have exchanged the whips of Solomon for the scorpions of Rehoboam.

LORD TENNYSON ON OUR PIONEERS.

In the course of a happy little address at the Lord Mayor's luncheon on Tuesday the Governor-General referred in passing to that type of colonist now in some sense passing away—the Australian pioneer. "I have run up against all sorts and conditions of men," said Lord Tennyson, "in my travels through your island continent, and I have become acquainted with your pioneers of to-day in various walk of life; and they are of frank, independent, generous, and energetic natures, with the grit of their famous forefathers and foremothers—the pioneers of Australia in the beginning and middle of last century." There were two classes of pioneers in the speaker's mind, but in the rush of development and practical work we are led sometimes to forget the services and character of the men who first made the country fit to live in. The pioneer work of Australia is by no means done yet, and the pioneers of to-day are as busy as their forerunners were before them. But that is not a sufficient reason why those others should be allowed to pass into forgetfulness, and indeed the country would be the poorer without the tradition of their services, whether of leaders or of the rank and file. There must in the nature of things have been something essentially self-helpful and self-reliant about the men and women who came so far afield in the early half of last century to hew homes for themselves out of the unexplored wilderness that then lay before the newcomer in Australia. Having once given the hostages of their life-prospects to fortune they held on to their task, for after entering on such a quest in the old days there was little or no chance of turning back. They had to plough to the end of the furrow they had chosen, and the very difficulties they encountered stiffened their nerve and hardened their muscles for the fight. As in the rough work of colonisation and settlement, so with the rest. It fell to the lot of pioneers in different walks of life to shape the framework of our social and professional life, to set the foundations of our political system, to plant religion with its institutions and its safeguards, and in a general way to set the vast machinery of the new continent in motion. It was an interesting work, and we know how well it was done.

Perhaps we are still too near the men of the past to see their labours in their proper perspective. An observant onlooker, and especially one at the Governor-General's standpoint, would be more likely to enjoy that advantage. But now that he has directed attention to the subject a little consideration suffices to give a grasp not only of what was done but of the special circumstances under which it was performed. The merely material work of the pioneers was done in its first stages under even greater difficulties than beset some of those who first colonised New England. If they had the Indian our pioneers had the aboriginal to contend with. Their soil was richer and better adapted for cultivation than most of ours, and the men who first cleared our forests and opened up the back country had droughts, floods, and bush fires to fight against, even as the man on the land has now. At this point, it may be said, the pioneers of the past and present touch one another. There was little or no element of picturesque adventure to give a touch of glamour to their lives as we see them from the distance, and it is to be feared that in some instances the depressing descriptions written sometimes of the arid lives in the less accessible portions of the country are not entirely overdrawn. But of course there were and are compensations, and as Lord Tennyson said, the pioneer, with his healthful open-air life, his strenuous endeavour, and his hopeful courage, is still the backbone of the country. It is a pity we have not more of him—that the supply of fresh blood and young, British-bred bone and sinew is not now so freely drawn upon. South Africa and Canada offer competing attractions. But the Australian-born have inherited the characteristics of those who years ago crossed half the world in search of a new outlet for their energies and the chance to make a home. Lord Tennyson finds the Australian population still vitalised and animated by the same spirit of enterprise, and it cannot be too long remembered that those who opened up Australia must have been the pick of the energy and determination of the surplus population of the three kingdoms, to have taken and acted on what at that time and under the then conditions of ocean-travelling must have appeared so heroic a resolution.

But it is not what we designate the material pioneers alone who have a title to be recognised and remembered. What more remarkable reflection could the observer and historian of the growth of States make than that the political conditions in Australia to-day had their origin in the little tree of constitutional liberty transplanted by these same pioneers? They came from the plough, the factory, the shop, and indeed from most callings. Such political education as the rank and file had, and perhaps the case might be stated even more strongly than that, was probably gathered from the Reform and anti-Corn Law agitations. But they carried the instinct of constitutionalism within them; and when the time came that saw their ambition realised, and they were called upon to administer responsible political institutions themselves, they displayed an unsuspected capacity for the duty. Politicians and administrators developed out of what on the emigrant ships of the early half and middle of last century must have appeared anything but promising material. The Australian pioneer, in short, developed the same self-governing instinct which has been the secret of success in British colonisation everywhere. A list of names culled almost at random from the lists of Australian public men in all the States would strikingly illustrate what is here said. To be sure, all our political pioneers were not of the same type. It was fortunate for the future of the country that these ranks contained men from the earliest date like Wentworth and Wardell, and there were others in each colony who were similarly qualified to shape the character and guide the steps of the young and eager democracy. It was largely through them that, as Lord Tennyson said, we inherit our well-balanced British institutions and British responsible self-government. Our pioneer generations were of mixed blend, therefore; and if some of them left their bones to whiten on bush-tracks and others died in the peerage, Australia became the gainer by what was best in both elements. We cannot afford to part with the examples and results of either, and when we are reminded, as we are now by the remarks of Lord Tennyson, of what we owe to the men of the past, distinctions of this kind vanish and we associate them all in a common and honoured memory.

To-day's "Herald."—"Life in London" will be found on page 5. In view of cablegrams received recently peculiar interest attaches to that part of Mr. Lucy's letter regarding the abolition of the corn tax and the predicament such a step placed certain Ministers in. Then Mr. Lucy has comments on two epoch-marking speeches, one relating to the Irish land question, and the other to the progress of the Transvaal. The "Woman's Letter" from London will also be found on page 5. It relates to the close of the tour of the King, the Deceased Wife's Sister Bill, dress, and other subjects. Our weekly article on the wool market is printed in the "On the Land" section of the paper, page 7.

Official Dinner at Parliament House.—The President of the Legislative Council will give an official full-dress dinner at Parliament House on Monday evening next. The guests will number about one hundred.

Peruvian Consulate.—Consequent upon the death of Mr. W. J. MacGeorge, who for many years filled the office of Consul for Peru in this city, Mr. John Maitland Paxton, of 18 Bridge-street, has been appointed acting Consular representative in Sydney.

An Important Decision.—A decision having an important bearing on the shipping of the port, and one that would, in the event of no remedial action being available, have a somewhat depressing influence upon the members of a large industrial union—the Wharf Labourers—was given yesterday in the Arbitration Court. The Wharf Labourers' Union applied for an injunction to restrain the master of a schooner from employing the members of his crew in the work of discharging cargo. It was sought by the claimant to have the respondent classified as a "stevedore carrying on business, &c., in the port of Sydney," and it was contended that, in accordance with the industrial agreement which had been made the common rule, the respondent should have employed union labour to do the work. It was urged in support of the contention that as soon as the hatches were removed the work of stevedoring commenced. The President of the Court, in giving judgment, said that the award did not include ship's captains, and the only question to consider was whether the respondent was carrying on the business of stevedoring. The carrying on of a business, his Honor said, implied a continuity of transactions or operations. The summons was dismissed, as it was held that respondent did not carry on such a business. Seeing the possibilities created by such a decision, his Honor immediately afterwards announced that the contingency might be met by the claimant union applying to the Court to have the award amended to include such persons. He gave it as his opinion that the captain of every vessel that came into Port Jackson, whether British or foreign, should be amenable to the common rule.

Breaches of Arbitration Awards.—From time to time complaints have been made in regard to the congestion of business in the Arbitration Court. The matter was again referred to yesterday by the President, Mr. Justice Cohen, during the hearing of a case in which a breach of an award of the Court was alleged to have been committed. His Honor said that the heavy accumulation of work in the court was in a large measure due to the issue of so many summonses for alleged breaches of the Court's awards. The time had arrived, in his opinion, when the Court would have to take into consideration the necessity of inflicting heavier penalties when cases involving breaches of the awards were proved. The awards of the Court would have to be obeyed. It appeared to him that the practice hitherto obtaining of inflicting light penalties contributed somewhat to the recurrence of these actions.

A Tender for the Sobraon.—The Minister for Education has informed Mr. J. J. Power, M.L.A., that the Cabinet has approved of the proposal to purchase a sea-going tender for the nautical school ship Sobraon, and that inquiries are now being made with a view to obtaining a suitable vessel.

Stonemasons and Day Labour.—The action of the Public Service Board in discontinuing its inquiry into the alleged excessive cost of stone-cutting work at Prince Alfred Hospital was referred to at a meeting of the Stonemasons' Society last night. The delegates who attended the inquiry on behalf of the society submitted a brief report, which was discussed. The following resolution was eventually carried:—"That this meeting of the Stonemasons' Society demands that the inquiry now indefinitely postponed by the Public Service Board into the cost of cutting stone work on the Prince Alfred Hospital pavilions now in course of erection should be immediately reopened in order that the fullest opportunity may be given to this society to refute the charge of slowing down levelled against the members employed thereon by the Government Architect and his officers." It was decided to forward a copy of the resolution to the Minister for Works.

Registration of Firms Act, 1902.—We have been asked to call attention to requirements of the Registration of Firms Act. The six months' grace allowed by the Act for registration of businesses carried on under firm-name in existence prior to January 1 last will expire on July 1, and it should be borne in mind that penalties will be incurred by non-registration. The Act requires registration in the case of every business in which the firm-name does not include the full name of all the partners or of the individual carrying on the business, and applies to all branches of professions and trades. "Firm-name" means the name or style under which any business is carried on, whether in partnership or otherwise, and the scope of the Act is, therefore, much wider than its title would imply. In fact, most businesses will be found to require registration. The necessary forms and all information may be obtained at the Registrar-General's Department, where statements should be lodged. The registration fee under ordinary circumstances is 5s.

Naval News.—Return of H.M.S. Penguin.—H.M.S. Penguin, surveying vessel, which has been absent from Sydney for a period of upwards of nine months, returned to Sydney last evening after a rough trip from Wellington. She sailed on September 23 last year, and at once resumed her survey of the Bay of Plenty. Several months were occupied in surveying work in Wellington Harbour and the entrance thereto, and new charts are to be prepared. Soon after the Penguin arrived at New Zealand she was despatched by order of the Admiral in search of the survivors of the wreck of the steamer Elingamite, and succeeded, it will be remembered, in rescuing those afloat on one of the rafts. H.M.S. Torch was despatched from Sydney yesterday for the north-eastern division of the Australian Naval Station, the headquarters of which are at Fiji, and she will be absent for several months.

Opening of Shops on Saturday.—We are informed by the Department of Labour and Industry that in respect of the public holiday recently observed inquiries have been made as to whether it would affect the practice of certain Jewish shopkeepers in keeping their business establishments open on Saturday. We are asked to say that ordinarily Jewish shopkeepers who choose the Wednesday half-holiday are permitted to keep open till 6 o'clock on that day if they close for "any religious purpose" on the Saturday till 6 p.m., after which hour they may open till 10 p.m. It is desired to explain to such shopkeepers that if, having closed for the whole of the public holiday and none of their assistants has been employed on that day, they wish to abandon for this week the observance of Saturday for a religious purpose, they are at liberty to do so, so far as the Early Closing Acts are concerned, and under such circumstances may keep their shops open for the whole of the day and till 10 o'clock in the evening.

The English Mails.—The mails by the R.M.S. Orita, bearing the date of London, May 15, are expected to reach Sydney in time for delivery at about 1.30 p.m. on Wednesday next. The mails which left Sydney by the R.M.S. Ventura on May 4 arrived in London on June 10.

Coal for South Africa.—A few days ago Mr. Valder, commercial agent for New South Wales in South Africa, sent a cable message to the Premier respecting supplies of coal required for South Africa. As the information contained in the message was meagre in character, Mr. Valder was asked to state at which ports the coal had to be delivered, the required quantities per month, and the length of time over which the contract would extend. A reply was received yesterday from Mr. Valder as follows:—"Capetown, 8000 tons; Port Elizabeth, 2000 per month; none for East London; total, 10,000 tons per month for 12 months, commencing January next. Tenders close July 6."

A Correction.—We regret that in our report of the divorce suit Armstrong v. Armstrong, published yesterday, the names of the parties were, through an inadvertence, transposed. It should have appeared that the petitioner, Edwin Armstrong, asked for a divorce from his wife, Henrietta Wilhelmina Armstrong, on the ground of her drunkenness and neglect of her domestic duties. His Honor granted the decree nisi for the dissolution of the marriage, making it returnable in three months, and gave the petitioner the custody of his children.

Mr. Broughton announces in our auction columns the sale to-day of the Erith estate at Mosman, which has been subdivided into allotments.

Regulations relating to leases for tramways, building, machinery, and residence areas for mining purposes, in pursuance of the powers conferred by the Mining Act, 1874, appear in the "Government Gazette," No. 301.

From the Department of Mines and Agriculture we have received "The Kerosene Shale Deposits of New South Wales," with maps, plates, and sections, by Mr. J. E. Carne, F.G.S., Assistant Government Geologist, illustrated by photographs, maps, and sections. The work deals exhaustively with the subject, and is divided into five parts. Part I. embraces the general character of kerosene shale—physical, chemical, and organic. Part II. treats of its distribution and mode of occurrence throughout the world, and the chronological order of discovery and opening of New South Wales deposits.

A branch of the Government Savings Bank has been established at Bermagui.

Special trips at frequent intervals will be run between Sydney and Manly to-morrow for the convenience of those desiring to witness the procession at St. Patrick's College, Manly.

The members of the Paddington-Woollahra debating Society, at its meeting on Wednesday night, discussed the subject of reduction of members of the Legislature. Mr. W. Duncan was in the chair. Mr. J. Meade moved,—"That local government should precede reduction of members in the State Parliament." Mr. R. V. Hodgson opposed, and after a lengthy discussion the motion was declared lost.

The Women's Australian Natives' Association held their fortnightly meeting on Thursday evening, in the Queen's Hall. There was a large attendance. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Lady See, the chair was taken by Mrs. A. N. Jonson, who had been elected unanimously as vice-president. Mrs. Jonson urged the women to join the association, and provide for themselves and families in time of sickness. Messrs. Terry, Burns, and Meade also spoke upon the aims and objects of the association, and Miss Belle Golding delivered an address upon "Australia for the Australians."

THE BLAIRGOWRIE TRAGEDY.

RESULT OF RELIGIOUS MANIA.

BRISBANE, Friday.

Further particulars of the tragedy at Blairgowrie, near Barcaldine, show that the murder was the result of religious mania. On Sunday Mr. Tuckerman was perfectly sane, transacting business with a man named Cudmore. On Sunday night he became despondent and on Monday broke out into a violent mania, saying he was King Solomon, and had to offer human sacrifices, that his wife, Fanny, was an unbeliever and would have to die. Mrs. Tuckerman had no fear, saying she could manage him.

At 10 o'clock on Tuesday night a man named Bellamy, who was in the kitchen, heard Tuckerman say, "I am going to kill you, Fanny, much as I love you, or you won't go to Heaven." Mrs. Tuckerman ran out. Bellamy went to intercept Tuckerman. They struggled until near the gate, when Bellamy was rendered only semi-conscious by a blow. He saw Tuckerman pick up a stick and strike his wife one blow on the head. Tuckerman then went raving into the house, while Bellamy ran for a horse and went for assistance.

When starting, Bellamy noticed Tuckerman about 100 yards off in the bush. Tuckerman, when going into the house, said he was going for a razor to finish Bellamy. The supposition is that on returning and finding Bellamy gone he went into the bush seeking him. Tuckerman now boasts of having killed his wife, and regrets not having murdered his three daughters. He gave some trouble in coming to Barcaldine in the train, but is now calm, with an occasional recognition of his old friends.

The funeral of Mrs. Tuckerman this morning was very largely attended.

AN EXTRAORDINARY WATER-SPOUT.

KIAMA, Friday.

Several fishermen who were at the schnapper grounds this morning and a good many residents of Kiama witnessed a phenomenal sight about 10.30, in the shape of a magnificent waterspout, which burst about three miles at sea, off Mount Pleasant. The base of the waterspout was very large, and nearly as black as ink. The oldest resident of this district has no recollection of ever seeing a similar spectacle.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

A DENIAL OF JUSTICE.

The result of the decision in the case of Gelding v. Kingston, which practically meant that there is no Court to which a citizen can appeal for redress against the Commonwealth administration has roused a good deal of uneasiness in commercial circles. The mercantile community has taken the matter up not so much on account of the interests of the particular plaintiff concerned but because a great principle is at stake. A movement is on foot to secure joint action by all the Chambers of Commerce in Australia in respect to the matter. What action they will take has yet to be decided. Meanwhile arrangements will probably be made for a motion of adjournment in the House of Representatives to allow of the discussion of the matter, or a motion will be tabled for the production of papers in the case.

There is also in preparation a petition to be presented to the Federal Parliament. The petitioners state that a vital principle in the administration of justice is threatened, and that the provisions of Magna Charta, in which it is laid down that "justice shall not be delayed or denied to any man," are being invaded. The prayer of the petition puts the case in a nutshell: "That your Parliament will adopt measures to bring the Minister for Customs and his officers under the immediate jurisdiction of some court of law wherein any citizen may claim these rights, which have existed from time immemorial."

THE SUGAR REBATES.

ALLOCATION OF TRUST FUND.

Sir John See has sent to the Federal Premier a further letter bearing on an equitable distributive basis for the imposition of sugar rebates and allocation of the money obtained. Sir John's main contention in the controversy has been that a policy intended to benefit the whole people should be at the common expense, and he advocated the pooling of the whole revenue from sugar, deducting the rebates and dividing the balance amongst the States according to their consumption. Sir George Turner claimed the sugar duties with other duties, and said that if there was to be pooling it must be comprehensive and not partial. Sir John See's answer to that is that the sugar rebates form a matter apart from all other duties. In the letter he dwelt at some length on the difficulties and anomalies of the present system in order to contrast it with the system he had proposed, viz., of distributing the net revenue from sugar amongst the States according to their consumption of sugar. "It is true," he wrote, "as Sir George Turner shows, Victoria, South Australia, and Western Australia would have lost revenue under my plan during last year, but it is quite probable under the present system that a change in the method of carrying on the sugar trade may at any moment lead to a disturbance of revenue conditions detrimental to the States mentioned; but in any circumstances a question like this ought not to be determined by the manner in which the revenue of one State or other is affected, but on the broader grounds of equity and public good. Sir George Turner thinks that these would be met by a continuance of the present method of distributing the revenue of Customs and excise. I do not agree with him, and therefore we may agree to differ. The mode of distributing revenue between the States is determined by the Constitution, and Sir George Turner claims that his present mode of distribution is that contemplated thereby. If his contention be right there can be no further argument about the justice or otherwise of such distribution, and the matter being at an end I must remain satisfied with the point conceded, viz., that the bonus on white-grown sugar should be at the expense of the whole people of the Commonwealth. In conclusion I would suggest that the decision arrived at should have effect from the time the bonus provisions came into force, and not from the date of any future legislation. Thus, I take it, is in accordance with Sir George Turner's views, inasmuch as no distribution of money collected by way of sugar excise has yet been made."

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Sir George Turner, the Commonwealth Treasurer, hopes that substantial progress will be made next week with the Sugar Bonus Bill. It is intended to give it precedence, and the Treasurer wishes that it be dealt with as quickly as possible, so that the Trust Fund, which has accumulated in consequence of the excise duty not having been paid over to the various States, may be released. The accumulated funds now amount to nearly a quarter of a million. Except for one payment of £200,000 made to Queensland, the fund is intact. If the Bonus Bill becomes law the amount to be distributed amongst the States after making allowances on a population basis will be as follows:—

New South Wales	£[illegible]
Victoria	[illegible]
Queensland	61,049
South Australia	Nil
Western Australia	[illegible]
Tasmania	[illegible]

This makes a grand total of £211,17[illegible]. In the case of South Australia, she has £[illegible] to her credit in the fund, but her share of rebate is £[illegible], so that, instead of receiving anything, she will have to pay to the extent of £1158. Queensland has already, as before mentioned, received £200,000 on account, therefore the net sum due to her is £[illegible]. Sir George Turner says the State Treasurers are already aware of the windfalls, as they were included in the estimate made by him some time ago. He hopes to be in a position to make the payments at the close of the financial year.

THE HIGH COURT.

At a meeting of the Employers' Federation on Thursday it was unanimously resolved,—"That, in face of the great depression through which Australia is passing, the Federal Parliament should be asked to stay for the present the creation of the High Court, which would involve the taxpayers of the Commonwealth in large additional expenditure unless it could be economically constituted by the appointment of the Chief Justices of the various States."

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. Deakin, Attorney-General, is highly pleased at the result of the division on the second reading of the High Court Bill. He hopes it will now pass into law. It is possible that some attempt will be made to alter one or two of its clauses by inserting a provision that a single Judge may sit in an appellate capacity in certain cases. This matter is being urged on the Government by some of its supporters. With regard to the number of Judges proposed in the measure, Mr. Deakin is of opinion that the House will hardly cut it down, as several members who opposed the measure seeing their opposition was futile are now in favour of making the Bench as strong as possible. The suggestion that was made several times during the debate that the Chief Justices of the States should act as members of the High Court, and thus do away with the necessity of appointing permanent Judges of the Court does not appear to find much favour with members generally as they regard the inconveniences of such a practice as likely to outweigh the advantages.

MINISTERIAL MOVEMENTS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Sir Edmund Barton left by to-night's express for Sydney, and will return on Monday. Sir William Lyne is in Tasmania, and Sir John Forrest has gone for a week-end trip to Bairnsdale.

OFFICERS' DEFERRED PAY.

The officers commanding regiments in New South Wales and Queensland for a long time received special allowances, but a little time ago these were discontinued, and great dissatisfaction has arisen in consequence. Sir John Forrest, Minister for Defence, has now decided that in New South Wales the commanding officers shall have the allowances continued until the end of the year. The amount to be paid over to them is £224. The Minister has decided that the Queensland commanding and other officers who have received allowances shall be treated as those in New South Wales. The amount payable in that State is £548. A minute embodying that decision has been written, and will be submitted at the next meeting of the Executive for approval.

GUIDE TO "THE TARIFF GUIDE."

BRISBANE, Friday.

A telegram received from Melbourne on Thursday stated that the Brisbane Chamber of Commerce was under a misapprehension regarding the duty on match boxes mentioned in "The Tariff Guide." The president of the chamber states that the chamber were under no misapprehension, as the Customs authorities had distinctly informed him that a duty of 3d per pound would be charged on empty boxes if they bore advertising matter. It was also stated that a local mercantile firm were yesterday informed that, notwithstanding "The Tariff Guide" to the contrary, the duty would be collected until advices were received from headquarters countermanding the previous practice. Business people are now asking for a guide to "The Tariff Guide."

THE REVOLUTION IN SERVIA.

ASSASSINATION OF THE SOVEREIGNS.

A MILITARY CONSPIRACY.

ALEXANDER DEFENDS HIS QUEEN.

THEY MEET THEIR DEATH SIMULTANEOUSLY.

DOUBT AS TO SUCCESSOR.

MURDERS OF MINISTERS.

LONDON, June 11.

More detailed particulars have now been received of the assassination of King Alexander of Servia and Queen Draga on Wednesday night, and the proclamation of Prince Peter Karageorgevitch as King.

Major Angoukovitch headed the conspiracy, which was executed before midnight.

Queen Draga's brother, sister, and aide-de-camp, and M. Todorovitch (the Minister of the Interior) were among those assassinated.

Crowds of persons have been passing in the streets of Belgrade since 3 o'clock in the morning following on the tragedy without uttering reproach. The crowds gave cheers for General Protich, the new Minister of the Interior.

THE PLOTTINGS.

LONDON, June 12.

The army of Servia had been hostile to the Throne since the coup d'etat effected by the King in April.

The plot had been ripening for weeks, and was accelerated lest the new Skuptshina, which was elected last week, giving the Premier, General Markovitch, a great majority, should settle the succession to the Throne in favour of Captain Lungyevitza, a brother of Queen Draga.

THE METHOD OF ASSASSINATION.

LONDON, June 11.

When Lieutenant-Colonel Naumovitch called at the Palace, Belgrade, he asked King Alexander to abdicate. The King thereupon shot him. The 6th Regiment, commanded by Colonel Maschin, the brother of Queen Draga's first husband, subsequently occupied the Palace. Several of the Palace guards were killed.

June 12.

The 6th Regiment of Infantry, which was garrisoning Belgrade, was disaffected. At midnight on Wednesday the regiment surrounded the Palace and overpowered the guards, killing 100 of them, including the commander.

Lieutenant-Colonel M. Naumovitch, King Alexander's adjutant, by means of a bomb broke open the door of the Royal bedroom and entered the apartment, accompanied by Colonel Mischets and Colonel Maschin and some junior officers.

Lieutenant-Colonel Naumovitch presented to the King a form of abdication, directing him to sign it, because he had married a woman of ill repute and so had degraded the country.

King Alexander cried "Traitor!" and instantly shot Lieutenant-Colonel Naumovitch dead.

On Colonel Mischets again presenting the document asking for the King's abdication King Alexander and Queen Draga in their night attire fled to the roof of the palace, where they were killed.

Other accounts say that when Lieutenant-Colonel Naumovitch was shot, Queen Draga appealed to Colonel Mischets, who replied, "Let the King abdicate and free Servia from your miserable presence."

Then Colonel Maschin, who had just murdered Captain Lungyevitza after a heroic resistance against heavy odds, entered the bedroom.

The King told the Queen to flee. Both King and Queen were overtaken on the roof of the palace.

King Alexander bravely faced his assailants, and tried to protect the Queen.

Major Lazarovitch, whom the King had disgraced, shot him in the face. The King fell. He tried to rise and speak. Major Lazarovitch fired a second shot, which proved fatal.

Simultaneously, soldiers shot Queen Draga, who, falling on her husband's body, received a bayonet wound in the neck.

The bodies of the King and the Queen were rolled in sheets, were lowered to the palace courtyard, and there placed in a waggon, where they remained till removed to a chapel.

THE MURDER OF MINISTERS AND OFFICIALS.

Two of the brothers of Queen Draga were killed in the palace.

General Nikolitch, with the 8th Infantry, tried to come to the assistance of the King. On the way he encountered a strong force under General Gagovitch. In the fight which followed General Gagovitch was killed and General Nikolitch was severely wounded.

Pretending to have an urgent message soldiers got access to General Markovitch, the Premier, and murdered him.

General Pavlovitch, the Minister for War, fled to the barracks, where 25 shots were fired at him. Some took effect and killed him.

M. V. Todorovitch, the Minister for the Interior, was murdered in his house.

The daughter of M. Todorovitch was murdered while trying to shield her father.

The report of the murder of the Queen's sister has not been confirmed.

THE OFFICIAL EXPLANATION.

Officials explained to the people of Belgrade, when the murder of the King and Queen became known, that after dinner on Wednesday night King Alexander suddenly directed Queen Draga to leave the country. She refused. The King thereupon ordered the military to occupy the Palace. The friends of the Queen rallied to her. A fight ensued, with the result that the King and the Queen were killed.

PRINCE KARAGEORGEVITCH.

LONDON, June 11.

The diplomatists at London do not anticipate the outbreak of civil war in Servia.

King Alexander has been unpopular since his marriage with Queen Draga on August 6, 1900, and more especially after Queen Draga's attempt to secure the succession of the crown to her family.

The election of Prince Peter Karageorgevitch, who is at Geneva, to the Throne is the most probable solution of the situation.

In the event of unexpected complications arising in Servia, Austrian troops will probably restore order.

June 12.

Prince Peter Karageorgevitch declares that he did not participate in the plot, which he regards as a detestable crime.

The Skuptshina, which has been summoned, is the one which King Alexander dismissed in March. It is expected that the Skuptshina will endorse the election of Prince Peter Karageorgevitch, or will appoint to the Throne his son, Prince George Karageorgevitch, who is being educated at the Russian Court.

THE NEW MINISTRY.

LONDON, June 11.

M. Avakumovitch, the new Premier, has issued a proclamation announcing that King Alexander and Queen Draga were shot. The proclamation continues:—"Friends of the Fatherland in this fateful moment have combined to form a new Government, and invite the people to assist to maintain order and security. The Constitution of 1901 will be restored, and the nation's representatives summoned to meet on 15th instant."

M. Kalievitch has been appointed Minister for Foreign Affairs, and General Protich Minister of the Interior.

June 12.

Colonel Maschin has been appointed Minister for Works.

EXECUTANTS OF THE PLOT.

LONDON June 12.

Though the coup d'etat was executed by a few officers and two detachments of troops, the rest of the army has quietly acquiesced in the new state of affairs.

AUSTRIA'S INTENTIONS.

LONDON, June 12.

Austria is understood to be friendly to the accession of Prince Karageorgevitch to the throne of Servia if the interests of Austria are not jeopardised.

CAUSE OF THE REVOLUTION.

LONDON, June 12.

The Radical newspapers of Servia declare that the chief causes of the conspiracy are the recent scandalous elections to the Skuptshina, the King's uncourteous treatment of officers, the intention of the King to remove the war school to Shabatz, and the selection of Queen Draga's brother as heir to the throne.

GRIEF OF EX-QUEEN NATALIE.

LONDON, June 12.

Ex-Queen Natalie of Servia, who is at Paris, is overwhelmed with grief at the murder of her son, King Alexander.

A CLAIRVOYANT'S PREDICTION.

Mr. W. T. Stead asserts that in March last one of his clairvoyants predicted the murder of King Alexander.

HISTORY OF THE FEUD.

SERVIA'S EARLY STRUGGLES.

CHARACTER OF ALEXANDER AND DRAGA.

"I would sooner meet a raging tiger in the jungle than a Bulgarian, a Montenegrin, or a Servian in his mountains." This was the emphatic expression of opinion by an Austrian gentleman yesterday, when referring to the people who have just upheld the character of the Balkans as the storm centre of Europe. Revolution and regicide—in those two words is written the whole history of the Servian nation for the past century. The Obrenovitch dynasty's star, which set in blood at Belgrade two days since, rose in the first place from the mists of murder.

The Consul-General for Austria-Hungary, Dr. August Schoedel, was asked if he could throw any light upon the intrigues which culminated in the assassination of King Alexander and Queen Draga. However, he asked to be excused, as he considered that his official position precluded his making any remarks for publication. But Mr. Lichtner (Messrs. Lichtner and Co.), Carrington-street, Wynyard-square, and other gentlemen who are well in touch with Balkan affairs threw an interesting light upon the character and condition of the Servians. The information they supplied is included in this article.

A CENTRE OF INTRIGUE.

Like the rest of the Balkan States, Servia seems never happy unless she has an internecine or foreign war on hand. Generally speaking the people are Slavs, and their religion is that of the Greek Orthodox Church. Of course, as is well known, the Czar of Russia is the head of that denomination in Russia, and in this fact is found an explanation of much of the intrigue in the Balkans that has kept European statesmen in a constant tremor of excitement, of apprehension, and of perplexity. The Church has been pulling towards Russia. King Alexander, although his predilections were not particularly strong, was rather antagonistic to Russia. The chief trade of the country is with Austria-Hungary, and the more extended the trade relations generally the wider the sympathies between nations. Then as another element Turkey scowls over the southern frontier, gazing eagerly but impotently at this little kingdom of 18,754 square miles, upon which her weakening grasp finally relaxed in 1882. Thus it is seen all the elements for constant and unceasing mining and counter-mining are present. Religion animating and assisting Russian designs; trade a paramount consideration with Austria, and a lost suzerainty swaying Turkey's policy towards poor Servia.

SERVIA'S EARLY HISTORY.

The history of the country has been troubled since the earliest times. In the eighteenth and preceding centuries the Servians were crushed beneath the heel of Turkey. The Ottoman Government has failed in many directions, but never when its efforts were directed to persecuting a Christian people. Servia learned that, and the lesson has burned in. To this day there is a bitter hatred between the countries. One or two abortive efforts to throw off the Turkish yoke were made, but without success, until in 1804 Kara George, a wealthy breeder of swine, who had served in the Austrian Army, headed a successful insurrection and expelled the Turks from the country. Even as early as this time Russia was surreptitiously assisting Servia, or at all events lending her countenance to Servia's struggle for independence. When Turkey, between 1808 and 1810, made strenuous efforts to reconquer the State, Russia openly helped Kara George to drive them back.

THE KARAGEORGEVITCH DYNASTY.

Servia freed from her oppressors and in possession of a constitutional government, might have then expected to enjoy a surcease from the horrors of war. But internal matters soon became complicated. There was a Russian and an Austrian party in the State. Kara George himself had designed placing the country under the protection of Austria, and the comparative prosperity and immunity from crises which Bosnia and Herzegovina enjoy to-day under the rule of Austria-Hungary show that ignorant and illiterate though he was he possessed far-seeing political wisdom. But for a time the pro-Russian faction was predominant until in 1812 Russia, being menaced by Napoleon, deserted the Christians in the Balkans. Turkey saw her opportunity, and struck hard and at once. Kara George seems for once to have been incapable of rising to the occasion, and he fled to Austria. The Servians fought bravely for a while, but, deserted by their chief, they were eventually subjugated.

THE FIRST OBRENOVITCH.

It was at this stage that the first of the Obrenovitch dynasty, of which King Alexander was the last direct representative, emerged from obscurity. Milosh Obrenovitch was a farm servant, but he inherited a considerable fortune, and upon the flight of Kara George he became the leader of the Servians. His actions at this stage of the nation's history have been differently construed. Certainly he appeared to act for a while as a zealous supporter of the Turkish rule, and he promptly suppressed a Servian rebellion in 1815. The following year he was acclaimed "Supreme Chief" of the Serbs or Servians and he commenced operations against the Turks. So successful was he that he was able to secure a peace which gave the Servians semi-independence. Immediately internal trouble recommenced and in 1817 Kara George returned to Servia. Milosh Obrenovitch promptly dealt with him in the fashion that a descendant of the murdered man by instigation dealt with the Obrenovitch who ruled but two days since. He had him assassinated. That was the beginning of the feud between the families of Obrenovitch and Kara Georgevitch. It is now ended. The last of the Obrenovitches has been slain.

CONSPIRACY, INTRIGUE, AND ABDICATION.

The more recent history of Servia is fairly well known. Milosh assassinated anyone who seemed likely to dispute his supremacy, and he ruled by the iron hand. Constitutional Government existed in name, but in name only. After a long period of intrigue, during which Russia gained a strong hold in the councils of the country, Milosh was forced to abdicate in favour of his son Milan in 1839. Milan died almost immediately, and Michael Obrenovitch was proclaimed. In 1842 Michael was forced to resign, and Alexander Kara Georgevitch became Prince. After a few years of prosperity and peace Alexander became very unpopular, and conspiracies against his life became common. In 1858 he fled to Belgrade, and Milosh Obrenovitch was recalled with acclamation. He died in 1860 after raising Servia into a foremost position among the Balkan States, and he was succeeded by Michael, who again mounted the throne.

A GREAT PRINCE.

This Prince seems to have been seized with good ideals and to have laboured for the weal of his people. He welded the scattered guerilla bands into an effective army, and introduced the principle of conscription and took measures which led to the final withdrawal of the Turks from the Servian fortresses. But just as Prince Michael was raising his country into a proud and independent position the never-resting hand of the Servian assassin marked him as a victim. His murder in 1868 led to the issue of a decree by the National Assembly providing for the exclusion for ever of the Karageorgevitch family from the throne of Servia. This decree stands to this day. It will be interesting to see how it will operate in regard to the proclamation of Peter Karageorgevitch. After a Regency which was marked by the wirepulling which inevitably seems to characterise Servian politics Prince Milan came to the throne in 1872. A disastrous war with Turkey followed, and Servia was only saved from national extinction by Russia. However in a later campaign, acting with Russia, Servia won her independence, and ceased to be tributary to the Sultan. In 1882 Milan was proclaimed King.

MILAN AND NATALIE.

Of Milan's character much need not be said. Educated at Paris, he learned all the vices of that city, and he introduced most of them at Belgrade. A war with Bulgaria, in which Servia was badly beaten, and was only saved from absolute ruin by the intervention of Austria, shook his prestige. Then his domestic quarrels with his wife, formerly Natalie Keschko, daughter of a Russian Colonel, became a public scandal. The Pretender, Peter Karageorgevitch instigated conspiracies against his life. The Queen was in favour of Russian predominance, the King inclined towards Austria. He subsequently obtained a divorce from his wife, and immediately after he granted a new and liberal Constitution to his people. In 1889, however, broken in health he suddenly abdicated in favour of his son Alexander, then a lad of 13 years.

THE MURDERED KING.

One gentleman who spoke of the late King Alexander yesterday said that even at this early age he gave evidences of being a youth of little or no principle. During the four years of the Regency he visited other Courts, and on one occasion at a State ball, to quote the words of the gentleman referred to, "he could hardly walk he was so intoxicated. As he lurched along he was actually dribbling from the mouth. It was a common scandal that he was seldom sober." The unhappy youth, although he had inherited many of his father's failings, is described as having great strength of character in certain directions, and this was certainly strikingly shown by his coup d'etat in April, 1893, when he arrested the regents, and issued a proclamation declaring himself King. Alexander in the way of proclamations was very much like the third Napoleon. He was always issuing them, and they were conspicuous for their flamboyant language. Thus when in 1900 he married Queen Draga he sent out a proclamation declaring that, although all his advisers besought him to marry a foreign Princess, he was resolved to wed one of his own people.

QUEEN DRAGA.

This had the effect of rousing a certain amount of enthusiasm among the people, but when it was known that he intended to make Draga, a widow, who was formerly lady-in-waiting to his mother, his queen, there was considerable disgust. Draga never had the best of characters at court. She was nearly 10 years older than the King, and her elevation to the supreme position would inevitably cause dissension. However, the young King was self-willed, and he had his way. From the moment that the marriage took place his power began to wane. About 12 months later all Europe was startled and gratified to learn that an heir to the Servian throne was to be born. A medical man, secretly despatched by the Czar of Russia, who was asked to be godfather, found that the rumour, which was admittedly started by the Queen herself, had no foundation, but that a sister of the Queen was soon to give birth to a child. Immediately Queen Draga was accused of conspiring to pass off her sister's child as her own, and this scandal still further increased the unpopularity both of the young King and his wife. The last coup d'etat in April of this year, when the King suspended the Constitution, was generally believed to have been prompted by the Queen, who desired him to fix the succession, in the absence of an heir, in her family. It is somewhat pathetic to read the remarks he made to an English journalist when fervently denying that the coup d'etat was undertaken for any such object. He said:—"Should my throne be menaced I will defend it sword in hand at the head of my faithful army, acting in a manner befitting the grandson of the creator of New Servia (Milosh)."

IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION ACT.

AUTHORITY TO ISSUE EXEMPTIONS.

PECULIAR INTERPRETATION OF INSTRUCTIONS.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The peculiar attitude of the Commonwealth Government towards immigration in Australia is shown in letters, copies of which have been sent to the Premier by the Agent-General, Sir H. Tozer. The first is from Sir E. Barton to Sir H. Tozer, under date February 19, 1903, in which it is stated that it is desirable facilities should be afforded in London for the issue of certificates of exemption under the Immigration Restriction Act, and notifying Sir H. Tozer of his appointment to act on this behalf. The letter continues:—"Certificates of exemption should be issued to visitors only, not to persons likely to settle in Australia. The period of exemption, which is to be stated in the certificate, should in no case exceed six months, but applicants may be informed that if they desire to extend their stay beyond that term application should be made to this department after arrival in Australia."

Sir H. Tozer, in reply under date April 23, says, "In anticipation of some appointment under this Act being conferred upon me I had deferred two applications made to me. One was from six shaft sinkers who were desirous of proceeding to Charters Towers under contract with the Day Dawn Block Wyndham Gold-mining Company to give their special expert knowledge in round brick shafts, which the company propose to substitute for wooden shafts now in use. These men would have been instruments of employment for a large number of local miners whose services probably will now not be required at all. The second case was that a family desirous of taking with them to Queensland their female domestic servants of long service. It was this class of useful labour I hoped my delegation would have enabled to land in Queensland, but in face of your positive instructions that I am to issue certificates of exemption to visitors only—not to persons who are likely to settle in Australia—I have been compelled to inform both sets of applicants that I cannot grant the exemption they seek. Any visitors likely to leave here for Queensland—even a native of Asia—would, in all probability, be able to comply with your language test. Therefore I can only imagine your instructions as covering cases of valets and ladies maids to distinguished visitors. Such a case never comes before me, nor is it at all likely that anyone will. Therefore, though I would gladly do all in my power to give effect to your delegation, I have to report in advance that it will probably be a dead letter. I am afraid the terms of your limitation will be construed, of course inaccurately, as setting up a claim by you that all visitors shall be provided with these passports. I shall do all in my power to remove this impression, though I shall have exceeding difficulty in persuading desirable persons that a welcome awaits them in Australia if they are prepared to emigrate there. The effect of sub-section G of section 3 has had a most damaging effect here, not only on the introduction of capital and labour into Australia, but upon credit. Unless this sub-section is modified, and a welcome offered to British emigrants in express terms, Australia's credit will, I think, more largely suffer."

SIR H. H. RAWSON'S DESPATCH.

QUESTIONS IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

LONDON, June 12.

In the House of Commons last night Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman, the leader of the Opposition, asked if the despatch cabled from Sir H. H. Rawson, the Governor of New South Wales, accurately expressed the declared intentions of the British Government with regard to preferential duties and retaliatory tariffs.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, the Prime Minister, said he was not aware what was the declaration to which Sir H. H. Rawson referred, but the Government certainly could not look with indifference on any attempt to penalise a colony exercising its right to enter into specially favourable relations with the motherland.

Sir Charles Dilke (Liberal) inquired what Sir H. H. Rawson had to do with a matter concerning the Commonwealth.

Mr. Chamberlain, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, said it was perfectly true that the matter constitutionally concerned the Commonwealth, but that did not interfere with the right of the Government of any self-governing colony to express an opinion.

ALLEGED ATTEMPTED MURDER.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The man who fired at the woman at Chelmer was Wilhelm Kestner, 60. He was employed as a handy man by Mr. Gilbert Primrose, who is stated to be a relative of Lord Rosebery. Kestner suffered badly from asthma. His employer paid him off on Thursday, as it was evident that residing in the locality, which is near the river, made him worse. Kestner went to Brisbane, purchased two revolvers and also had some drink, and subsequently fired at the servant. The victim's name is Emily Godwin, a woman of middle age. She and Kestner were always on good terms. On various occasions she had reported to her employer the extreme condition of asthma with which Kestner was afflicted.

Wilhelm Kestner was charged at the South Brisbane Police Court to-day with attempting unlawfully to kill Emily Godwin at Chelmer yesterday. Constable Forrest gave evidence regarding the arrest, and prisoner was remanded till June 18. Bail was refused.

IN FEDERAL SESSION.

THE SENATE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTERS.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Senate spent the morning discussing a motion by Senator M'Gregor that regulation 41 of the Public Service regulations should be amended. This regulation forbids Public servants taking part in politics. Several speeches were made on the subject, and Senator Best proposed an amendment specifying that their participation in political matters should not be public. This was carried in the afternoon. Consideration of the draft standing orders was resumed. Order No. 273, which provides for the closure, was under consideration when the House rose.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

In answer to a question, Sir Edmund Barton said that relief would be given to senders of messages to Western Australia by the use of the cable connecting Adelaide with Western Australia. It is stated that the cable company is willing to takes messages at the rate of 1s for 10 words

Mr. Kirwan (W.A.) asked the House to intimate to the Imperial authorities the desirability of acquiring the undivided ownership of New Guinea. He regarded the joint proprietary rights with Germany and Holland as a menace to the peaceful development and ultimate success of the island. The discovery of a profitable goldfield or the opening of new resources might at any time lead to a dispute, or trouble might come in the armed hostility of the three nations in other parts of the world. Mr. Kirwan thought that if the suggestion were made to the Imperial authorities an exchange of territory might lead to the withdrawal of Dutch and German control.

Sir Edmund Barton appreciated the value of the proposition, but saw difficulties in the way of its realisation. One of these was that any change involving new territory and increased cost of administration would place further financial responsibility on the Commonwealth. He assured the mover that the Government was closely watching the Empire's interests in the Pacific, and asked for the withdrawal of the motion. To this Mr. Kirwan agreed. Mr. Edwards (N.S.W.) asked the House to adopt a report of the select committee on Commonwealth coinage, which was brought up and ordered to be printed more than 12 months ago. He claimed that there was a unanimous opinion in favour of a uniform decimal system. Its adoption, he affirmed, would not only give greater efficiency and simplicity, but with Australian coinage would prove a large source of revenue. The change recommended by the committee found little support from the Treasurer (Sir George Turner), who favoured the Australian coinage of silver, but thought the committee's conclusions were opposed to its evidence. There was no indication that the people desired a change, and Australia would only create embarrassment by adopting a system not in uniformity with that in use in Great Britain. He thought it simpler as a rule to reckon by fractions than by decimals. His objection was placed in a concrete form by an amendment declaring that the time was not ripe for the change, that it should first be introduced by the British people, and accompanied, if possible, by the metric system of weights and measures.

The debate was adjourned, and at 3.35 p.m. the House rose until Tuesday afternoon.

In the course of a political speech Mr. Seddon said he proposed to double the tax on absentees, and justified the South African service by figures showing that the total exports have been of the value of £641,000.

MEAT EXPORT TRADE.

Regarding the new shipping company's experiment to despatch a steamer (the Rakaia) in August to Liverpool it is stated that space has already been booked for 30,000 crates of rabbits. It is expected that a quantity of frozen meat will also be sent.

REDUCTION OF HOTELS.

Three more hotels have been closed at Dunedin making in all 13, and representing a 25 per cent. reduction.

SIR WILLIAM LYNE AT QUEENSTOWN.

TASMANIA'S INCREASED EXPORTS.

QUEENSTOWN (TAS.), Friday.

This evening Sir William Lyne addressed about 700 people at the Metropole Theatre on federal politics. He contended that living was cheaper under protection than under freetrade. Tasmania's exports of production had increased from £2,936,878 in 1901 to £3,244,508 in 1902. This year the increase was still greater, and when the year closed the increase would be over £700,000. Tasmania, he said, had never been in a more prosperous condition.

Sir William Lyne spoke for about an hour and a quarter, and was fairly well received. Senator Keating followed, and addressed the meeting at some length on federal matters.

THE PREMIER AT WICKHAM.

A CORDIAL RECEPTION.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Sir John See arrived at Newcastle by the morning train to-day from Sydney. He was welcomed at the station by the Mayor of Newcastle (Alderman W. Cann) and other leading residents. Quite a number of vessels flew bunting in honour of his visit. Messrs. Crick and O'Sullivan were to have accompanied the Premier, but a telegram was received that they would be up in time for the night's public meeting.

After luncheon Sir John See was taken in hand by Mr. J. L. Fegan, M.L.A., and the Mayor and aldermen of Wickham, who drove him around the district.

A halt was made at the council-chambers, where the Mayor of Wickham (Alderman R. J. Bond) proposed Sir John See's health, remarking that it was the first time the municipality had had the honour of a visit from a State Premier.

In reply, Sir John playfully remarked that he was disappointed that there were no deputations, as they proved exhilarating to him when visiting country districts.

He spoke too soon, however, as immediately after the toast had been drunk Mr. Fegan, with a diplomatic smile, intimated that the aldermen had various requests to make. In the first place they wanted the Government to resume about three acres of low-lying land adjoining the council-chambers for a recreation ground. Then it was desired that along the foreshores of Throsby's Creek a retaining wall should be built, as had been done at Carrington. It was pointed out that at present the foreshores received great accumulations of bad-smelling filth, the deposits of the tidal waters. A third request preferred was that the Government should clean out the main channel of the pasturage reserve drainage scheme, which was in an insanitary state, the cost being estimated at about £1000.

The Premier, in reply, suggested that the council might get the area wanted for a park placed under offer by Mr. A. A. Danger, its owner. If the offer was reasonable the Government would, if possible, accommodate them. The matter of building a retaining wall along Throsby's Creek, he thought, was a reasonable request from a utilitarian and sanitary standpoint, and he would immediately have a report prepared for submission to the Cabinet. He would also cause prompt inquiries to be made respecting the main drain being cleaned out by the Government. The question of the maintenance of the main road to Maitland he would bring under the notice of Mr. O'Sullivan.

In the evening Sir John See was entertained at a banquet in Wickham School of Arts by about 120 gentlemen. The Mayor presided, and amongst those present were Messrs. D. Watkins, M.P., J. L. Fegan, A. H. Griffith, J. Estell, A. Edden, Ms.L.A., the Mayor of Newcastle (Alderman Cann), Mr. W. D. Sharp (president of the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce), Messrs. J. R. Hall and R. A. Wallace.

The loyal toasts having been honoured, Alderman Bond proposed "The Ministry."

The Premier, who met with a cordial reception, said he was struck with the immensity of the trade of Newcastle and its magnificent possibilities as a great manufacturing centre. His trip would not be disadvantageous to Newcastle—(cheers)—as his observations would help the Government to carry out certain works which he knew were necessary for the future welfare of Newcastle and also for the advantage of the people of all the States. (Cheers.)

Mr. Fegan also responded.

Alderman John Gilbert submitted the toast of "The Parliament," and Mr. Watkins, M.P., responded on behalf of the Federal Parliament, and Messrs. Edden, Griffith, and Estell, Ms.L.A., for the Legislative Assembly.

"Municipal Institutions" was proposed by Alderman W. Cann, and acknowledged by Alderman M Light (Mayor of Carrington). The toasts of "The Press" and "Chairman" followed.

STATE POLITICS.

SIR JOHN SEE AT WICKHAM.

REPLY TO RECENT CRITICISMS.

THE PREMIER ON THE PRESS.

THE GOVERNMENT'S INTENTIONS.

AN APPEAL TO THE COUNTRY.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Sir John See addressed a public meeting at the School of Arts to-night. The hall was crowded, and the audience included a number of ladies, many of whom were accommodated with seats on the platform. The Mayor of Wickham (Alderman R. J. Bond) presided. The Ministers for Works and Lands arrived from Sydney just as the meeting commenced.

The Premier, who was cordially received, said that he did not feel very well as he was suffering from a severe cold. As far as his health was concerned he was more fit for bed than public speaking, but he had determined to keep the promise he had made to visit Wickham.

THE OPPOSITION.

He would deal, however, with the criticisms which had been made on the Government by their opponents. One would think to read those criticisms that the Government was unworthy to hold office.

A Voice: So it is. (Hear, hear.)

Sir John See: He was not there to defend the Government, because it needed no defence, but to put before the public again, as he had done on many occasions, the position of the country in regard to its financial affairs. The Liberal and Reform party, headed by Mr. Carruthers, had been going round the country making the most extraordinary statements in regard to the finances of the country. They had not been manly enough to make allowances for the disastrous seasons through which the country had passed. The man who tried to make capital out of his country's misfortune did not appear to be capable of leading its destinies. (Hear, hear.) If all that their opponents said were true, the country could not meet a loan of 2s 6d. Thus did people try and drag the credit of the country in the mire. "These be thy gods, O Israel." (Loud laughter.) He was quite prepared to face Parliament, and hoped that his opponents would take the manly course of moving a motion of censure, and thus have the atmosphere cleared. Who could have foretold the losses caused by the drought? The losses in flocks, cattle, and harvest represented an amount of nearly 10 millions sterling. Instead of politically glorying in a thing like that one might well expect from the Opposition some assistance. He asked what had Mr. Carruthers, whom he alluded to as a Napoleon of politics, done whilst in office for several years in previous administrations. No Government had ever put so many industrial Acts on the statute book of New South Wales as the See Government, and it proposed to continue carrying out good social and domestic legislation. (Cheers.) He gloried in the fact that he belonged to a Government that was able to place on the Statute Book the Old Age Pensions Act, which would be followed by the British and every humane Government in the world. He referred to the benefits accruing from the Arbitration Act, and made some observations respecting the passing of the women's suffrage measure. He said the two most bitter and rabid opponents of women's suffrage were Mr. Carruthers and Mr. Rose, both of whom were now strutting about the country making it appear that credit was partly due to them. He would expect a fair consideration from the hands of the women at the next election in the interests of good Government, and in the interests of social morality. (Cheers.)

CARRIAGE OF NEWSPAPERS.

The Premier then dealt with the subject of carriage of newspapers by rail. There was no spirit of revenge, so far as the Government was concerned, against the newspapers.

Voices: "What," and dissent.

Sir John See: Surely it was only a quid pro quo if the press honoured him with two leading articles daily that he should say a word or two in his own defence. If they chose to condemn him for his actions they had a right to do it, because the newspapers were not his property. They could refuse to report him if they liked. (Voice: "You wouldn't be known then." Laughter.) They were nagging at him every morning, and put up headings like "The Premier angry." (Laughter.) They didn't understand him yet. He was not an angry man, but an earnest man. The press could not distinguish between the two. The objections against free carriage of newspapers by rail had been going on since August, 1901, so that it could not be a spasm of yesterday so far as the Government was concerned. The Government had had the courage to say that everybody who used our railways should pay a fair price for the service. (Cheers.) Whilst he would admit that newspapers were essential for our enlightenment through the information they afforded, still he contended that if it were not for that information the people would not buy them. That did not say, however, that the newspapers were to arrogate to themselves the right to govern the country, and to ram their opinions down the throats of the people whether they liked them or not. He referred to the large expense that had been incurred by the Postal Department in carrying newspapers from railway centres by coach and packhorse. The great proportion of the mail matter was made up of newspapers.

Mr. Crick: Seventy per cent.

Sir John See said the question of revenge on the newspapers never entered the mind of the Government, which had only acted in a spirit of equity. He defied his successors to alter the policy which the present Government had pursued.

THE FINANCES.

He said he would now refer to the finances of the country, which was an interesting subject on the eve of the opening of Parliament. The Government had paid from the consolidated revenue for military contingents to South Africa and China £442,000. That was an item which might appropriately have been spread over a number of years. Then out of revenue the sum of £205,000 had been paid on account of plague, and £135,000 for Commonwealth celebrations and the expense of the visit of the Duke and Duchess. The Government have been blamed for granting the railway running staff an eight-hour day at a cost of £60,000, but he was glad he had done so, as it would ensure greater safety on the railways. These items totalled £851,000 that the Government had paid for out of consolidated revenue. The critics said the Government was going to have a million shortage. He did not believe it. If they took this extraordinary expenditure into account the Government had lived within its means. Then, again, the Government had paid nearly £100,000 for seed wheat. But for this assistance the farms which now promised an abundant harvest would not have been cultivated at all. Nearly 4500 farmers had been provided with seed wheat. For fodder upwards of £9000 was remitted on the railways, and £210,000 was remitted on the carriage of starving stock and fodder. Besides this, the Government had carried water on the railways to drought-stricken towns at an additional expense of £200,000. Then, again, the Minister for Lands had not pressed for rents and instalments amounting to £238,000. They did not want to crush the settlers by asking for their pound of flesh. The reduction of capital values by reappraisement amounted to £1,760,000. These were items due largely to the drought conditions. In regard to old-age pensions, they had cost for two years about £950,000. Yet their critics made it appear that this money had been pitched into the water. Mr. Carruthers recently stated, "The only body which had made money out of the drought was the Government. It had spent £200,000 in purchasing seed wheat and in the reduction of railway forage rates. It had collected fully £300,000 in duties on flour, maize, and fodder. The Government had already made a profit of £50,000, and hoped to make a further profit of over £100,000." That statement, said Sir John, contained a very serious allegation made without the slightest pretensions to accuracy. The Government had spent about £100,000 in the purchase of seed wheat, a portion of which it expected to get back. It had remitted charges to the extent of £250,000 on the carriage of starving stock and fodder. That meant a direct loss of £350,000, but over and above that it had largely increased the working expenses of the railways to cope with non-paying traffic, besides a large amount of empty running in connection with the service. So that if the whole expenses were summed up they would be found to be not far short of £500,000. The actual collections from duties on flour, maize, and fodder amounted to £62,000 during the year 1902, and for the five months of the present year £152,800. That was a long way off £300,000. There was also the palpable misstatement that the State Government was responsible for the duties on wheat and fodder. The Federal Government alone was responsible. Last June Mr. Wise tried to persuade the Commonwealth Government to remit the duties on wheat and fodder, and he had himself several times made strong representations without avail. To insinuate, therefore, that the Government was trying to make money out of the drought was a baseless slander. Mr. Carruthers' statements about men leaving the country were incorrect, and calculated to do the State an infinite amount of harm. We had suffered greatly from drought, but the workers were not leaving the country, as, according to the Government Statistician, there was an excess of arrivals over departures to the number of about 4000. During the first quarter of the year and during last year the excess of arrivals was 21,561. He had been told that some of the people were going to Zion. (Laughter.) "Is there not a place called that?" (Renewed laughter.)

A Voice: "Have any members of Parliament gone there?" (Great merriment.)

LOAN EXPENDITURE.

The Premier passed on to deal with finance and the recent criticisms on the loan expenditure. The Government had, it was stated, spent no less a sum than £17,000,000 of loan money during its term of office. He quoted the following Treasury figures showing the loan amounts spent since taking office on September 1, 1899, to May 31 of this year:—Railways and tramways construction, £2,864,984; ditto, to Railway Commissioners, £3,058,348; harbours and rivers, £1,039,575; water and sewerage, including country towns, £1,935,769; public buildings, £502,045; educational, £291,410; roads and bridges, £481,572; clearing Crown lands, &c., £147,730; defences, £95,831; post and telegraphs, £377,855. These amounts totalled £11,335,118. The Darling Harbour resumptions expenditure was £2,956,017, the repayment of loans £2,633,200, and the repayment of municipal loans taken over with water and sewerage works £151,612. The grand total of loan expenditure was £17,075,947. He stoutly defended the expenditure on the various public works. The Darling Harbour resumptions, he thought, would cost about £400,000, but in 10 years' time he considered the resumed area would be worth twice the amount paid.

REDUCTION OF MEMBERS.

In conclusion, he said that if the Government survived the shock next week in Parliament he would be quite prepared to go before the country, as the Cabinet was going to give the people an opportunity of saying whether they wanted reduction of members or not. Instead of Parliament having the first say he intended that the people should have it, and in a practicable and prompt form. (Cheers.) The Government intended to carry on and would not be hindered. Discussion in Parliament for the purpose of obstruction would not be tolerated. (Cheers.)

THE MINISTER FOR LANDS.

Mr. Crick said he ventured to say that there was not a more popular man in New South Wales than Sir John See, because the people had confidence in his commercial ability. It was better for farmers and settlers to owe money to the Government than to be under the thumbs of a financial institution. If, after losing two-thirds of their stock, the country came out on the right side of the ledger it spoke volumes for the administration of the Government, but so far as he was concerned he had said 12 months ago that he would be prepared to face a deficiency in his department rather than force a man to leave his holding. He had never forfeited a man's holding since he had been in office. (Cheers.)

Mr. O'Sullivan then gave a short address in support of the administration of the Government on similar lines.

Alderman Robson proposed, and Mr. E. W. Bearby seconded, a vote of thanks to the speakers, which was supported by Mr. J. L. Fegan, and carried.

MR. ASHTON AT GOULBURN.

GOULBURN, Friday.

Mr. J. Ashton, M.L.A., addressed a meeting tonight at the Mechanics' Institute. Heavy rain militated against the attendance. The Mayor occupied the chair.

Mr. Ashton said the Government had been guilty of profligate expenditure at a time when affairs were in a critical condition. They had last year spent over £17,100,000, as against £11,500,000 expended by the Reid Government in its last year of office. Touching loan moneys solely, this Government had spent close on £500,000 in excess of that spent by the remainder of the States of Australia. He asked them to examine the figures, and inquired whether they did not indicate an alarming state of affairs. The Ministry had increased the indebtedness, including outstanding claims, by £17,000,000. We had borrowed all the money the British money-lender was disposed to lend, yet the loan account was now overdrawn by over £4,000,000. How extensive the extravagance had been could not be fully known until recourse could be had to the records of the various departments. He referred to the workings of the Public Services Superannuation Amendment Act, and gave several instances of wasteful extravagance in connection therewith. Gratuities and pensions had been given to men still as qualified to work as any of those present. The gratuities amounted to several thousands of pounds, while the annual pensions imposed a burden of about £5000 on a fund already hopelessly bankrupt. He cited in connection with the unemployed troubles several astounding instances of extravagance. While no man could be allowed to starve, yet so long as the loan expenditure jumped up and down in an erratic fashion ranging from £4,000,000 one year to, say, £1,500,000 the next, there would in that condition alone be sufficient cause to account for the recurring trouble. If, as the consequence of booms, the interest was increased to an extent beyond the earning capacity of the works constructed, there was a further and more enduring reason for financial stringency and trouble. He alluded to the extraordinary carelessness of the See Government, and that of which it was a continuation, touching the provision of moneys to administer any one of its larger schemes. He referred to the extreme anxiety to do things which were popular. Its policy had been that of the reckless, thoughtless spendthrift. A number of people were engaged at present in diligently disseminating amongst those interested the idea that reform means what has taken place in Victoria. He said that was not the result of reform, but of past extravagance. After some references to the strike he spoke strongly against the practical disfranchisement of the Victorian Civil servants, which he said was a grave mistake. But for that fatal error there would, he believed, have been no strike at all. He drew a number of lessons from that struggle, and said that unless in all classes there was forbearance and a regard for the due claims of others the outlook in Australia would not be particularly bright or cheerful.

SPEECHES BY MESSRS. HOGUE AND CORMACK.

TAREE, Friday.

A large number of electors assembled at the School of Arts yesterday to hear addresses by Messrs. Hogue, M.L.A., and D. Cormack. The Mayor of Taree (Alderman J. Stewart) presided. Several ladies were present, and a number of prominent residents were on the platform.

Mr. Hogue explained the Liberal and Reform Association's platform, and urged the need for reform. The public debt now reached £83,000,000, which required the remission to London annually of £3,000,000 interest, which amount was drawn from the pockets of the producers and wage-earners of the State. Much of the money expended by this Government was on non-productive works. He denounced the caucus methods of the labour party, by which constituencies were at times disfranchised. He severely criticised the subserviency of the Government to the dictates of the labour party. He traced the large increase in the unemployed partly to the socialistic trend in public life by which private enterprise was stifled and the resources of the country were not vigorously developed, and partly to the mistaken policy of the Government in attracting large numbers of workers from country districts to Sydney by the glamour of the minimum wage, which was a delusion and a sham.

Mr. Cormack appealed to the electors to be united and form a strong association.

On the motion of Mr. Wood, seconded by Mr. Malcolm, the meeting unanimously approved of the platform of the Liberal Association, and pledged itself to use its endeavours to have it carried out.

LABOUR MEMBERS AND EXTRA TAXATION.

Mr. Hollis, M.L.A., speaking at Erskineville on Thursday evening, dealt with the question of finance and the necessity which existed for the imposition of extra taxation in certain quarters. He said the labour party had been charged with bringing ruination to the country by assisting the present Government in what alarmists in the shape of so-called reformers termed extravagant expenditure. The main question, however, which had to be considered at the present time was, how best this deficiency caused by circumstances over which neither the Government nor the Opposition had any control could be made up. Well, to his mind, and to the mind of many of the members of the party to which he belonged, it would be a good thing to put a little more taxation upon the shoulders of those who were most able to bear it. For instance, owners of large estates and absentees who lived upon the interest of unearned increment. This would not affect the majority of the people but only the few, and those few reaped benefit from the prosperity of the State at large, and should be called upon to bear the cost of adversity also. It should be a graduated land tax on the lines adopted in New Zealand. Holders of large estates which included extensive tracts of land in country parts and small but valuable holdings in the city of Sydney would be affected. Those were the men who could afford and should be made to assist in the work of making up the deficiency. They were the men who were loudest in the clamour for reform and the displacement of the present Government and the labour party. The small holder should not be taxed more than at present. He believed a proposal such as he had outlined would receive the support of Parliament, and would considerably help the Treasurer to wipe out a deficit brought about by no fault of his own. (Cheers.)

PEOPLE'S REFORM LEAGUE.

At a meeting of the North Sydney branch of the People's Reform League the following officers were appointed:—President, Mr. W. C. Goddard; vice-presidents, Messrs. J. F. Hoare, Claude Lyons, James Moir; committee, Messrs. Linton, Willington Hillman, R. P. Hickson, Allen Ferguson, G. M'Kinnon, A. D. Hall, Captain Green, D. D. Middleton, R. Ainslie, and Joseph Dolton.

ELECTORS' RIGHTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am glad to see the letter of Anne Conway. The delay in the delivery of electors' rights to women is most trying. The members of our league took up the matter warmly, and rights were issued to a number, when suddenly the delivery was stopped, and there must be a stack of applications from the rest of our members waiting in the electoral office. So Anne Conway will see that we are bestirring ourselves, and I can assure her that we are doing all we can. Just as soon as rights can be issued we shall have word from the electoral office. Allow me to say that any woman, whether one of our members or not, who likes to call at our office will have every assistance given her.

I am, &c., S. NISBET,
Secretary Women's Social and Political League.

BRAIDWOOD, Friday.

Mr. A. E. Chapman, M.L.A., gave an address at the Literary Institute yesterday. A number of ladies were present. Mr. Chapman, who was well received, spoke in defence of the Government. He eulogised the administration of the Minister for Lands who, he said, was responsible for keeping thousands of people on the land. A vote of confidence was unanimously carried. This meeting completed a tour of the electorate.

BUNGENDORE, Friday.

Mr. M'Namara, representative of the People's Reform League, held a meeting here yesterday. Mr. J. S. Welch, president of the Progress Association, was chairman. The hall was crowded. Mr. H. M'Namara explained the league's platform. He condemned the Government for its reckless expenditure. The State's credit had been greatly damaged by the Government's acts. Closer settlement was advocated by the league, which did not believe in undue interference by Parliament with private enterprise. The Government should be prevented from taking savings' bank funds.

A vote of thanks was accorded the speaker.

On the motion of Mr. C. Ross, seconded by Mr. G. Daniel, it was resolved,—"That the People's Reform League, being a body free from Parliamentary interference and aiming at sound and economical government, it is advisable that branches be formed in this electorate, and that a branch be formed in Bungendore."

Mr. Broughton will address his constituents of King Division at the Protestant Hall on Monday next at 8 p.m.

The Liberal and Reform Association is issuing 50,000 copies of an excellent pamphlet, which is got up in striking style. The cover bears a unique design printed in colours, consisting of a rising sun, the rays of which illuminate the cry of the people for "Reform." The pamphlet consists of the manifesto and platform of the party, a list of officers of the association, and also speeches by Mr. J. H. Carruthers, M.L.A.

REFORM.

SOME MISSTATEMENTS REFUTED.

REFORM LEADER INDIGNANT.

Mr. J. H. Carruthers, M.L.A., yesterday made a few observations with regard to some statements made by Messrs. M'Gowen and O'Sullivan. He said:—

"I notice Mr. M'Gowen is persisting in stating that the reform party means to disenfranchise the Public service. Mr. M'Gowen has been so much away in the country attending to the Public Works Committee that he must be forgiven for not knowing what has been transpiring. But he ought to have, as leader of a party, some knowledge of current politics. The Liberal party condemns any attempt to disenfranchise Public servants, or to put them in a separate class as a constituency. The Liberal party believes in a broad democracy, and makes no difference between classes as to employment, social position or otherwise.

"Mr. M'Gowen and the other labour members who spoke at Ultimo and Alexandria during the past few nights have been justifying the huge expenditure which at the present moment is being carried on. To show what it has been during the last year the loan expenditure in New South Wales was £4,900,000, whilst Victoria, Queensland, South Australia, West Australia, and Tasmania combined only spent £4,500,000. This is the sort of thing that Mr. M'Gowen wants to see continued. This is the sort of thing that the reform party wishes to stop, because we know where the end will be. It is simply a spendthrift policy which must land us all in disaster.

"I notice Mr. O'Sullivan, in a contribution to the press, said that Mr. O'Connor was elected to Parliament by the influence of three members of the present Government, who paid his expenses, and he threatened that the electors would deal with those who were not firm to their pledges to support this Government. It is coming to a pretty pass when members of the Government think that by the expenditure of a few pounds they can practically buy a member and his constituency. When he talks about those pledges to the party not being fulfilled he must forget that reduction of members and reform were placed in the forefront of the Government's pledges. The Government party had deserted its own programme and it now thinks because it paid the expenses of certain gentlemen that they ought to desert the programme too."

BANQUET TO MR. CARRUTHERS.

Arrangements for the banquet to Mr. Carruthers, the leader of the Opposition, are now complete. The gathering is to take place at the A.B.C. Cafe on Monday night, and the chair will be taken at 7 o'clock. No tickets will be sold after noon on Monday. The attendance is not limited to gentlemen, but ladies can also be present. The committee have invited Mrs. Carruthers, and that lady will accompany her husband.

MARRICKVILLE PARK.

NECESSITY FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

MEETING OF RESIDENTS.

With the view of taking steps to secure additional park accommodation for Marrickville and for the permanent improvement of the present park, a meeting of the residents of the district was held last evening in the local Town Hall. The meeting was convened by the Municipal Council of the borough, at the request of the trustees of the park. The Mayor (Alderman T. England) occupied the chair. The attendance was large, and the gathering as a whole was representative. A number of prominent residents of Marrickville and Newtown occupied seats on the platform.

The Mayor having briefly outlined the objects of the meeting, called upon Mr. Samuel Cook, as chairman of the trustees, to make a statement setting forth the views of the trustees upon the question at issue, and their proposals to secure improvements to the park.

Mr. Cook said, as chairman of the trust, he proposed to lay before the meeting some figures in order to show that there ought to be more than one park in Marrickville; indeed, in comparison with the population of this and other boroughs, Marrickville was entitled to two or three parks—(Hear, hear)—and it should not be forgotten that the local park was not dedicated for Marrickville alone, but for the recreation of the people of St. Peters, Newtown, and Marrickville conjointly. The Government ought certainly, in view of what had been done for other boroughs having a very much less population than Marrickville, to render assistance of a substantial character. (Applause.) Marrickville had a population of about 19,000, Newtown had 23,000 and St. Peters 6000. That gave a total population of 48,000. Now to all those people there was but one park of 10 acres and a reserve of 4½ acres near the dam at Cook's River. He compared their condition in this respect with other boroughs. Balmain, with a population of 30,000, had nearly 40 acres of park lands. The Borough of Mosman, with 6000 people, had eight parks with an area of 60 acres. Manly, with a population of 6000, had 17 parks comprising an area of 108 acres. Camperdown, with 8000, had two parks, the total area of which was 35 acres. Concord, with under 3000, had eight parks, the total area of which was 141 acres. Leichhardt, with 18,000, had two parks containing 35 acres. North Sydney, with 22,000, had six parks with an area reaching almost to 100 acres. Randwick, with 10,000, had 39 parks containing upwards of 2000 acres. Rockdale, with 8000, had four parks with a total area of about 200 acres. Sydney, with a population of 113,000, had 16 parks with an area of 924 acres. Waverley, with 12,000, had eight parks with a total area of 207 acres. Now Newtown, with a population of 23,000, had no park whatever, excepting its interest in one-third of the 10 acres now known as Marrickville Park. Mr. Cook then outlined what had been done in the way of apportioning money by Parliament for the purpose of acquiring and maintaining parks and reserves for the use of the people. The first vote from the accumulated surplus for the purchase of parks, &c., was, he said, in 1879, when £5,500 was appropriated for a public park and reservoir at Waverley, and £7000 for the Ashfield Park. In 1881 a sum of £100,000 was voted for the purchase of lands to be set apart for public recreation in the metropolis, suburbs, and country towns, and a further sum of £100,000 was voted for the same purpose in 1883. The total amount appropriated was, therefore, £214,500. Seeing that that vote was from resolutions emanating from this borough, he thought the district was entitled to better treatment than it had received from the various Governments. (Applause.) Mr. Cook described what the trustees proposed to do in the way of improving the present park—that was, if the residents would assist them. They would like to see a bandstand erected, also a gymnasium and quoit grounds. The trustees did not think the park suitable for a cricket pitch, but he would suggest that the cricket pitch might be obtained in another way by the residents fighting for their rights in obtaining further park accommodation, which they were justly entitled to. (Applause.)

Mr. M'Coy, M.L.A., moved,—"That this public meeting affirms that it is desirable to co-operate with the trustees in raising funds to effect improvements in the local park which are necessary for the recreation of the public."

Alderman W. E. Cullen seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously. It was also agreed, on the motion of Alderman Rigg (Newtown), seconded by Alderman Brewer, and supported by other gentlemen,—"That the aldermen of the council, together with the trustees, form a committee to devise means to effect the carrying out of same; and that the co-operation of Newtown and St. Peters councils be sought to act in conjunction with the Marrickville committee in the matter; and that the secretary of the committee be Mr. J. Hardy, the secretary to the trustees."

The Mayor intimated that the Mayoress would, with the assistance of the ladies, initiate a movement for the raising of funds in the district. (Applause.)

A subscription list was opened in the room, and a large sum was promised.

On the motion of Mr. Cook, a vote of thanks was passed to the Mayor for presiding, and the proceedings concluded.

JAPANESE SQUADRON.

A QUIET DAY.

With the departure of the Japanese training squadron rapidly drawing near, increased efforts are being made by the public to get on board the various vessels. The authorities are extremely good-humoured and affable in their treatment of these unofficial visitors.

The bonds of trade, we are sometimes told in these commercial days, are the strongest ties of all, and perhaps this thought dictated the invitation to the Japanese officers to a reception at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. In any case, although unfortunately Rear-Admiral Kamimura could not be present, the visitors were given a warm greeting by the mercantile community.

In the afternoon a reception, which was attended by a large and fashionable crowd, was held on board the flagship Hashidate, and in the evening some more of the bluejackets were entertained at the Royal Naval House.

To-day the main event is a reception at Parliament House.

"AT HOME" ON THE HASHIDATE.

Rear-Admiral Hikonojo Kamimura, his captains and officers of the Japanese training squadron, were "at home" on board the flagship Hashidate yesterday afternoon and entertained between 600 and 700 guests. In the early part of the afternoon the weather was inclined to be showery, but fortunately it cleared up later and was beautifully fine. Boats conveyed the guests from the Circular Quay to the flagship where, upon their arrival, they were received by Admiral Kamimura, who, though still suffering from a cold, was able to act as host during the afternoon. His Excellency the Governor-General, accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Boyle and Mdlle. Dussau, and attended by Lord Richard Nevill, Mr. Wingfield and Mr. Boyle, arrived about half-past 3, and was received by the Japanese Admiral, the National Anthem being played by the Japanese band. His Excellency the State Governor and Lady Rawson, accompanied by Miss Alice Rawson, and Miss C. Rawson, attended by Captain Robertson Clark, also Admiral Fanshawe, Mrs. and Miss Fanshawe, and Flag-lieutenant Bedford, arrived early, and the whole party was conducted round the ship by the Japanese Admiral, Captain Matsumoto receiving those guests who arrived after the Governor-General and members of the Vice-regal party. Admiral Kamimura's flag-lieutenant and his captains and officers were most courteous and attentive to all the visitors, all of whom left the ship with a souvenir of the Hashidate, either in the form of a lovely paper chrysanthemum (made by the Japanese sailors on board) or a flag or spray of wistaria or peach blossom. The visit to the flagship was one of much interest. No pains had been spared to do everything that would give pleasure to the numerous guests. The gangways were decorated with flags, and like the landings were broad and easily ascended. The ship was charmingly decorated with masses of paper flowers in every delicate and imaginable colour. At the stern end of the deck was a garden of chrysanthemums, and some old armour was displayed. One archway was covered with trails of convolvuli, another with wistaria and greenery, with here and there small mandarins placed amongst the greenery. Visitors were shown over the admiral's cabin, which was most comfortable. Refreshments were served on the main deck, the tables being most effectively decorated with clusters of tall and beautiful chrysanthemums; flags and electric lights arranged in small flower bowls shaded with silk were very quaint and effective. The officers were most attentive, and the little cabin boys dressed in white waiting at table added to the quaintness and picturesqueness of the scene. The Vice-regal visitors were conducted over the ship, and were shown the revolving turret, and watched the jugglery, wrestling, and fencing which formed part of the afternoon's programme. The band played a varied selection of music, and at sunset were drawn up on deck, and as the flag was pulled down played the quaint and beautiful Japanese National Anthem, all the men standing to attention. The Consul-General for Japan and Mrs. Eitaki were on board, and the gathering included most of the representative people in Sydney, among whom were Lady Barton and Miss Barton, General and Mrs. Finn, Lady See and Miss See, Hon. F. B. Suttor, Mrs. and Miss Suttor, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, Mrs. M. H. Stephen, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gould and Miss Gould, Mr. and Mrs. David Anderson and the Misses Anderson, Dr. and Mrs. W. VISIT OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

SPEECHES AT THE EXCHANGE.

Yesterday Mr. J. Barre Johnston (president) and Mr. J. T. Tillock (vice-president), of the Chamber of Commerce, paid a visit to Rear-Admiral Kamimura on board the flagship Hashidate. At noon the senior officers of the squadron returned the visit. Owing to indisposition the Admiral was unable to return the call in person.

Mr. J. Barre Johnston and other officers and members of the Chamber of the Commerce received the Japanese officers in the large hall of the Royal Exchange, which had been fittingly decorated for the occasion, under the direction of Mr. A. H. Hayes, secretary to the Exchange. The representatives of Japan were Captain K. Matsumoto (Itsukushima), Captain B. Ide (Hashidate), Staff Commander Captain K. Moriyama, Mr. H. Eitaki (Acting Consul-General for Japan), and a number of officers of the squadron. The commercial community of Sydney was well represented by a large number of citizens prominent in the mercantile and financial world. Among those present holding official positions were the Lord Mayor (Alderman Hughes) and the town clerk (Mr. Nesbitt).

Mr. J. Barre Johnston, in welcoming the visitors, said it was with extreme pleasure that the members of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce, representing, as they did, the commercial interests of the city of Sydney, which was the largest and most important shipping and trading port in the Southern Hemisphere, bade the Admiral and his officers a hearty welcome to the Royal Exchange on this their first visit to our shores. The members were pleased to meet the officers of the squadron, not only as representatives of his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Japan, but also as allies of Great Britain. (Applause.) They were aware that the policy of Japan, like that of Great Britain, was one of peaceful expansion in commerce and industry, and they congratulated the visitors on the rapid strides Japan had made in that direction. As merchants they hailed with satisfaction the regular steamship service which was established between Japan and this port, and also the fact that the Japanese Government had so unreservedly adopted the "open door" policy; and they trusted that the growing trade which had been initiated between Japan and New South Wales, as, indeed, with all Australia, would largely develop to the benefit of both people. (Applause.) During the brief visit of the squadron to Sydney, the members of the Chamber were gratified that the officers had shown such a keen interest in the various subjects submitted to their notice, and had so cordially reciprocated the good wishes with which they had been everywhere greeted. (Hear, hear.) As members of the British Empire, the speaker and his colleagues echoed the wish expressed by the Admiral a few days ago, "that nothing might occur to weaken the present good feeling existing between two such important Powers," whose alliance must not only promote the commercial prosperity and well-being of both countries, but also, by their combined strength, prove a most potent factor for the maintenance of peace throughout the world. (Cheers.)

Captain Matsumoto made the following reply: His Excellency Admiral Kamimura, who owing to a very severe cold is unfortunately unable to be present this morning, desires me to express on his behalf and on behalf of his Imperial Japanese Majesty's squadron our most grateful thanks to you for this special compliment. We have been overwhelmed with courtesy and kindness during our visit to Australia, and have been deeply interested in all the wonders of your magnificent country. You have said that this is the largest and most important shipping and trading port in the Southern Hemisphere, a statement which is very easy to believe. Your grand harbour seems to have been specially designed by nature for purposes of trade, while at the same time it is most beautiful to look upon. We cordially join you in the hope that the trade between Australia and Japan will continue to develop and expand in a friendly manner, and to the benefit of both countries. (Applause.) The kindly reception which we have met with at the hands of all classes of your people—naval, military, official, political, artistic, social, and commercial—have placed us under a deep debt of obligation. We thank you most heartily as special representatives of commercial interests of this charming and hospitable State, and wish you eternal prosperity and happiness. (Loud applause.)

On the call of Mr. Barre Johnston hearty cheers were given for the Mikado, and the visitors returned the compliment by three "Banzai's" for King Edward.

THEATRE ROYAL.

There was a great attendance last night at the final performance of "A Runaway Girl" at the Theatre Royal. Mr. J. C. Williamson had invited the officers of the Japanese fleet, and shortly before the curtain rose about two score of them arrived in the vestibule, where they were welcomed by Mr. H. H. Vincent and escorted to their seats in the dress circle. Scattered about the house were a number of petty officers, and, indeed, Mr. Vincent remarks that during the whole of their stay here the "Japs" have taken especial interest in these musical performances. Seats for the Japanese Band were reserved in the front of the stalls, and during the interval they ascended the stage amidst demonstrative applause and played selections under Bandmaster Tanaki. A pot-pourri of British melodies, including "The Girl I Left Behind Me" and "Bonnie Dundee," took the fancy of the house amazingly, and the players were cheered to the echo. As a compliment to the visitors Mr. George Hall conducted his orchestra in the Japanese National Anthem, and this courtesy was promptly responded to by Bandmaster Tanaki with "God Save the King." There was, of course, more cheering, and after the Japanese Band had returned to their seats they received quite an ovation. The whole scene was, in fact, as animated and exhilarating as could well be imagined.

JAPANESE OFFICERS AT LITHGOW.

LITHGOW, Friday.

Three officers of the Japanese squadron, Lieutenants Hiroshi Nishihara (Hashidate), Kato (Itsukushima), and Shimizer (Matsushima), arrived here by the mail train last night at the invitation of the Lithgow Coal Association. This morning, under the guidance of Messrs. Wilton and Ivatt, directors, an inspection was made of the Lithgow and Hermitage collieries, as well as of Lithgow Valley Company's Pipe and Brick Works. At noon the visitors were entertained at lunch at the Commercial Hotel, among the toasts being "The Emperor of Japan" and "The Japanese Navy." The visitors suitably responded. In the afternoon visits were made to the ironworks, the copper refining works, and the Oakey Park and Zig Zag collieries. The visitors will be entertained at dinner this evening, and will leave by to-night's train for Sydney.

OFFICIAL VISIT.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman Thomas Hughes), accompanied by the Town Clerk (Mr. T. H. Nesbitt), yesterday repaid the official call of Rear-Admiral Kamimura on board the Hashidate.

PARLIAMENTARY RECEPTION.

Presuming the weather is fine to-day, the reception to be given by the Government to the officers of the Japanese fleet at 2.30 p.m. should prove a very pleasant function. The guests invited to meet the visitors include the members of the Legislative Council, also those of the Legislative Assembly, as well as their wives and daughters, also the leading officers of the Public Service, the foreign Consuls, and others. They will be received in the Legislative Council-chamber. Amongst those who will be present are:—Sir Harry H. Rawson, Lady Rawson, Miss Rawson, Vice-Admiral Fanshawe, Brigadier-General Finn, and other officers. The grounds attached to Parliament House have been decorated with flags. The bands of the R.A.A., Police Force, and Sobraon will play selections during the afternoon.

The vehicular traffic will be under the control of the traffic police, and the following arrangements are authorised by the Inspector-General of Police:—Carriages and other vehicles conveying invited guests will enter by the northern gate, and after setting down at the entrance to the Legislative Council-chamber, will leave by the southern gate. Waiting carriages will rank on the east side and engaged cabs on the west side of Macquarie-street, south of entrance to Parliament House.

ON BOARD THE WARSHIPS.

THE SQUADRON SAILS TO-MORROW.

In addition to the large number of citizens who accepted the invitations of Rear-Admiral Kamimura to the reception held on board the flagship Hashidate, several hundreds of visitors boarded the Itsukushima and the Matsushima yesterday. The party of officers which proceeded on a visit to the Bellambi coal mine has returned, and the party now on a visit to the Lithgow mines is expected back this morning.

To-day the three warships will be open to the general public, and as this will be the last opportunity of inspecting these interesting warships a very large gathering is anticipated. As already stated, the squadron will sail at 9 o'clock to-morrow for Townsville on the homeward journey to Japan.

AT THE ROYAL NAVAL HOUSE.

A third detachment of Japanese bluejackets, numbering 150 all told—50 from each of the three warships—was entertained at an excellent entertainment at the Royal Naval House last evening. Mr. J. S. Shearston, the superintendent of the house, conducted the proceedings, and the visitors spent an exceedingly pleasant evening. A varied programme was arranged by the British Jack Tars for the amusement of their guests.

SHIPPING CASUALTIES.

THE DISABLED BARQUE AMIRAL CECILLE.

ARRIVAL AT SYDNEY.

PICKED UP 80 MILES OFF THE HEADS.

The French barque Amiral Cecille, which was damaged recently on a reef off the coast of New Caledonia, and which was cast adrift by the steamer St. Louis while towing her from Noumea to Sydney for repairs, safely arrived at Sydney at an early hour yesterday morning in tow of the steam tug Champion. The master of the tug states that he picked up the distressed barque 80 miles due east of Sydney Heads at midday on Thursday, and succeeded without much difficulty in getting a line aboard. The tow was an uneventful one, and upon arrival the Amiral Cecille anchored in Watson's Bay awaiting medical inspection. Upon being granted pratique she moored off Mosman's Bay.

It appears that the Amiral Cecille had loaded a cargo of about 3000 tons of nickel ore at Tchio for Havre, France, and put to sea on May 4 last. She was towed by the steamer Tayo clear of the reef, and had discharged the pilot, when a heavy fog enveloped the coastline. She successfully passed through the Poro Pass, but shortly afterwards while under full canvas struck a reef near Kuakue Bay. The barque passed right over the reef, which is completely submerged, and bumped heavily. The bottom of the vessel was damaged, and the barque commenced to make water. Subsequently she anchored in Kuakue Bay, which is well sheltered, and Captain Jean left for Noumea to procure tugboat assistance.

The steamtug Tayo was despatched to the scene, and arrived at Noumea with the Amiral Cecille in tow on May 9. On the 28th ultimo the steamer St. Louis took the Amiral Cecille in tow for Sydney, but after proceeding 1000 miles was compelled, in consequence of adverse weather conditions and the fact that the steamer was running short of oil and fuel, to cast her adrift. As already reported Captain Proux, of the St. Louis, upon arrival at Sydney on Wednesday morning, reported that when he left the Amiral Cecille on Tuesday evening she was about 70 miles E.N.E. of Sydney Heads.

A PERILOUS VOYAGE.

ARRIVAL OF THE BARQUE MONA FROM BUENOS AYRES.

THE VESSEL ON HER BEAM END FOR 16 HOURS.

The German barque Mona which arrived at Sydney yesterday with a cargo of wheat and flour after a passage of 99 days from Buenos Ayres, had a most sensational voyage, and at one time the ship's company had almost abandoned all hope of reaching port. The vessel sailed from Buenos Ayres on March 23, but from the outset encountered heavy north-west gales which developed such force that the Mona was compelled to run back for shelter, and anchored in the River Plate on the following day. Departure was again taken for Sydney on March 25, and for three weeks the vessel was favoured with good weather conditions. The Cape of Good Hope was rounded on the 28th day out, when terrific gales from the south-east had to be contended with. The ship rolled heavily and shipped a good deal of water, but fortunately came out of the ordeal uninjured. The easting was run down in lat. 45 S., strong westerly and south-westerly winds prevailing the greater part of the time.

The hope was then entertained that the Mona would reach her destination without further bad weather, but the master and crew were doomed to disappointment, for the worst part of the journey had yet to be negotiated. As the Mona rounded the southern part of Tasmania on the morning of May 26, she suddenly encountered the full force of a terrific gale, which continued to increase in force until it attained the violence of a hurricane. The barometer, Captain Schwarting states, fell as low as 29·60, and during the progress of the tempest the Mona was thrown on her beam ends.

For 16 hours the vessel had a terrific list on the starboard side, the main deck being almost flush with the water. Mountainous seas were running, and at intervals of every few seconds huge rollers broke on board. The decks were almost constantly under water, and the gigantic seas swept right over the hatches. The cabins were flooded, as was also the forecastle, and everything moveable on the deck was swept overboard.

The position for 16 hours was one of great peril, and many of the hands expected that the vessel would capsize. However, by midnight on that day the vessel righted herself, and she was soon got into sailing order. There was a general feeling of relief when it was found that the efforts of the ship's company to right the ship had been attended with success. During the whole time that the Mona was in imminent peril all hands worked without a moment's cessation.

As soon as the barque righted herself she was put under two lower topsails and a foresail, and with this limited quantity of canvas was hove to for the ensuing 24 hours, when the weather moderated somewhat. On the following day a course was shaped for Cape Howe, and good headway was made. Since then light breezes and baffling winds were met with and carried to port. The Mona upon arrival anchored in Watson's Bay, and upon being granted pratique moored in Mosman's Bay.

It is thought probable that the cargo has been damaged by water, and an examination will be made to-day.

ANOTHER ROUGH VOYAGE.

THE WEST LOTHIAN BARQUE FROM TACOMA.

LOSS OF SAILS AND DAMAGE TO FITTINGS.

After an eventful passage of 64 days from Tacoma the four-masted barque West Lothian arrived here last night with a cargo of wheat and flour, and anchored for the night in Watson's Bay. Captain Davies, the master of the West Lothian, states that he sailed from Tacoma on April 9, and experienced fine weather and moderate winds until passing west of the Three Kings to the north-east of the North Island of New Zealand. A succession of terrific gales was then encountered, first from the south-east with heavy squalls and rain, and afterwards from the westward.

During the height of the storm the West Lothian lost several of her sails, and sustained some amount of damage to her deck fittings. The gales attained extraordinary force, and the mountainous seas constantly broke on board, washing everything portable overboard. Subsequently the weather moderated, and a course was steered for Sydney. She was taken in tow off Sydney Heads, and anchored in Watson's Bay at 8.30 p.m.

THE ABBY PALMER SAFE.

SIGHTED BY THE WESTRALIA.

The American barque Abby Palmer, which sailed from Sydney for Newcastle over a fortnight ago, has been sighted by the steamer Westralia, which arrived here from Auckland last night. The Abby Palmer left here on May 27 and arrived off the port of Newcastle, where a pilot boarded her. Before she could enter, however, she encountered the full force of the gales which wrought such havoc with shipping, and stood out to sea. She was passed by several vessels along the northern part of the New South Wales coast, but during the past ten days her whereabouts have been unknown, and fears were being entertained for her safety.

Captain Rainey, the master of the Westralia, states that he sighted the Abby Palmer at 9.50 a.m. yesterday in lat. 33·54 S. and long. 15·59 E. She was bound west.

A LEGAL POINT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A question of interest to the legal profession was settled to-day by Mr. Justice Hodges in the Practice Court. A few days ago Mr. Potts, barrister and solicitor, applied for and obtained an order nisi to review a magisterial decision, and he asked Mr. Justice Hodges to certify for counsel, stating that he was not instructed by another solicitor but under instructions from his client direct. Mr. Justice Hodges expressed doubt as to whether he had power to so certify, and reserved his decision until to-day. He held that a certificate for counsel meant a certificate to the taxing officer which would justify him in allowing a charge for attendance and a barrister under instructions from the party's solicitor, and that notwithstanding the amalgamation of the professions of barrister and solicitor, a certificate could only be given when a barrister appeared instructed by another practitioner, and when the Judge thought it was a proper case for the employment of a second practitioner. He, therefore, held he had no power to grant a certificate for counsel to Mr. Potts.

CONGREGATIONAL JUBILEE IN QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The services in connection with the jubilee of Queensland Congregationalism and the Australasian Inter-State Conference were inaugurated to-night at a large meeting in the Centennial Hall, when a public welcome was tendered to the visiting delegates who include clergymen and others from all the other States as well as New Zealand, Scotland, and the United States.

A gloom was cast over the proceedings by the announcement of the chairman that the Rev. L. C. Jamieson, of Bowen Hills (Brisbane), had been seized with a paralytic stroke the previous night, and had been unconscious ever since.

THE WEATHER.

LIGHT RAIN OVER THE WHOLE STATE.

On Thursday evening rain began to fall in the far west, and during the early hours of yesterday morning extended over almost the whole of the State. The only places which did not participate in the general downpour were the northern highlands and the seaboard. At only one centre did the quantity of rain measured reach half an inch, the average being about a quarter of an inch. The complete rainfall records for the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday were:—

SYDNEY WATER SUPPLY.

There was a decrease in the water flowing into the canals yesterday, the returns received showing that the Nepean and Cataract rivers were supplying a total of 51,057,000 gallons, a falling-off of 1,625,000 gallons for 24 hours. The inflow to Prospect reservoir amounted to 51,188,000 gallons while the height of water was 184·44ft., a slight rise as compared with Thursday's measurement.

A DESTRUCTIVE THUNDERBOLT.

A YOUNG GIRL INJURED.

A REMARKABLE SPECTACLE.

COBARGO, Friday.

During a heavy thunderstorm to-day, about 2 o'clock, the residents were dumbfounded by a terrific report. A great ball of fire was seen to burst at the rear of the local post-office and to strike a large green tree in the post-office yard. A girl named Florrie Gillespie, who was about 20 yards away at the time, was rendered unconscious, her face and body being burnt, and her hair singed to the roots. The patient is now recovering from the shock. A wire clothesline attached to the tree was burnt and shattered to atoms, hundreds of pieces being found not more than 3in. or 4in. long. Mrs. Horsley, who was standing in a doorway about 18 yards away from the tree, had a miraculous escape. She describes the scene as awful. She saw the girl enveloped in flames, followed by balls of fire. A falling piece of molten iron struck the wall, and burnt the doormat on which Mrs. Horsley was standing. The interior of the building was brilliantly illuminated. All the inmates suffered slight shock. Spectators described the scene as one of awful grandeur. The whole building appeared to be one mass of fire and then resembled a beautiful display of fireworks, throwing out millions of sparks of all colours. Several runaways were reported, and one vehicle capsized.

HEAVY FALL OF HAIL.

MUDGEE, Friday.

A phenomenal fall of hail occurred this afternoon near the waterworks, covering the ground for a depth of several inches in a few minutes. The hillside from the town bore the appearance of being snowclad.

CASUALTIES AND FATALITIES.

SUICIDE BY DROWNING.

GRAFTON, Friday.

An inquest on the body of Alex. M'Intosh, who committed suicide by drowning himself in the river, was held to-day. The deceased, who was a shipping agent here for the past 20 years, left letters addressed to his wife and others stating that he found life intolerable owing to financial troubles. A verdict of suicide was returned.

RAIN-MAKING EXPERIMENT.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Yesterday Mr. Rollason, secretary of the Water Supply Company, telegraphed to the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce concerning Dr. M'Carthy's proposition that the directors entirely disbelieved Dr. M'Carthy's ability, but to assist the experiment they were willing to guarantee £500 on condition that he produced through his own agency 2in. of rain on the catchment area before the end of June.

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last evening to consider the position, it was stated that although there would be no difficulty in obtaining the £100 which Dr. M'Carthy required for his travelling expenses, there were obstacles in the way of securing the guarantee for £2500. Finally it was decided that a meeting of mine managers and representatives of all leading firms and companies be called for Thursday next to consider the position of affairs.

THE BAULKHAM HILLS TRAM.

The Castle Hill Progress Association is making strong efforts in the direction of having the Parramatta-Baulkham Hills tramway extended to Castle Hill, and is arranging for a joint deputation of the Parramatta, Baulkham Hills, and Castle Hill progress associations to wait upon the Minister for Works to urge on the matter. It is also desired that steps be immediately taken to provide for the carriage of fruit and other goods on the line.

DEATH OF AN OLD-AGE PENSIONER.

On Friday morning Mr. T. E. M'Nevin, S.M., district coroner, held an inquiry touching the death of Thomas Kenny, an old-age pensioner, who died suddenly the previous evening at the old Cottage Inn premises. Dr. Hall deposed that death resulted from heart failure, supervening on senile decay. Frederick Johnson deposed that he was a boarding-house keeper, and deceased had been one of his boarders. The class of boarders he kept was old-age pensioners. On Thursday, at 3 p.m., deceased was coughing very badly, and he sent for Dr. Hall, who arrived within five minutes of the call. When witness returned he found that the man was dead. He kept 18 boarders, 17 old men and one old woman. There were 10 bedrooms. In some of the rooms there were three beds, and in others there were two. There were 21 persons living on the premises altogether. The local inspector had condemned the house to a certain extent, saying that it needed repair; but he had sanctioned the allotment of beds in the rooms. The S.M. remarked:—"My recollection of the premises is that they are absolutely inadequate for the accommodation of so many persons, besides being unhealthy; but, of course, I have not been there lately. It may have been improved." The S.M. found that death resulted from natural causes. He then told Johnson that though it appeared the deceased had been humanely treated, the premises were unsuitable, and the accommodation inadequate for so many pensioner boarders. Later on the Coroner added in his finding that the premises where deceased had died were unsuitable for the accommodation of so many boarders, being in a state of decay, and appearing unfit for human habitation. Steps, he thought, ought to be taken by the proper authorities for the demolition of the place.

GOLD FIND IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

RICH ALLUVIAL AND REEF.

PERTH, Friday.

Mr. Winward, one of the prospecting party which has had a number of men with 60 camels out prospecting on the eastern goldfields for the past three months, reports a rich find at Wandalis, about 50 miles south-east of Kalgoorlie, and within two miles of the proposed route of the railway from Kalgoorlie to Port Augusta. Mr. Winward says that six weeks ago a man named Pleyell was engaged in prospecting about four miles from the Santa Claus mine when he came upon a very rich reef. The outcrop of this was a greyish quartz, and upon investigation it was found freely studded with gold. In fact, in places there appeared to be more gold than stone. A great many specimens have been taken and lodged in the bank at Kalgoorlie. One or two which are at present in Perth are extremely rich, and show that the new find is a big one. Pleyell pegged out various claims, both for reef and alluvial. Claims were also pegged out for Winward, for Griffiths and Dr. Randall, the proprietors of Santa Claus mine. Pleyell also took up the Reward blocks.

At Bulong the news of the find created much excitement. Miners with wheelbarrows, shakers, and other requisites hurried out to the find immediately. From every direction people are now flocking to the scene of the discovery. Captain Dicks, who is engaged in putting up the battery on the Santa Claus mine, has inspected Pleyell's find, and says that in appearance it is quite equal to the Londonderry. Winward states an English syndicate has already purchased the South Block, adjoining Pleyell's Reward claim, at a good figure, and that big offers have also been made to the holders of the block to sell. One prospector who has taken a claim up at the new find says that the find is wonderfully rich both in alluvial and reef gold. He describes it as a second Hannans. No official report with regard to the find has yet come to hand.

LAW REPORT.

FRIDAY, JUNE 12.

BANCO COURT.

(Before the Acting Chief Justice and a jury of four.)

ACTION FOR ALLEGED NEGLIGENCE.

Austin v. Railway Commissioners.

Mr. Shand and Mr. L. Armstrong, instructed by Mr. W. Arnott, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Reid, K.C., and Mr. C. B. Stephen, instructed by Mr. A. H. Platt, for the defendants. This was an action brought by Sarah Jane Austin to recover compensation from the defendants for personal injury sustained by her owing, as she alleged, to the negligent and unskilful management by the defendants' servants of a vehicle used for the repair of electric trolly wires. Her case was that she is a widow, and at the time of the accident she was carrying on a hotel business at the Glebe. On December 13 last she had occasion to call on business upon Mr. Woods, wine and spirit merchant, who also carried on the Australian Hotel, at the corner of Abercrombie-street and George-street West, and she drove there in a buggy drawn by a pony. Upon reaching the hotel Mr. Woods came out and spoke to plaintiff, the pony and vehicle being on the right-hand side of the road facing George-street West. The animal shortly afterwards became restive, and backed out a little on to the roadway, and Mr. Woods went to its head. At that time the pony was almost facing the Glebe. An electric repairing car was then seen coming down the hill drawn by two horses at a slow trot; and plaintiff said that the driver, instead of looking in the direction he was driving, was watching the man on the top of his own vehicle. The result was that defendants' car came into collision with the off side of plaintiff's buggy, and capsized it, and Mrs. Austin was seriously cut about the head, and was otherwise injured. She was confined to her bed for a month, and during the succeeding month though able to get about, she was unable to attend to her business, and had to engage assistance. After that time she had to go to the country for a fortnight in compliance with the recommendation of her medical attendant. She also stated that since the accident she had lost considerably in weight, and, owing to the permanent effect of the accident upon her nervous system, she had been obliged to sell her hotel business. Damages were laid at £1000.

The defendants pleaded not guilty.

James Lennon, driver of the tram vehicle, said that on the occasion of the accident he was driving along near the Australian Hotel on his right side, and when a few yards from the plaintiff's buggy the pony shied, and backing round on to the tram-line brought one of the wheels over the pole of the repairing vehicle and was capsized. As soon as witness realised the danger he tried to bear away, but was too late. No one had hold of the pony's reins at the time, and though plaintiff tried to seize them when the pony backed, she failed to get hold of them. John Bryan, a linesman of the Tramway Department, said that when the pole of the tram-repairing waggon was in a line with the pony the animal shied and backed, getting the buggy at right angles to the pole of the waggon. The pole caught against the buggy, and the latter was turned over gently. He also said that Lennon did all he could to prevent a collision when the danger became apparent.

At 4 o'clock the further hearing was adjourned till Monday next.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Owen and a jury of four.)

ACTION FOR GOODS SOLD AND DELIVERED.

Australian Brewery and Wine and Spirit Company v. Parker.

Mr. Rolin, instructed by Mr. Vero Read, appeared for the plaintiffs. The defendant appeared in person. This was an action brought by the plaintiff company against John C. Parker, formerly licensee of the Sussex Arms, Oxford-street, to recover the sum of £80 13s 5d alleged to be due as balance of account for goods sold and delivered to the defendant, from November 13, 1902, to January 6, 1903. The case stated by Thomas Magney, secretary to the company, was that the goods sued for were delivered at various periods between the dates mentioned and as the defendant was getting behind with his payments he sent for him and went through his account in the ledger. Defendant admitted that he had received the goods, and that he was doing his best, but that the house did not pay him. Subsequently defendant told Mr. Magney to take the hotel over as he did not wish to have anything more to do with it, and the license was subsequently transferred.

The defendant pleaded not indebted, and gave evidence that after he had been travelling for the plaintiff company for over three years, he took the hotel over at their request, and as their representative. When he was asked what salary he was to receive, Mr. Magney informed him that the company did not pay a salary for such a service, but that any profit he might make he could have. Subsequently the license of the hotel was transferred to him.

His Honor, in summing up, said there was a conflict of testimony as to the position which defendant occupied in the hotel, and the jury would have to decide which side they believed. There was one thing which came out in evidence, and that was that during the time or part of the time that defendant was in occupation of the hotel he was also traveller for the plaintiff company, and was paid a salary as traveller for the period covered by the account, and defendant said that that would account for his getting a salary. Mr. Magney's story, however, was that finding that defendant was not making much as traveller, and there being an urgent necessity for changing the ownership of the Sussex Hotel business, he suggested to defendant that he should take it and see whether he could not make it pay. If he did it would supplement his salary as traveller. That story, if true, would account for the defendant remaining in the company's service as a traveller and receiving a salary. There was also evidence that after difficulties had arisen between the company and defendant, and the hotel had been handed over by the plaintiffs to a man named House, defendant took possession again and dealt with the business as his own until Wednesday last. The jury would be entitled to consider that in determining what really was defendant's position in reference to the plaintiff company at the time.

The jury, after a brief deliberation, returned a verdict for the plaintiffs for the full amount claimed.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and juries of four.)

CLAIM FOR £6000.

M'Master v. M'Phillamy.

Mr. R. E. O'Connor, K.C., with him Mr. Scholes and Mr. J. L. Campbell, instructed by Mr. H. White, appeared for the plaintiff, Oswald M'Master; Mr. C. E. Pilcher, K.C., with him Dr. Sly and Mr. Norman Pilcher, instructed by Messrs. Iceton and Faithfull (as agents for Mr. John M'Phillamy), appeared for the defendant, Charles Smith M'Phillamy. Plaintiff claimed £6000 as compensation for losses he had sustained in connection with the purchase of a flock of sheep. His case was that in 1901 he saw an advertisement stating that the defendant, who resided at Waroo station, near Forbes, had certain sheep for sale. Plaintiff, who resided in Queensland, went to defendant's station, and saw some small flocks of the sheep that were for sale and explained to defendant that he wanted young ewes for breeding purposes on his station in Queensland. An agreement was entered into whereby plaintiff was to purchase 10,000 of defendant's young ewes, the defendant undertaking that none of them should be over five years old. Negotiations were entered into for the "droving" of these sheep to plaintiff's Bonnie Downs station in Queensland. 10,300 sheep were delivered by defendant, but plaintiff complained that many of them were old, "broken mouthed," or "gummie," and thousands of them died—in fact, plaintiff said he only received 2900. He claimed £6000 as damages on the ground that defendant had broken his contract, and had failed to deliver sheep of the description agreed upon.

The defendant pleaded that he had not promised as alleged; that he had delivered the sheep to plaintiff as agreed upon; that he had not delivered to the plaintiff any sheep over 5 years of age or which were unfit to travel; that the contract was varied; and that the plaintiff had accepted the sheep delivered in satisfaction of his claim.

The case is part heard.

IN CHAMBERS.

(Before Mr. Justice Cohen.)

REFERRED TO FULL COURT

A CUSTOMS CASE.

Donohoe v. Arnold.

This matter was argued before his Honor on Wednesday week last. The defendant had been summoned by the Customs authorities on an information charging him with making an unlawful entry of 14 packages of "lysol," and the complaint was that the defendant did not declare on the bottles in which the lysol was contained. The defence was that the bottles were not dutiable. The magistrate dismissed the information on the ground that the glass bottles containing goods subject to ad valorem duty were not by the tariff itself made subject to any duty. From this decision complainant appealed, and upon the conclusion of the argument judgment was reserved.

His Honor now said he had been considering this matter, and as the case was one of very great importance it would be much more satisfactory if the decision of the Full Court was taken. He therefore referred the matter to the Full Court.

VICE-ADMIRALTY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Owen, Deputy Judge Commissary.)

HARBOUR COLLISION.

ACTION FOR COMPENSATION.

Hurstwaite v. Port Jackson Co-operative Steamship Company, Limited.

Mr. Broomfield and Mr. Pickburn, instructed by Messrs. Wilkinson and Osborne, appeared for the plaintiff; and the Attorney-General (Mr. B. R. Wise, K.C.) Dr. Sly, and Mr. James, instructed by Mr. W. Lindsay Thompson, for the defendants. This was a suit brought by Fred. Hurstwaite, owner of the steamer Pacific, against the Port Jackson Co-operative Steamship Company, Limited, owners of the steamer Fairlight, to recover £700 compensation for damages sustained by the Pacific owing, as plaintiff alleged, to the negligence of the master and crew of the Fairlight off Macquarie Point on the afternoon of January 22 last.

The case for the defendants was that the Fairlight was bound to the Quay at the time, and when first seen the Pacific was about 300ft. from the Fairlight's starboard bow. The master of the Pacific wrongfully ported his helm at a time when the two vessels were going clear and increased his speed.

The addresses of counsel were concluded, and his Honor reserved judgment.

ARBITRATION COURT.

(Before the President, Mr. Justice Cohen, and the members, Messrs. W. D. Cruickshank and S. Smith.)

THE WHARF LABOURERS' DISPUTE.

APPLICATION FOR AN INJUNCTION.

This was a matter in which the Sydney Wharf Labourers' Union applied for an injunction to restrain Captain Blohm, of the schooner Resolute, and Messrs. J. I. Falk and Co. from committing breaches of the award in the dispute between the claimant union and the Sydney Stevedoring and Wool Dumping Association.

Mr. Beeby (Messrs. Brown and Beeby) appeared in support of the application, and Mr. Garland for the respondent.

The summons set out that the respondent, in the alleged breach of the award, had used his crew to discharge cargo from the schooner, instead of employing the members of the claimant union.

It was contended by Mr. Garland that the respondent had not carried on the business of a stevedore in the acceptation of the terms of the award. If the captain of a ship in port could be said to have committed a breach of an industrial award by ordering his crew to discharge cargo, then he might as well be cited for breaches when he gave orders to the carpenter to do some repairs, or the cook to continue cooking. It did not follow that the master of a ship ordering "constant" hands to unload his vessel could be said to be carrying on the business of a stevedore.

The President said that it appeared to him that the clause in the award which dealt with the matter did not include captains of vessels trading to the port as persons carrying on the business of stevedores. In this case the only question the Court had to consider was whether respondent was carrying on the business of stevedoring. The union, of course, might make application to have the award amended so as to bring such persons within that award. The carrying on of a business implied a continuity of transactions or operations. The Court was of the opinion that the respondent was not carrying on such a business, and on that account the summons would be dismissed. His Honor stated that his own opinion was that the captain of every ship that came into Port Jackson—whether British or foreign—should be amenable to the common rule.

THE TAILORESSES' DISPUTE.

SUMMONSES FOR PENALTIES.

In this matter, application was made by the Tailoresses' Union of New South Wales to have the award of the Court enforced against A. H. Wright and Co. The union also asked that the penalty provided in the common rule should be enforced against the same firm for three alleged breaches of the award.

Mr. Beeby (Messrs. Brown and Beeby) appeared for the claimant union. Mr. Collett (a member of the firm) appeared for the respondents.

The charges made against the respondents were that they did not pay Catherine Spillane the prices as fixed by the log for certain work; that they did not enter in plain figures in an employee's book certain work as taken out from the factory; that the words "66 knickerbockers at 5½ per pair," had been inserted, whereas the entry should have been "66 pairs of men's moleskin trousers," the proper price payable being 7d per pair.

A further charge was made against the respondents that they did not pay Beatrice Potter, an apprentice of four years' standing, the wages as specified in the Court's award, viz., 20s per week.

After considerable evidence had been taken his Honor, in giving the decision of the Court, said that in connection with the charge of failing to enter in the employees' book a true statement of work given out it was found that the conditions had not been complied with. The Court looked upon the matter as being a very serious breach, and it was decided to impose a penalty of £5, and the costs of the summons were ordered to be paid by the respondents. In regard to the charge of not having paid the log prices to Catherine Spillane, the Court thought there had been a breach, and imposed a further penalty of £4, a similar order being made as to the payment of costs of summons as in the first-mentioned case. The charge of not having paid Beatrice Potter the amount as prescribed by the award for apprentices of four years' standing was dismissed, and the claimant union was ordered to pay the costs of the summons.

Costs were assessed as follows:—Respondents were ordered to pay costs amounting to £14 13s, inclusive of witnesses' expenses, court fees, and fees out of pocket; claimant to pay to respondents costs amounting to 20s in connection with the summons that had been dismissed.

(Before the Registrar.)

RIVAL SHEARERS' UNIONS.

RENEWED APPLICATION AGAINST THE M.S.U.

The Registrar for Arbitration began the hearing on Thursday of the renewed application by the Australian Workers' Union for the cancellation of the registration of the Machine Shearers' Union as an industrial union under the Act. Mr. G. H. Reid, K.C., and Mr. Ferguson, instructed by Mr. A. C. Roberts, appeared for the A.W.U.; and Mr. C. G. Wade, instructed by Mr. A. De Lissa, appeared for the respondent union. Application had been previously made by the A.W.U. with the same object. When the matter was before the Arbitration Court the Court held, inter alia, that certain of the A.W.U. rules were such as to justify shearers in declining to belong to that union and in seeking membership in another union. Since then the A.W.U. has altered some of its rules. The grounds of the appeal and of the reply have been published before. Shortly, the applicants contend that their union was registered prior to the M.S.U., and was a union to which all members of the M.S.U. could belong, and, further, that the M.S.U. is not a bona-fide union of employees. The respondent union answers that the prior registration of the A.W.U. is not a bar to its own registration; that having been registered it entered into an agreement with the Pastoralists' Union which could not now be abrogated; and further, that some of the rules of the A.W.U. showed that it was a political body, to which many shearers declined to belong.

The hearing was continued yesterday, the whole day being occupied by counsel in their addresses.

CHARGES AGAINST EMPLOYEES.

MESSRS. ANTHONY HORDERN AND SONS' CASES.

COMMITTAL FOR ALLEGED CONSPIRACY.

At the Central Police Court, before Mr. R. H. Wilshire, S.M., yesterday, the hearing was continued of the charge against Charles Herbert Young, 25, cashier, and Albert Fisher, 25, salesman, of having between October 1, 1901, and May 19, 1903, conspired to cheat and defraud Samuel Hordern, trading as Anthony Hordern and Sons, of certain sums of money amounting in all to about £1000.

Mr. J. Garland, instructed by Messrs. Read and Read, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Charles Bull for the accused.

Frank Parker, a clerk in the employ of Anthony Hordern and Sons, stated that on May 16 he was sent to take charge of Young's desk by Mr. Harris, the chief accountant. He there saw a two-guinea docket and a one loose cash amounting to £1 16s on the desk. He took the cash and docket, and handed them over to Mr. Davis, the cashier's assistant.

Robert Wilson Morris, a check clerk, said that from a search he had made of Fisher's dockets he was able to say that one for £6 5s for two overcoats did not appear for May 12 or 13.

Percy Wood, salesman employed by the firm in the clothing department, stated that Fisher sold two overcoats on May 12 or 13 for £6 5s.

John Henry Harris, head accountant at Anthony Hordern and Sons, said that Young's stamp was on the two-guinea docket produced. There was no trace of the amount in the index. There was a deficiency for the period ended February 8 of about £2000.

To Mr. Bull: The deficiency covered the whole clothing department. Witness had been in the employ of the firm for 28 years. It was the practice to stamp dockets for amounts over £2.

Accused, who reserved their defence, were committed for trial. Bail was allowed to each in the sum of £80 and two sureties of £150.

When the case against Frederick Andrews, 32, grocer, was called on his Worship said he had read the depositions over very carefully, and on the evidence brought before him felt bound to dismiss the case. He therefore ordered the accused to be discharged.

Murder. Let us close our eyes
  To blot out such a scene;
Cold-blooded troops of Servia
  Have killed their King and Queen.
Yet all would rather die right off
  Than illness long endure;
  With Woods' Great Peppermint Cure.—Advt.

POLICE COURTS.

A PASSENGER'S FLIGHT.

TRANSFERRED TICKETS.

In the Summons Division of the Water Police Court yesterday, before Mr. C. N. Payten, S.M., Douglas L. Dowdell, of the Orient Steam Navigation Company, Limited, proceeded against Elizabeth Ann Clarke upon an information which set forth that she did between June 4 and 6 travel by the steamer Ormuz, registered in the United Kingdom, from Melbourne to Sydney without paying her fare, and with intent to avoid payment thereof. There was a second charge of giving a false name with regard to the ticket.

John Charles Gibbons, purser of the Ormuz, belonging to the Orient Navigation Company, said that he had exclusive supervision of all matters in connection with passengers. He did not give defendant permission to join the ship at Melbourne, neither did she apply to him for a passage. Witness first saw her on June 5, after the vessel had left Melbourne. He sent for her to endorse her ticket, a ticket issued to Mrs. Stanley from London to Sydney, breaking her journey at Melbourne. The defendant endorsed the ticket in his presence. Witness presumed the original holder of the ticket wrote on the back of it. Witness pointed out to defendant the signature put on in his presence and the one signed out of his presence. The tickets were not transferrable, and they are so marked. Defendant did not admit until the following morning that her name was Clarke, when she admitted it to Mr. Dowdell. Defendant told witness that her brother had purchased the ticket for her in Melbourne. Defendant had not since offered or paid the fare. She travelled second-class, the fare for which was £8. Defendant did not tell witness that Mrs. Stanley had given her permission to use her name.

The defendant, a married woman, stated that she got the ticket from her brother. She saw Mrs. Stanley about the ticket beforehand, and she (Mrs. Stanley) told defendant's brother in defendant's presence that she was not going on, and that she (defendant) could have the ticket. To the Bench witness said she was asked to sign her name on the ticket, and she put Stanley on it, as Mrs. Stanley had given her permission to do so. Mrs. Stanley, who was a friend of her brother, had come out from England. Witness paid nothing to the company nor to her brother. Upon each charge the defendant was fined 10s, ordered to pay costs amounting to £1 6s 6d, or in default seven days' imprisonment with hard labour. Fourteen days were allowed in which to pay the fine.

WATER LICENSING COURT.

At the adjourned Water Licensing Court yesterday Mr. Donaldson, S.M., granted the transfer of a publican's license from John J. Barnett to Minnie Tellier, Grand Hotel, Cumberland-street, Sydney.

CHARGES OF STEALING.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. A. N. Barnett, D.S.M., Harry Dell, 20, baker, was committed for trial on a charge of having stolen in the dwelling-house of Eliza Noake, at Sydney, on May 22, a suit of clothes, a silver watch, cigar case, shirt, and pair of boots, of the total value of £7, the property of Arthur Thomas. He was further charged with having stolen several articles of jewellery valued at £2 10s, the property of Albert Henry Williams, on May 27; also with having stolen a waterproof and pair of trousers, valued at £3, the property of Patrick James Gallagher, on May 28. A sentence of three months' hard labour was imposed in each case.

SMUGGLING OPIUM AT BALMAIN.

A HEAVY FINE.

In the Charge Division of the Balmain Police Court yesterday, a Cingalese sailor named Ah Lay, employed on the steamship Australian, was charged with smuggling four tins of opium. About 8 o'clock on Thursday night Customs-officer Elliott, while on duty at Mort's Dock, observed the accused coming ashore from his vessel, which was in the dock undergoing repairs. The accused, who had a rather suspicious appearance about him, was stopped by the officer and searched. Concealed upon him the opium was found. The accused pleaded guilty to the charge. Customs Officer Elliott, who prosecuted, asked that a heavy fine should be imposed, to act as a deterrent to others, as this means of smuggling opium was becoming very frequent, and the practice imposed a great injustice upon honest importers of the article. At the present, he stated, there were no less than three of the vessel's crew in prison for offences of a similar character. A fine of £100, in default three months' imprisonment, with hard labour, was imposed.

SHIP CAPTAIN'S DEATH.

THE INQUEST.

The adjourned inquest respecting the death of Philip Mortimer Williams, late master of the barquentine River Hunter, was resumed before the City Coroner (Mr. J. C. Woore) yesterday.

James Macarthur, chief officer of the vessel, stated that on the 15th ultimo he was superintending the loading of the vessel with wooden piles 57ft. long. While the end of one of the piles was sliding along the concrete blocking of the wharf witness walked between it and the vessel, deceased being just behind him. When passing the pile Captain Williams touched it with a crowbar, causing it to swing round and crush his legs against the vessel, where it held him for about two minutes. Witness saw him on the following Sunday at the hospital. He said he had been asked to be placed in a private ward, and this had not been done.

Constable Thompson gave evidence as to the removal of deceased to Sydney Hospital.

A verdict was returned that deceased died from septicaemia following upon the necessary amputation of his left leg consequent upon injuries accidentally received.

NEW MUSIC.

Messrs. W. H. Paling and Co. forward one of the newest cake-walk publications, "The Boston Bride," by Sherwood Foster. This forms a particularly bright and captivating dance piece, with original and piquant little phrases in the bass. The whole displays considerable invention, so that, to sum up, the "Boston Bride" may be confidently recommended.

Messrs. Bayley and Ferguson, of London and Glasgow, publish part I. of "Anthem Treasures." This is a collection of easy and effective anthems for Church use, both in staff and sol-fa notation. Although this number is issued at 6d, it includes no fewer than two dozen anthems by such composers as Callcott, Attwood, Goss, and Novello, whose names speak for themselves.

Mr. Joe Slater now issues No. 21 of his long-popular Tivoli Album, containing portraits of Seeley and West, the Boisset pantomime troupe, Miss Fanny Powers, Mr. Wallace Brownlow, and other artists known at the variety theatres. The new magazine includes a whole sheaf of favourite music-hall songs, duets, cake-walks, and the like, the full list of which is detailed in another column. The Tivoli Album may be had of all musicsellers.

POULTRY.

All questions relative to fancy or commercial poultry-keeping, diseases, &c., must be addressed to "Ancona," "Herald" office.

G.C.—1. There is not any record of such places as you describe being injurious to either fowls or ducks. 2. The male bird, having gone black in comb and ceased crowing, is evidence of bad health, and if he is of a common sort, the cheapest cure is to kill him. You can replace a mongrel fowl for 2s 6d, and at any of the poultry sales can get one of pure origin for from 5s upwards.

Saxon.—Your run will accommodate about 20 fowls. A good all-round breed is the Orpington or first cross Minorca—Langshan.

E.M.M.—It is quite a common occurrence to find the gizzard punctured by a piece of wire, nail, &c. Death may not result from this, but eventually the substance may work its way into some vital part, when inflammation would set in, and the bird would, of course, die.

In last week's notes a printer's error of two letters of the alphabet was responsible for giving the Randwick exhibitor credit for a third prize in black Orpingtons, which was won by Mrs. Cheshire, of Tempe. The paragraph read, "the last exhibitor again getting third," which should have been the lady exhibitor again getting third, she having had the same success in the previous class.

At the close of the present week only about 200 cases, representing 7000 dozen eggs, remained in the Government cool stores. In previous years the middle of July was usually reached before all were cleared out, the high price of the present year prompting the earlier clearance. Altogether for the season slightly upwards of 8500 cases were stored, representing 127,000 dozen, a number slightly under the previous year, the shortage being readily accounted for by the high price of all poultry foods, small breeders being obliged to market their eggs at current rates to enable them to meet the excessive feed bills. On the other hand, those who availed themselves of the cold store advantages did well, the speculation, it is said, in some instances returning them 100 per cent., less storage charges.

The management of the Wagga Agricultural Association are early in the field with the schedule for their annual show, which does not take place till August. There are many enthusiastic breeders of pure-bred fowls in the Murrumbidgee districts who have been instrumental in building up the poultry sections of this show until it now holds a front place among the best in the State, the quantity of exhibits being always most numerous, while for merit many of the winners there have frequently occupied similar positions in the Sydney shows. The programme is an extended one of 127 classes, embracing all the well-known breeds of fowls; the prize money is 10s and 5s for the small entry fee of a shilling. Classes for district-bred birds are also included, and a number of special prizes provided. The show has always good support from Sydney breeders.

The Poultry Club's show, which closed on Saturday last, passed off without any special incidents. The usual Saturday crowd was in evidence, the attendance being most marked during the auction sale in the afternoon. The prices realised for the selling class birds were on the whole satisfactory, Indian Game making the most money. The sales in the usual way, through the secretary, were not so numerous as on previous occasions, this being largely due to the fact that many requiring pure-bred stock now secure such at the monthly auction sales held by the poultry salesmen of the city. A number of sales are also made at the poultry shows which do not go through the secretary's books, this being done to avoid the small commission charged by the society. It is the shows that bring about these sales, and the committee are justly entitled to their small charge to enable them to defray expenses of various sorts in connection with these exhibitions.

The Poultry Club put into effect the suggestion made in this column last week that it would be a boon to exhibitors to allow them to coop their fowls at 9 p.m. rather than the usual later hour. The committee in exhibitors' interests sacrificed the few shillings usually offered between 9 o'clock and 10, and by the latter hour almost every bird to leave that night had got clear of the building; suburban and country exhibitors were thus enabled, some to catch an earlier train than formerly, while others were spared the usual rush to the railway and excitement consequent on the risk of missing their last train. Suburban breeders who convey their birds by cart or van were, by the new arrangement, enabled to reach their various abodes an hour earlier than on other occasions.

With three shows in three successive weeks, and following only a brief time after the Royal, one would have thought fanciers would have been satiated with exhibitions, particularly as quite a number of them patronised all three shows. Evidently this was not the case, for during Saturday evening and night there were various rumours that several members of the three specialist clubs had been interesting themselves in talking over the matter of the clubs forming a strong poultry and pigeon society, and entering the field in friendly rivalry with the two older societies in catering for fanciers' wants in the show line. Calculations were made that if the 300 members contributed half a sovereign each, operations could be commenced with a show plant free of debt. Other optimistic views were light heartedly indulged in, much of which went to show that the enthusiasts knew little of the worries of show management and the responsibilities connected therewith. It should be mentioned that the scheme outlined provided for the absorption of the Mediterranean Breeders' Show, which has been for two years conducted by that club. The matter, however, is still in embryo, and so far has had no official recognition, but is expected to be further ventilated at future club meetings.

The following brief but varied history of a trio of fowls is noteworthy, as showing that healthy poultry can be subjected to a great deal of privation, rough usage, and climatic changes without much affecting their general health. On May 6 a breeder in this State remitted a money order to Mr. J. T. Travers, of Warragul, Victoria, for a trio of Faverolle fowls, purposing to exhibit them at the New South Wales P. P. and D. Society on the 23rd of the same month. A few days after the remittance was sent the Victorian railway strike was declared, and all hope was abandoned of any Faverolles for the show. However, unexpectedly on the 19th a letter was received that the fowls had been sent by carrier from Gippsland to Melbourne, and thence by the steamer Wodonga to Sydney. All haste was made to the A.U.S.N. wharf, when it was found the birds had arrived 24 hours previously. They were at once carted off to the show, which opened on the following day, and secured the prizes offered. At the close of the show they remained in the building for another week, appearing at the Mediterranean Breeders' exhibition, and secured first and second this time amongst other members of the breed. At the close of the show, one of the hens remained over the third week to appear at the Poultry Club Show, ultimately arriving at the owner's residence on the night of June 6, after an itinerancy of over four weeks three days in a wicker basket on the Gippsland roads, two days on the deck of a steamer, and a day on the wharf, and nearly three weeks in a show pen in the Exhibition Building. That one of the hens began to lay the day after reaching home is not intended as any testimonial in favour of this breed, but rather on behalf of the various show managements as to their attention to the exhibits entrusted to their care.

Poultry exhibitions, just like other establishments, have their season's novelties, fashion being as fickle in fowls as in feminine attire, nearly every season witnessing something new in shape, colour, or other adornment. Sometimes these are old fashions revived, as in the Old English Game, again becoming popular, and at other times they are new creations, or again they may be of French or other continental origin. The present season's novelties in the Sydney shows were the Campines, a Belgian fowl, the Lakenvelders from Holland, and the Faverolles from France. The above were on show at the New South Wales P.P. and D. Society, and the Mediterranean Breeders' Club exhibition, while another novelty was in evidence at the Poultry Club's show last week, these were a trio of blue-feathered bantams. Hitherto we have been accustomed to see blue-plumage fowls only in Andalusians, hence when diminutive specimens of this breed appeared they created a good deal of interest. The birds are as small as any of the present day bantams, and although not so perfect in the lacing as the Andalusian, are of the correct blue colour, and white ear-lobes. The trio were exhibited by Mr. H. M. Hamilton, and although made in Australia, such colours have been in evidence at the English shows for a number of years past.

Now that Faverolles have appeared at three Sydney shows, and but little known locally of the breed, the following description which appeared in "Feathered Life," by T. R. Robinson, F.S.I., will be of interest to those who purpose patronising these modest plumaged fowls:—"In France the Faverolle answers to what the Surrey or Sussex bird does in England. It makes the highest price in the Paris markets, and has quite displaced the Houdan from its own district. It has been bred by a people whose one great object has been to make a profit. It is the outcome of two distinct processes, i.e., careful crossing and liberal feeding. We find the Houdan, Dorking, Brahma, and Cochin, a mixture of all four, represented in one bird. It must be borne in mind that the country people care nothing about colour and markings. What they want is something that will come to the market quick, that will, if required, stand the confinement of the fattening coop, or that when mature will make a good forager, and will be a fair layer of average-size tinted eggs. The Houdan gives them their chief characteristic—the whiskers and small beard. The Dorking is particularly noticed in the male, as seen by the white legs, black breast, and single comb. The Brahma or Cochin generally leaves traces of feathers down the leg, is responsible for the brown egg of the hen, and often for the colour and general carriage of the bird. Young Faverolles are exceptionally hardy chickens, and may be reared without difficulty. They will attain a size and weight with less trouble than some of our finer breeds, and leave nothing in the way of quality to be desired. From the habit of foraging for itself the Faverolle is essentially a farmyard fowl, and adapted for the many corners and other environments that the homestead affords."

The poultry fraternity are threatened with another new breed as evidenced by the following advertisement, which now regularly appears in an English poultry paper:—"Foragers.—Queen of layers, the forager fowl; a veritable triumph in poultry culture. Lists free from the originator, Miss Helen Strathmore, Fittleworth, Sussex."

We have all read and heard of the great poultry farms of America, the reports frequently stating that there are scores of such in almost every State, where nothing but pure-bred fowls are kept, and that on individual farms these number up to 30,000 and 40,000 head. The following editorial from a leading poultry paper, published in St. Paul's, Minnesota, can be accepted at least as the other side of the question:—"There has been a great deal in the poultry and farm papers during the past few years urging poultrymen and farmers to breed a better quality of poultry, and we have all read so much about the advancement of pure-bred poultry, so much about the great broiler farms, where only pure-bred chicks are put on the market, that sometimes we are apt to think that the field is about occupied. A visit to the commission houses of any city will convince us that such an opinion is not justified. It is within the truth to say that four-fifths of the live chicks seen on the market are mongrels, and mighty poor stuff at that. The pure-bred poultry business, whether bred for the fancy or for the market, is yet in its infancy."

MANLY COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The monthly board meeting was held on Thursday, when Mr. John Woods (president) was in the chair, and there were present Mr. W. H. Fletcher (hon. secretary), Mr. H. E. Williams (hon. treasurer), Dr. David Thomas and Dr. L. Watson Harvey (hon. medical officers), Miss Ward (matron), Miss Broad (clerk and collector), Mesdames Woods, M'Gaw, Fletcher, Freeman, Hanson, Miss Warburton, Messrs. Learmouth, Hanson, Baylis, Smith, Carroll, Hosking, Wade, and Hannam. The report of a sub-committee appointed to make recommendations for the maintenance of the income was adopted as follows:—To hold a Hospital Saturday each year locally, to revive the childrens' bazaar, to seek for annual Sunday collections in the churches, and for an annual demonstration by the local Friendly Societies. The appointment of Miss Broad as clerk and collector was confirmed. A donation of £18 from the Bayview and Pittwater Progress Association was received with thanks. The matron reported:—14 patients admitted in May, 17 discharged, 2 died, and 7 remaining; the daily average had been 10.8. Ten operations had been performed, of which one was major and nine were minor. The treasurer reported a debit balance of £65, with £57 due on last month's accounts, total £122. The Government endowment, due in July, would wipe out the debit and leave a surplus. A unanimous vote of thanks was accorded to the ladies, who, at their own cost, have entirely replenished the linen press.

KING'S SCHOOL OLD BOYS' UNION.

The annual meeting of the King's School Old Boys' Union was held at the school on Wednesday evening last, Archdeacon Gunther being in the chair. The annual report and balance-sheet were adopted, the latter showed that the union is in a satisfactory financial position. Mr. Sydney Boydell resigned his position as secretary. Mr. Macartney Abbott was elected secretary in his place. The following were elected office-bearers:—Patron, the Rev. A. H. Champion, M.A.; president, the Hon. F. B. Suttor, M.L.C.; vice-presidents, the Hon. W. R. Campbell, M.L.C., Archdeacon Gunther, and Messrs. H. M. Faithfull, C. G. Wade, J. Russell French, and J. B. Bettington; committee, Messrs. S. G. Boydell, A. C. H. Gardiner, A. B. Wilkinson, W. A. Rand, G. W. Ash, E. H. Brady, E. A. Roberts, C. A. Jaques, and E. I. Body; hon. treasurer, Mr. D. Maughan; hon. secretary, Mr. M. Abbott; assistant hon. secretary, Mr. A. J. Williams; hon. auditors, Messrs. A. J. M'Lachlan and C. M. Boyce.

AT THE BAR.

It has been the most important event in the lives of not a few great men when they were called to the Bar, and to each it has happened but once in the course of their careers. Thereafter they have practised at the Bar with honourable distinction and profit to themselves, as it was fitting they should do after a long and arduous training therefor. Another vastly more numerous body of men also practise at the bar, some very constantly and with distinction, but always with loss rather than profit. They do not train for the employment, nor are they specially "called" to it, but incline thereto by a sort of natural bias which they seem powerless to effectively resist. Stay! What are we discussing? Bars? Why to be sure there are two sorts—one of the law courts, another of the hotels.

We once heard a distinguished K.C. assert that good liquor is better than bad law. We will concede the point without argument, but are prepared to maintain that Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup is better than either. Miss Helena Easton, of 50, Pacific-street, N.S.W., found it so. Miss Easton, who has been employed as barmaid in some of the leading hotels in the Newcastle district, thus writes on October 21, 1902: "In the summer of 1898, when residing in Goulburn, my health first gave way. I lost appetite, and became weak, nervous and languid. The little food I ate caused dreadful pain in the chest and stomach, with some other distressing symptoms. A doctor informed me that my complaint was acute indigestion, but his treatment did me no good. After a few months I tried another doctor, with similar result. Then, on the recommendation of one and another, I took all kinds of medicines; but not one of them did me the least good. For two years I continued to grow paler, thinner, and feebler. The slightest noise or excitement would cause my heart to palpitate violently, after which it would almost cease to beat, and I would feel very faint. A lady friend from Sydney, Mrs. W. Cook, persuaded me to try Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, as she knew several persons who had derived great benefit from it, and was sure it would do me good. Mrs. Cook was right. Before I had finished the second bottle there was a great change in my condition for the better. I could not only eat, but could enjoy food; the roses returned to my cheeks and plumpness to my figure. In short, after suffering from indigestion for over two years, I was completely cured in five weeks."—Advt.

VITADATIO

AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

ANOTHER CANCER CURE.

Neerim South, Gippsland,
August 21, 1902.

Mr. S. A. PALMER.

Dear Sir,—I feel it is only right that I should send you my testimony as to the merit of VITADATIO. I had been a very great sufferer for years, having undergone several operations. After the last operation I got very ill indeed, suffered intense pain, could not sleep; in fact, got so ill my friends all thought I must die. I did not know then what was the matter with me. I was sent to the Women's Hospital; my husband thought I would have died before reaching there. After being ill in the hospital six weeks they informed me that I had Cancer, and told my friends I had only a short time to live—there was no hope of my getting better. I was then less than five stone in weight, and was taken from the hospital to a friend's house in an ambulance, so ill that I could not move myself in bed without assistance. My friend (Mr. Newton) persuaded me to try VITADATIO, which I felt rather loth to do. However, in the end he prevailed, and I did try it, and thought it was going to kill me straight out, for it seemed only to increase the pain; but after taking it for about eight or nine weeks I began to throw up pieces of stuff resembling lights. I would retch for hours at a time, and the quantity of stuff that came up was just wonderful. I was taking VITADATIO for a long time; I think I took in all between forty and fifty bottles. When I started taking VITADATIO my friends said, "If it cures you it will be as wonderful as the raising of Lazarus." It is now twelve months since I took any, and I am doing all my own work (general household work). I think it is only right that I should tell what VITADATIO has done for me for the sake of any who may be suffering in the same way. You may make what use you like of this. There are a great number of my friends who can testify that every word here is true. I am a very different woman to what I was when I started taking VITADATIO, and I have taken no other medicine.

Yours sincerely,
(Mrs.) A. E. OLVER.

Tyler-street, Preston,
September 5, 1902.

S. A. PALMER, Esq.

Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in certifying to the truth of Mrs. C. Olver's testimonial. I have known the family for a number of years. Mrs. Olver has been a great sufferer. She was brought to my house in an ambulance from the Women's Hospital in a hopeless condition. Her desire was to die and be free from torturing pain. She was too far gone for any help from the medical or surgical profession. My wife and I persuaded her to try VITADATIO, arguing that if it did no good it could do no harm. After taking VITADATIO for a week or two she seemed to be worse, yet she continued until little by little her appetite came back, and after a terrible struggle with vomiting and pain, began to mend, and is now, I believe, thoroughly cured from cancer. Mrs. Newton would gladly answer any correspondence relating to Mrs. Olver's case. We are satisfied VITADATIO cured Mrs. Olver.

Yours truly,
(Councillor) JAS. C. NEWTON.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

Friday Evening.

In the Stock and Share market it cannot be said that there is any improvement in the somewhat sluggish demand noticed for investment stocks for some time past, but the inquiry is quite sufficient to give firmness to holders, who now view the outlook more cheerfully than they did prior to the rainfall which has so brightened the prospects of the State. And buyers who wish to lay out money on the Stock Exchange have to pay for the change. The hardening tendency of money no doubt operates against the upward movement and would probably promote a downward one but for the improved outlook; but if it goes much further it will become a question how far prices will be maintained. The fact cannot be concealed from those conversant with the monetary movements that the measure of distrust engendered by labour legislation is causing remittances of capital to England, that have gone all the more readily because the money market in England has been stiffer than usual. However, for the time, the Stock Exchange position in Sydney is rather stronger than it has been for some months.

The day's business calls for little comment, having been rather more lively in the mining than in the general department. Government stocks were unaltered. Bank of New South Wales rose ½, selling at 43½. Commercial of Sydney being a trifle firmer. Steam and insurance continued steady. In the miscellaneous list Permanent Trustee brought 2s 6d—the last quotation, Silverton Tram in request at 52s, and Aarons' Exchange were dealt in at 3s.

The following sales were reported on 'Change to-day:—Early: New South Wales 3½ per cent. Treasury Bills (1906), 98½. On 'Change: Bank of New South Wales, 43½. Noon: Aarons' Exchange Hotel, 3s; Permanent Trustee, 2s 6d. Closing quotations were:—

† Net.

The shipments of gold from Sydney for the week ended June 6 amount to £3530. Since January 1 the exports have been as follow in comparison with the figures for the corresponding period of the last two years:—

For	1901.	1902.	1903.
London	£509,415	£578,128	£791,926
Continent of Europe	215	140	80
China	81,562	94,393	98,805
India	50,000	—	235,098
Polynesia	80	9,122	2,020
Capetown	500,000	—	200,000
Australasia	18,058	10,009	200,115
San Francisco	100,000	—	—
Total	£1,259,329	£691,790	£1,628,014

An increase of £936,234 is apparent in the exports. The imports, amounting to £904,214, fall short of the exports by £723,800. The net imports of gold into New South Wales borderwise aggregated £288,586; and the production, including the proceeds of ore smelted at Dapto and Newcastle, was £688,139, leaving £252,925 as the recorded increase of gold in this State in five months as the result of the movements mentioned. From Australia the shipments aggregate about £7,360,000, an increase of about £2,537,000 on the aggregate for the corresponding period of last year, of which £3,523,000 were for India, £1,800,000 for South Africa, and £152,000 for China.

The gold yield of the Southern hemisphere is being maintained on an increasing scale this year. For the first four months of the year the Transvaal mines gave a yield of 841,128 fine ounces, against 375,460oz. in the like period in 1902. An increase of 465,668oz. is thus equal to £1,874,200, or at the rate of five and a half millions sterling for the year. The principal gold yielding States of Australia have returned the following amounts for the first five months in comparison with the quantity for the corresponding period of 1902:—

	1902. Oz.	1903. Oz.	Increase. Oz.
Western Australia	846,114	1,013,699	Inc. 167,585
Queensland*	220,020	253,950	Inc. 33,092
Victoria*	261,022	288,349	Inc. 27,327
New South Wales*	105,515	161,915	Inc. 56,400
	1,444,549	1,728,953	Inc. 284,404

The New South Wales figures include the proceeds of outside ore smelted at Cockle Creek and Dapto. Of the output this year 73,346oz. fine represents what was obtained from the mines of this State. The increase from the three States, giving the return in fine ounces, was 116,819oz., of the value of £496,000, while the increase from Western Australia was 167,585oz. gross, which if of the value of last year's output—£3 17s per ounce, would be about £654,000. The increase from South Africa in four months was £1,874,200, and from the four Australian States mentioned in five months £1,150,000. If these rates of increase be maintained for the remainder of the year, Australia and South Africa will give an increase of nearly £8,400,000 for the year.

The English money market has eased considerably this week under the influence of a fuller supply of funds in the bank, and a smaller demand, both at the bank and in the market. The open market rate is now 3 per cent.—a reduction of 3-16 per cent.—while the bank rate remains at 3½ per cent. A substantial addition to the reserve and in the proportion to liabilities are apparent in the weekly return, which also shows a very considerable drop in the amount of the other securities. The fall of ⅛ in Consols advised yesterday appears in the cabled list of stock quotations. The generally disturbed political situation of the world is probably one important factor in the depression of the national security.

Colonial securities have been fairly steady during the past week. Our list now contains quotations of the 3 per cents. of the various States and of New Zealand. The relative position of the securities of each is indicated as follows:—

		Net Price.
New South Wales	1935	£90 8 0
Victoria	1929-49	89 15 0
South Australia	1916-26	92 0 0
Queensland	1922-47	92 5 0
Tasmania	1920-40	93 0 0
Western Australia	1915-35	90 13 0
New Zealand	1945	91 13 0

Only 3¼ separates the lowest from the highest quotation, and it will be noticed that the stocks of the smaller States are in the better position. New South Wales 3's have attained a relatively better position on the list than they occupied a short time back; still they are lower than those of all the other States except Victoria, which has a big conversion loan on hand, and suffers accordingly. All these stocks are now about 10 points below the position they occupied a few years back, and reckoning them all as redeemable in 1935, the interest a purchaser buying at the price would receive would range from £3 7s 4d per cent in the case of Tasmanians, and £3 11s in that of Victoria. And any attempt to float a loan of extended currency would almost inevitably result in a price that would cost the States 5s per cent. more than these figures.

If we were to judge of the European commercial situation by the movements in prices of the industrial metals, we should have to assume that the markets are not very buoyant, for copper, tin, and lead are all lower on the week. It is noteworthy, however, that whatever may be the state of the market generally, the position of wool is a strong one, and a recovery of ¼d in 60's super Bradford tops is noticed this week. The sales of sheepskins have resulted in an advance in merinos ranging up to ½d per lb., and in crossbreds from ¼d to ½d per lb. And further, tallow has gone up from 3d to 6d per cwt.

Parts V., "Industrial Wages," and VIII., "Shipping," of the "Statistical Register," have been published. The total shipping trade for several years past has been as follows:—

	With Cargo. Tons.	In Ballast. Tons.	Total. Tons.
1898	5,879,288	1,040,240	6,919,528
1899	6,179,876	815,675	6,995,551
1900	6,569,824	1,445,059	8,014,883
1901	7,048,130	1,473,075	8,521,204
1902	7,466,502	1,261,642	8,728,144

There was an increase of 417,343 tons in the vessels entering and leaving with cargo, and a decrease of 210,433 tons in those in ballast, and the tonnage altogether showed an increase. The tonnage of the principal ports was as follows, 000's omitted.

	Sydney. Tons.	N'castle Tons.	Wollongong. Tons.	Eden. Tons.	Others. Tons.	Total. Tons.
1900	4828	2084	271	89	150	8014
1901	5413	2009	300	74	122	8021
1902	5089	2388	271	77	51	8728

The proportion of Sydney was 58·05 per cent., being the largest in any year of the decade. During the year 23 steam vessels of 1279 net tons, 20 sailing vessels of 1082 net tons, built in New South Wales, were registered here, and 29 steam and sailing vessels of 5654 tons, built out of New South Wales, were registered. And there are now 1039 vessels of all classes of an aggregate tonnage of 129,725 registered. During the year eight wrecks and disasters occurred to shipping of 4293 tons and a value approximately of £45,215, the lives lost numbering 28, being the largest number since 1898, when the total was 79.

Elsewhere appears an advertisement from Meyer, Limited, setting forth the extent of their business arrangements with South Africa, and of the interest they have for exporters of Australian products.

BREADSTUFFS.

The breadstuffs market remained in much the same state as was described yesterday. Californian wheat was fairly well held at about 5s, while Argentine was more or less nominally quoted at 4s 10d. Australian wheatgrowers seem to have a more than ordinary share of bad luck. Had there been a surplus of grain here during the present season the grower would have secured about 4d per bushel, which during our last shipping season went in freight, as well as a considerably higher price in London. Wheat could be shipped to London at present at about 5½d per bushel, whereas 9d per bushel was about the average cost last exporting season. We notice that pig iron is being shipped from Glasgow to New York at 3s per ton, and a considerable portion of the wheat recently landed at this port from San Francisco did not cost over 10s per ton for freight. Should the freight market remain low next season, when it is to be hoped that Australia will have a surplus for export, it will partly save the situation towards the end of the year, for it will minimise the extent of the fall when the new crop is available. Local flour, £11 15s to £12; Manitoba, £11 15s to £12; and Washington, £10 15s to £11 per ton.

IMPORT MARKET.

A rather improved volume of business was carried through in the Import market to-day, but even so trade must be reported as quiet. Cables were received indicating advances in currants and shellac, and a firmer tendency in sardines. Otherwise no material alterations were advised.

The following wire was received yesterday by the local Collector of Customs from the Comptroller-General:—"Minister directs shot in cartridges to be admitted free. Previous orders cancelled." It would seem that the Customs authorities are collecting the old duty on matches, not that laid down by the "Tariff Guide."

The following are the stocks of various articles of merchandise other than wines, spirits, narcotics, and sugar held in bond in Sydney to-night, together with the chief movements during the week:—

Tea.—Privately the following sales were reported:—50 chests of Ceylon broken pekoes, 9d; 40 ditto, 8d; and 20 chests of Indians at 7½d.

Part "Commerce" of the "Statistical Register" gives the imports of tea into New South Wales during 1902 in comparison with those of 1901 as follows:—

From	1901. lbs.	1902. lbs.
Victoria	2,145,883	861,006
Queensland	75,329	6,121
South Australia	351,464	199,410
Western Australia	—	1,110

China	1,503,694	1,007,584
Japan	540	—
	13,488,030	9,685,079

The great falling-off in the imports from the other States during 1902, as compared with 1901, is of course attributable to the anti-tariff speculation, which unduly swelled the figures of the earlier year.

The inter-state exports of tea during the same two years compare as follows:—

Victoria	64,269	215,920
Queensland	1,002,684	1,238,931
South Australia	17,369	299,142
Western Australia	86,691	12,068
Tasmania	18,375	40,404
Total	1,189,348	1,815,384

Outside of the Commonwealth New Zealand and New Caledonia took most tea from New South Wales. These figures may be added as follows:—To New Zealand: 1901, 348,913lb.; 1902, 278,571lb. To New Caledonia: 1901, 47,525lb.; and 1902, 36,197lb.

Messrs. Cyril Trower and Co. will offer at auction, on Tuesday next a catalogue comprising 465 chests of Ceylon teas, ex Ormuz and Arcadia.

Messrs. Fraser, Uther, and Co. will offer, on Thursday next, at the City Mart, 493 packages of Ceylon teas, ex Ormuz and Oceana, on account of Messrs. Fraser, Ramsay, and Co.; and 220 Ceylons, ex Ormuz and other late arrivals, on account of Mr. R. T. Remington.

Sugar.—A quiet and steady demand was experienced at late market rates.

The Colonial Sugar Company quote: Tablets, £27; icing or powdered sugar, £27; castor sugar, £23 5s; coffee crystals, £22; brewers' crystals, £21 10s; 1X or confectioners' crystals, £21; 1A, £20 15s; No. 1 (IW or Snowdrop), £20 15s; No. 2 (IC or pieces), £20 10s; and No. 3, £18 5s per ton. Twelve months ago the price of IC sugar was £20 10s, the same rate as rules to-day.

The bonded stocks of sugar for some weeks past compare as follows:—

	Imported. Tons.	Duty Paid. Tons.	Exported. Tons.	In Bond. Tons.
April 17	18	806	78	31,781
April 24	183	949	99	30,916
May 1	85	1,296	109	29,551
May 8	314	1,249	246	28,370
May 15	218	880	90	27,619
May 22	400	1,029	209	26,781

June 5	18	1,120	142	24,438
June 12	303	768	156	23,812

A year ago the stock of sugar held in bond was 15,714 tons, and 6824 tons at the corresponding date in 1901.

The prices for German 88 per cent. beet sugar f.o.b. Hamburg, and for first marks German granulated, as cabled to-night, compare with the rates ruling in earlier years as follows:—

		88 per cent. Beet, per cwt.	First Marks Granulated, per cwt.
July 12,	1899	11s 2½d	12s 6d
"	1900	10s 11d	12s 6d
"	1901	8s 9d	10s 0¾d
"	1902	6s 4d	7s 9d
"	1903	8s 1d	9s 6d

The world's visible supply of sugar on April 30 stood at 3,329,545 tons, against 3,425,899 tons at the corresponding date in 1902 and 2,568,048 tons in 1901.

Groceries.—Private cables anticipate a firmer market for Trefavenne sardines. Gold Medal milk met with a better inquiry. Meals were in strong request, oatmeal at £20, flaked oats in packets £22, and rolled oats in 5lb. bags 11s 6d per dozen. Silver Star starch had a seasonable inquiry at £42 10s for 1lb. and £41 10s for 5lb. in ton lots. The following sales of Sydney Meat Preserving Company's meats were reported for the past fortnight:—364 cases 1lb. assorted meats and 2lb. dripping, S.M.P. brand; 65 cases 1's and 2's corned beef, War Medal brand, for the West and other States; 342 cases 1lb. and 2lb. meats, S.M.P. brand, for the Islands; and 50 cases meats, sausages, sheeps' tongues, and soups locally, all at list prices.

Dried Fruits.—Currants were cabled 1s 3d to 1s 6d per cwt. higher at the producing centre. 100 cases sold to arrive at 4d. Holders ask 4¼d to 4½d spot. 200 boxes of Mildura seedless Lexias moved off at 6¼d. Cables state that the new sultana crop is expected to be a very large one, and that the market will probably open at low prices. Writing on the position of the sultana market in London on May 2 the "Produce Market Review" states:—"The heavy increase in the demand for sultanas has caused a rise in price of 1s to 2s per cwt. on all qualities except the lowest and the highest, both of which are so far without change. Weak holders have cleared out, and the remainder of the stock is in the hands of merchants, who, for the present at least, have confidence in the market, even taking the probabilities of the growing crop into consideration." One ton of Sicily almonds sold at 1s. This market has advanced 7s per cwt., according to cables.

Eastern Produce.—No great activity was displayed, though prices generally ruled firm. Japan rice remained at £22 10s, with ample stocks and a firm market in Japan. White rice had a good export demand at £9 10s for sacks and £10 for half-cwt. bags. Whole black pepper sold at 10½d and white at 13½d to 14d. Tapiocas were quoted as follows:—Seed £15 to £15 10s, medium pearl £16 to £16 10s, and flaked £17 to £17 10s per ton. There was a little more business in coffees, the demand turning chiefly on the lower grades. Ceylon plantation was quoted at 13½d, and American at 8d to 11d. Spices were quiet, nutmegs at 1s 9d; mace, from 2s 6d; cloves, 8½d; pimento, 6¼d to 7d; caraways, 7½d to 8d. Canary seed went at £22 and upwards, prices being quoted lower from Smyrna. Hemp seed went at £22 for small lots; rape, £15 10s; and linseed, £16 10s.

Liquors.—A small demand only was experienced. Hennessy's brandy sold at tariff rates, viz., 31s to 35s for one-star and 45s to 46s for three-star. Key gin ruled quiet at 12s to 12s 3d for 15-bottle, 12s 3d to 12s 6d for 16-bottle, 13s for 18-bottle, and 13s 6d for 20-bottle. Lowndes's rum was firmly held at 2s 7d for parcels, up to 2s 9d for single quarters. Fifty cases of Red Heart sold at market rates. Usher's whisky was rather quiet. Thorne's O.H.M. was in steady demand.

Bookings of M'Ewan's bulk ale ex Forfarshire and Firth of Stronsa, now in port, have been freely made. These vessels have 2750 packages on board. Dry Monopole champagne was in request.

Brewers' Goods.—These goods were particularly quiet as is not unusual at this time of the year. Small orders for English malt were completed at 8s 6d to 9s duty paid. Some business was also done in Victorian malt at up to 7s per bushel. Tasmanian hops were quoted at 1s 6d; New Zealand, 1s 10d to 1s 11d; Kents, 2s 3d to 2s 6d; Bohemians, 2s 3d to 2s 6d; Californians, 1s 9d to 1s 10d. Transactions have been on a small scale. Isinglass remained quiet at the following quotations:—Bombay pipe, 3s 9d to 4s; best Bombay leaf, 4s; second grade from 3s 6d; Penang leaf firm at 5s to 5s 3d; and Brazil lump, 4s to 4s 3d per lb.

Metals.—A great demand prevailed on the basis of recent prices.

To-night's cabled prices of pig iron and spelter compare with the prices current 12 months ago as follows:—

	A year ago. Per ton.	To-night. Per ton.
Glasgow warrants	54s 9d	53s 6d
Spelter	£19 12s 9d	£20 16s 3d

At the corresponding date in 1901 the prices were 53s 7½d and £17 7s 6d respectively.

Oils.—Kerosene met with a moderate demand. Borneo was quoted at 9d in cases, 8½d in tins, and 7½d in bulk. The Colonial Oil Company's tariff rates have not changed during the week, being as follows:—Snowflake kerosene, 10d; White Rose, 9½d; turpentine, 3s 4d; benzine, 1s 1d; naphtha, 1s 6d; and gasoline, 2s 3d per gallon.

Linseed oil was generally quiet, Blundell, Spence, and Co.'s being nominally quoted at 3s 6d and 3s 8d for raw and boiled. 200 drums of Falcon sold at 3s 5d and 3s 7d. Champion's white lead was quoted at £28 10s for hundredweights, and Falcon at £1 per ton less. China oil remained dull and normal at 2s 4d, and castor oil at 2s 6d per gallon.

Jute Goods.—Cornsacks were firm at 4s 10½d spot, and 5s 1½d forward. Branbags, nominally, 3s 7d; and woolpacks 1s 10½d and 1s 11d for 11½lb. and 12lb. respectively.

Chemicals.—Twenty-five tons of soda ash went at £7. Caustic soda sold in small lots on spot at £13 10s, while £13 was accepted for parcels to land. G grade rosin remained at £5 15s, on account of the difficulty in getting deliveries. Glucose, from New York: This market is likely to remain firm for some time. Cables advise a rise of 2½d per lb. in shellac since last mail left; business has been done on spot at 1s 6d. The rise is doubtless due to the Mombassa, bound for New York, foundering with 5000 cases on board.

The Customs revenue received at Sydney to-day amounted to £19,510. The principal items were:—Stimulants, £3354; narcotics, £1197; sugar, £358; agricultural products and groceries, £1976; apparel and textiles, £917; metals and machinery, £738; oils, paints, and varnishes, £219; earthenware cement, &c., £151; drugs and chemicals, £44; wood, wicker, and cane, £258; jewellery and fancy goods, £248; leather and rubber, £36; paper and stationery, £80; vehicles, £88; musical instruments, £134; miscellaneous, £22; harbour and light dues, £77; pilotage, £88; harbour dues, £22; excise on spirits, £241; excise on beer, £155; excise on sugar, £15.

PRODUCE MARKETS.—Friday.

TRADE IN SUSSEX-STREET.

The Sussex-street markets were quiet in tone to-day, and few movements of special feature were noted. Stocks from the other States were heavy, while local supplies showed a great improvement. Maize, lucerne, and eggs were cheaper. Chaff was plentiful, and had fair sale at late rates. At Redfern a consignment of prime wheaten maltes changed hands at £7 per ton. The supplies of lucerne were heavy. From the Hunter River districts 500 bales were received, while the railway consignment totalled 13 trucks. On the wharf the demand was steady, and Thursday's prices were well sustained, but under the hammer lower values ruled. Oaten hay was scarce, and well supported at quotations on a par with those ruling in the early part of the week. Tasmanian straw was poorly stocked while New Zealand samples were in fair supply. There was a good demand for this commodity, but values remained without change. Maize was easier, but other feed grain lines were dull of sale at unaltered figures. Bran and pollard were well supported at prices quoted. Onions continued dull of sale at late reduced levels, but a steady business was done in potatoes at the previous day's rates.

The dairy produce markets yielded a satisfactory volume of business. Stocks of all descriptions were heavy. A further drop of 1d was noted in eggs, which were in fair supply, but hard to move even at the reduced figures. Bacon and cheese were plentiful and sales were dull. In some quarters reduced prices were anticipated. Butter was in heavy supply and sold steadily at full ruling rates. Other lines remained without alteration.

Wholesale quotations were:—

CITY YARDS.

Pigs.—To-day's market was very lightly supplied, only 380 head being penned, drawn principally from the rivers, although a few odd lots had been brought forward by rail. There were none forward from local sources. The attendance of buyers was not large, and as a consequence the yardings proved more than sufficient for requirements. Values opened well up to those quoted earlier in the week, but competition became weaker, with the result that prices receded, especially for heavy backfatters, baconers, and heavy porkers. Light porkers, however, sold well, and very little alteration in that class of pig was reported. No stores were forward. Quotations:—Big heavy backfatters, £2 17s 6d to £3 5s; extra weighty to £4; best pens of baconers to £2 18s 6d; extra choice to £3 1s 6d; good and heavy, £2 8s to £2 13s; medium, from £2 1s; light from 38s 6d; best pens of porkers to 38s; good, 30s to 35s; medium from 26s; light from 20s.

PROPERTY MARKET.

The week has not produced much business in real estate. The results of the auctions were comparatively unimportant, but a few properties have been disposed of privately. NEWCASTLE TRADE REPORT.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

There has not been much activity in the dairy produce market during the week. Nearly all lines are in heavy supply, and the market is not too firm. The rough weather had the effect of delaying the northern steamers, and when they arrived they brought to market double quantities of butter from the various factories. This has weakened the butter market a little, although no quotable change has occurred. There are heavy stocks of second-grade butter on the market, and sales of these lines are exceedingly slow, although often quoted at very low figures. The cheese market is quiet at last week's quotations. The trade is practically being supplied by Victorian brands, the majority of which are giving satisfaction. The bacon market is still heavily stocked, but no change in prices has occurred during the week, although several brands are being quoted at lower rates. Hams are moving slowly at last week's figures. Fairly heavy stocks of honey are held, and the market is not active. Lard is plentiful, and the market is also weak at last week's figures. The arrivals of eggs have not been sufficient to cope with requirements, and high prices have been realised. Up to 2s 3d per dozen was obtained for small parcels of new laid. The market, however, shows signs of weakening, as many of the large buyers are going in for preserved eggs. By the steamer Australian, leaving to-day, a small shipment of butter is being made to Port Darwin. Current prices to-day were:—Butter, 1s 1d; pastry, 11½d; cheese, New South Wales 7½d to 8½d per lb.; bacon, long sides 8½d, flitches 8½d, middles 9½d, shoulders 7d per lb.; hams, 11d per lb.; honey, 15s to 17s 6d per 60lb. tin; lard, 7d to 7½d per lb.; fresh eggs 2s per dozen, China 1s 6d.

In farm produce prices were:—Geelong oaten chaff, £8; lucerne chaff, £5 10s; chickwheat, 3s 4d; maize, 4s 3d to 4s 6d; potatoes, £3 5s; onions, £4 10s; oats, 3s to 3s 6d; rosebone hay, £7 15s to £8; flour, £12 10s.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

There was a further advance in the majority of Charters Towers gold companies on the Mining market yesterday with a good range of business. Queen Central, Queen Central Block, Ruby, Queen Cross Reef, and Vesuvius, all had exchanges at advanced rates. In the Gympie section No. 2 South Great Eastern and No. 1 North Columbia were a fraction firmer, while South Glanmire and Monkland weakened slightly. Tin and copper ventures were again dull. Cope's Creek Dredging, however, sold up to 10s 8d, with closing quotations showing buyers 10s 6d and sellers 10s 9d. Local gold and dredging ventures had very little inquiry. Associated Gold Dredging firmed to 3s 3d, and Turon River to 2s. Western Australian stocks were in better request, although Great Boulder Proprietary at 25s 4d was the only business. In Barrier silver shares Broken Hill North changed hands at 7s 6d and Block 10 at 29s 3d, while the division generally was weaker.

Owing to replacing the lower tumbler in the New Araluen Junction Company's dredge, work was stopped on the 5th instant, and recommenced on Thursday last. Owing to the stop last week no wash-up was made, but next Monday's yield will represent the gold won for the broken fortnight. The dredge is now operating on average ground.

Our Gympie correspondent telegraphed last night that the manager of the No. 7 Lady Mary Company reports breaking down the reef in south drive and getting two dynamite boxes of specimen stone—good gold still showing; also breaking down in the north end and getting one dynamite box of specimens—gold still showing. Reef averages six inches.

THE ALLUVIAL RUSH NEAR TUENA.

AN OFFICIAL REPORT.

The warden at Tuena, Mr. T. A. Smith, has forwarded a telegram to the Minister for Mines respecting a new alluvial gold rush near Tuena, some particulars of which were given in our columns yesterday. The telegram is dated from that place on Thursday, and is as follows:—"A very promising alluvial rush at Long Hollow, between Tuena and Junction Point. About 100 men on the ground to-day (Thursday, June 11). Many claims pegged out. Some nice pieces of gold found, one piece by Hearne weighing 8oz., another by Hall 6oz., and other coarse gold. Ground wet. Do not wish to encourage a rush. Visiting ground to-morrow. Will keep you posted as to results."

The following are the assays made in Adelaide:—Olga claim: Gold, 12dwt per ton. This is considered by the directors very good, as this mine is practically a quarry. Rattler claim: Gold, 3oz. 2dwt. per ton; silver, 32oz. 14dwt. per ton; lead, 45·5 per cent.; copper, 2·9 per cent.

BARRIER MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

The British plant did fair service last week, treating 2806 tons crude sulphides, producing 375 tons first and 54 tons second products, the whole being good metal contents. Despatches totalled 488 tons concentrates, including 88 tons second product to Port Pirie. Productive stopes are showing strong faces of mill sulphides wherever operated on, assays of ore broken for the week averaging 16 per cent. lead, 10oz. silver, and 17 per cent. zinc.

DEVELOPMENTS AT LONG FLAT.

NEW REEF DISCOVERED.

GUNDAGAI, Friday.

On Robinson and Rice's mine Long Flat, and adjoining Kenny, Frewin, and party's boundary, a new parallel reef has been discovered which is exceptionally rich, and prospects about 1oz. to the dish. Free gold has been obtained from rubble. Authorities to enter have been lodged with the local warden this week by George Peel (Hamabandon), J. P. Neilson (Jackalass), W. Bowditch and J. F. Egan (North Gundagai), and James M'Evoy (Billabong). All the applications are from new discoverers. Authorities to enter were granted to E. Frewin, W. Smith, and George Sheather.

This is a record year in connection with private property applications which have been dealt with by the local warden's court.

INDUSTRY ON THE MOUNTAINS.

LITHGOW, Friday.

The coal trade remains in about the same condition as last week. At the ironworks there is sufficient work in hand to keep the sheet mills and fitting shop going for a while. In the bar mills, however, orders are pretty slack. The big mill started on Tuesday, and the little mill on Wednesday. The manager says they have got a little work in, but does not anticipate any great improvement just at present as the Government departments are apparently keeping down expenses until the end of the financial year.

His Highness the Sultan of Johor arrived in Sydney yesterday with his Sultana and aide-de-camp, Captain Daud. His Highness does not intend staying more than a week in Sydney, and it is his present intention to leave for Singapore about the 25th instant. During his stay in Australia the Sultan has purchased several racehorses in training and five yearlings, which he leaves behind in charge of the well-known Sydney trainer Harry Roberts, who has taken up his quarters at Mordialloc, near Melbourne. The Sultan's recent purchases will be raced and trained by Roberts; three of the yearlings purchased have been nominated in the two and three-year-old Australian classic races. During his stay in Sydney it is the intention of the Eastern potentate to visit all the places of sporting interest within easy reach of the city, and he regrets being tied to time as he would like to see some of the big breeding studs, in which he takes more than ordinary interest, as he does in everything appertaining to the thoroughbred, and doubtless our system of rearing racehorses would interest him as much as our manner of racing them. Mr. James Denmeade, secretary of the Rosehill Racing Club, on Thursday afternoon specially invited the Sultan, Sultana, and party to attend Rosehill races to-day.

The scratchings recorded yesterday in connection with the races at Rosehill this afternoon were Exchange (Apprentices' Handicap) and Weetah (Clyde Stakes).

A special meeting of the A.J.C. committee has been called for Tuesday next at 3 p.m. to deal with the appeals lodged by Mark Thompson, trainer, and the jockey P. Fallon, against their disqualification.

Of the 169 horses entered for the Melbourne Cup no fewer than 16 were sired by Pilgrim's Progress, who is now in New Zealand. Some good ones are included in the number, seeing that Abundance, Sojourner, Vanity Fair, Lieutenant Bill, Felicitous, Bright Beauty, Progredior, and Papal Pilgrim all claim the son of Isonomy as sire. Bill of Portland, now in England, is represented on the list by 13, Grafton by 11, and Gozo and Wallace nine each. There is a solitary representative of Carbine in the race, this being Mr. F. Foy's filly Playaway, who was foaled in England, her dam, Concertina, being by St. Simon from Comic Song, by Petrarch from Frivolity, by Macaroni.

On the Maribyrnong course it is customary for some of the stewards to witness the racing from the home turn, and the others to take positions near the judge's box. On Wednesday both sections had a splendid view of what happened in the hurdle race, and when a protest was lodged against the winner, Romany Lad, on behalf of G.P.O., on the ground of interference entering the straight, the stewards, without very much delay, awarded the race to G.P.O.

Denbies is stated to have changed hands at Cootamundra, and the black gelding will in future carry the colours of The Snail's owner.

Arcadia, who won the Caulfield Grand National Steeplechase, 1901, has completely lost form, and it is not intended to again attempt to train him. He will, it is said, probably be relegated to harness shortly by Mr. A. Miller.

Mr. James Donoghue, a well-known racecourse identity, died recently at Cootamundra. Donoghue's first introduction to racing was as a rider, and both on the flat and over hurdles he won several races. He had for some years prior to his death, which was caused by Bright's disease, been engaged in pastoral and farming pursuits at Coolac, near Gundagai.

Easy Molly, who has been in training nearly three years, and has won over 20 races, was a few days ago offered at auction at Cootamundra, a reserve of £50 being placed on her, but the best bid was £35, at which figure she was withdrawn, and the mare is now to be given a well-deserved spell.

At the Brighton pony races yesterday J. Farrelly, the owner of Lady Primrose, was fined £2 for failing to scratch the mare, who had been entered for the Tramway Handicap.

The Hobartville station Summer (imp.) is included among the nominations for the A.J.C. Sires' Produce Stakes, 1905.

Through the agency of Mr. A. J. Morton the racehorse Milner, by Grafton from the Lochiel mare Loch Lava, and the filly Blon, by Rusley from Blodwin, have been purchased for a Western Australian sportsman.

The display of the Mostyn colt Brief at the recent meeting of the Toowoomba Turf Club so disappointed his trainer, Ramsay, that he has decided not to persevere with him any longer, and has returned the colt to his owner.

The following programme has been issued for a meeting to be held at Moorefield on Saturday, 27th instant:—Kogarah Stakes of 60 sovs., 1m.; Flying Handicap of 60 sovs., 6f.; Stewards' Mile of 60 sovs., 1m.; Two-Year-Old Handicap of 60 sovs., 5f.; Moorefield Handicap of 100 sovs., 1¼m.; and Welter Handicap of 60 sovs., 6f. Entries close with the secretary (Mr. John Jolly) at 4 p.m. on Monday next.

A pleasant outing is promised those who attend the New South Wales Trotting Club's meeting at Kensington on Monday. The first race is timed for 2.20 p.m. Direct trams will leave Bent-street at 1.22, 1.30, and 2.10 p.m., and the Railway Institute (corner of Castlereagh and Devonshire streets) at 1.35 p.m.

ROSEHILL RACING CLUB.

JUNE MEETING.

The flags will be flying at Rosehill this afternoon, when the June meeting should afford a pleasant outing for metropolitan sporting folk, and the bill of fare provided for the occasion holds forth promise of interesting racing. The track is reported to be in splendid order, and visitors will be accommodated with special trains, starting from Redfern at 11.40 a.m. (horses and attendants), 12.20 (first and second class), 12.50 (first class), 12.55 and 1 p.m. (first class), 1.8 and 1.23 (first and second class)—all of which stop at Strathfield to pick up passengers—and 1.41 p.m., stopping at Petersham, Lewisham, Ashfield, and Strathfield. An interesting race is promised for the Clyde Stakes, and, at the weights, Isa, Dan O'Connell, La Blaize, Hello, Jumbo B., and Whiting read as well as anything, and the numbers may go up for Isa, Jumbo B., and La Blaize. The Nursery Handicap should bring about a good contest, in which the most prominent parts may be played by Graft, Lady Lochiel, Master Correze, Ravenshoe, and La Valetta, and the judge may declare for La Valetta, Master Correze, and Graft. A large field may be expected at the post for the Flying Welter, in which Tam o' Shanter, St. Modan, Rejoice, Velocity, Dan O'Connell, and Kensington should have most to say in the settlement of affairs, and situations may go to Rejoice, St. Modan, and Tam o' Shanter. Fireclay, Fanfare, Vocalist, Mechlin, and Niebel should fight out the battle for the Rosehill Handicap, and the honours may be divided among Mechlin, Niebel, and Fireclay, while Bombshell, Turquoise, Euston, and Ariana seem to have the settlement of the Parramatta Mile among them, and Bombshell, Euston, and Ariana may get home in the order written. VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. J. B. Harrington's complaint against the handicapping of his horse Seaman by Mr. W. A. Menzies, for the Hurdle Race run at Flemington last Monday, was to-day before the V.R.C. committee. After considering the complaint the committee came to the conclusion that there was no reason to refer it to the handicapper.

Seaport, owing to a clerical error, was entered for the Melbourne Cup as Portsea. The V.R.C. committee to-day gave permission to the owner, on payment of the usual fee, to amend the entry.

The Sydney jockey C. T. Godby is now in Melbourne.

The weights for the V.R.C. Grand National Hurdle Race and Steeplechase are due on Monday next, and for the Caulfield Cup and Melbourne Cup a fortnight later.

The term of W. Burn's suspension having expired, the V.R.C. committee has re-instated him on the list of licensed jockeys.

The up-country horses, Divisor, Miss Mikado, and Honeylone are now being trained at Flemington.

CYCLING.

At the meeting of the council of the League of Wheelmen on Thursday evening Mr. A. E. Austin, hon. treasurer, resigned his position owing to the pressure of business. Mr. W. F. Grantham was elected to the vacancy. A transfer of positions was made between Messrs. B. Paynter and H. M'Intosh. The latter is now the general secretary and the former the assistant secretary. The Rosehill Club has re-registered 67 members. The Broken Hill branch has decided, in connection with the present trouble in the league, to allow its delegate (Mr. Stuart Bray) a free hand.

Considerable regret was yesterday expressed in cycling and motoring circles over the destruction by fire of the Daimler works, Canstatt, information of which was published in yesterday's cable messages. The destruction of the Mercedes racing machines will take a good deal of interest from the Gordon-Bennett Cup race, as there is now very little time left in which to build machines and test them; the race will take place in Ireland early in July. Four countries had entered—England, America, France, and Germany—each to be represented by three machines which must be made in the country they represent, English cars to be driven by Englishmen, American by Americans, and so on. This race is regarded by each country as of national importance. English files to hand contain the information that there was a difficulty between the Automobile Club of Germany and M. Jellineck, the representative of the Daimler Company, upon the question of drivers. The club wanted the cars driven by amateurs, but M. Jellineck was not prepared to entrust his cars to anyone in whom he had not absolute confidence, and he was supported in the position he took up by almost the entire body of automobilists in Germany, who saw that where so much was at stake for the industrial interests of the country it was absurd for the club to lay down conditions that might prevent the Mercedes motors from winning the cup. The matter had not been settled when latest files to hand closed.

The "Autocar" has made special arrangements for the reporting of the Gordon-Bennett race from a captive balloon. The race will take place in Ireland over a course the shape of the figure 8, and the balloon will be almost in the centre. The drivers of the British Gordon-Bennett cars are Messrs. C. Jarrott, S. F. Edge (the holder of the cup), and J. W. Stocks.

The sixth annual ball of the Waratah Rovers' Club was held in the Petersham Town Hall on Wednesday evening. There was a good attendance of members and friends, and the evening passed off very pleasantly. A programme of 20 dances had been drawn up, and, aided by the excellent music of Santy's Band, the guests entered thoroughly into the spirit of the evening's entertainment. Supper was served at 9.30 p.m., and after this intermission dancing was kept in full swing till 1 a.m. Messrs. F. Walker, T. F. Wiesener, H. Armstrong, and C. Wellesley acted as M.s.C., and their efforts in furthering the comfort of visitors were ably seconded by a strong committee.

The Waratah Club's run to-day is a combined one to Yarra Bay, adjourning to the kiosk at the park for tea.

LACROSSE.

The interstate practice match will be played at Redfern to-day. The first team will be picked from the following:—Dickinson, Bellet, Robbards, Dawson, Ward, Richardson, Reynolds, Boswell, Higgs, Beresford, Gibbs, McLennan, Truman and Loutit. This team will wear all white, the second will wear club colours.

BOWLS.

WEEKLY NOTES.

The following are the inter-club matches set down to be played this afternoon on the city and suburban greens:—

City, at Rockdale, four rinks.
Strathfield, at Ellesmere, four rinks.
Gladstone Park, at Redfern, four rinks.
Randwick, at Annandale, four rinks.
Mosman, at Chatswood, three rinks.
Victoria Park, at Petersham, four rinks.
St. Leonards, at Waverley, four rinks.

Matters in bowling circles have been rather quiet during the past week. Most of the club competitions are drawing to a conclusion, and arrangements are being made by several of the clubs for the holding of their annual meeting. Already one or two of these gatherings have taken place, with satisfactory results.

Petersham Club is likely to make rapid progress in the near future. As the premier club of the season it promises to be such not in name only, that is, if strength of membership is any criterion to go by. The number on the roll a few weeks ago stood at 91, but 16 new members have since been added, and five more will be balloted for this afternoon. Other names have also been handed in for election at the annual meeting, which is shortly to be held. A pleasing feature about this large increase of membership is that most of the new comers are those entering into the game for the first time, and not men leaving other clubs for the purpose of being connected with the premier club of the season.

Some time ago the members of the Redfern Club decided to reduce the annual club subscription from £2 2s to £1 1s. This was done with a view of adding largely to the membership, it being thought that a reduction of the annual fee would induce many new players to enrol themselves. But the movement has not had the desired effect, and now it is proposed to increase the subscription from £1 1s to £1 10s. A meeting of the members has been called to give effect to this alteration of the rules, and at the close of this meeting a smoke concert will take place, to which a number of visiting bowlers will receive invitations.

An interesting match was played on the city green on Thursday afternoon between a team comprising players selected from other clubs and captained by Mr. Rennie, of Victoria, and a team of local players, of which Mr. Harris was skipper. The home men were completely outclassed. Mr. Rennie's rink comprised the following players, Messrs. Evans (Waverley), Hoskins (Chatswood), Francis (Strathfield), and Rennie (Victoria). Mr. Harris had as companions the following members of the City Club:—Messrs. Howie, Hardy, and Moran. The game resulted in a win for Mr. Rennie's rink by 35 points to 10.

The evening games at the Chatswood club are becoming very popular among the members of that body. On Tuesday and Saturday evenings there are large attendances at the club's premises, when table bowls, table tennis, and other games are played with much spirit. Competitions will follow.

The final of the vice-president's trophy competition in connection with the Petersham club will be played this afternoon, when the rinks captained by Messrs. Rowley and O'Neill will meet. The president's trophy contest in connection with the same club is being proceeded with, and already the first round has been almost got through.

The members of the Leichhardt St. Elmo Cricket Club held their fourth annual gipsy tea at Rodd Island last Saturday. About 100 of the club's friends and supporters were present. A well-arranged programme was carried out.

SAILING.

PRINCE ALFRED YACHT CLUB.

The monthly meeting of the Prince Alfred Yacht Club was held last Thursday evening at the club rooms, Moore-street. Mr. C. T. Brockhoff, rear-commodore, presided. It was announced that a smoke concert would be held on Friday evening, the 26th instant to initiate the winter tournaments. A drag picnic has also been arranged for the 4th proximo. Vice-commodore Marks wrote thanking the members for their expressions of sympathy during his recent illness.

PORT JACKSON MODEL YACHT CLUB.

A general meeting of the Port Jackson Model Yacht Club was held at the club room, Waterview Hotel, Rowntree-street, Balmain, on Wednesday night. Mr. E. Rodrick presided over a large attendance. The resignation of Mr. W. Mitchell, as vice-commodore of the club, was accepted with regret, and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the retiring officer for the services he had rendered to the club in the past. Mr. E. Rodrick was elected to fill the vacancy. It was decided that the whole of the races arranged on the season's programme should be sailed over the straight courses, viz., Schnapper Island for a working wind, and the Newcastle Company's buoy for a leading wind. The prizes won in the club's last race were handed over to the successful competitors, viz., Esmeralda (C. Hayes), first; and Boronia (T. Rodrick), second.

Arrangements were made for the general handicap, to be sailed this afternoon, for which the entries and handicaps are as follows:—Osprey (G. Bowen) and Esmeralda (C. Hayes), scratch work or lead; Boronia (T. Rodrick), 1m. work, scratch lead; Irex (H. Rodrick) and Mona (W. Mitchell), 1½m. work, 30s. lead; Rene (H. D. Rodrick), 7m. work, 5m. lead.

PIGEON SHOOTING.

NEW SOUTH WALES GUN CLUB.

A double-rise trophy at five pairs of birds, presented by the club, was the attraction at the above club's ground yesterday. Eighteen competed, shooters going in three yards on their handicap marks up to 21 yards. C. A. Haley (25) followed up his success of last week by winning the trophy with the score of 9 out of 10, H. Garratt (30) and *Machette (24) scored 8 out of 10, G. Modini (26½) *Wonga (24) A. Hill (22) 7.

A sweep followed and the referee ordered the following shooters—G. L. M'Intosh (29), F. B. Blomfield (27), J. W. Taylor (26), E. Pickering (25), *Wonga (24), and R. F. Ryrie (23)—to divide at end of tenth round.

*Assumed.

HAMPDEN SHOOTING GROUNDS.

There was a good attendance at Hampden last Wednesday, the first day of the two days' series of sweepstakes shooting to be continued this afternoon. The weather was all in favour of the gun. Seven sweeps were got through with the following results:—

VANDALISM IN CEMETERIES.

COOMA, Friday.

Several complaints have been made lately of wilful destruction of property at Mittigang Cemetery, Cooma. The fences have been broken and removed to allow cattle to graze over the graves; lead has been picked out of tombstones which also in other ways have been defaced, and vases, flowers, and ribbons have been stolen so frequently that relatives can only safely decorate graves with broken pieces of marble. The Rev. W. F. Wentworth Sheilds, who is endeavouring to put a stop to such vandalism, is seeking the combined action of all the churches to raise the necessary funds to procure a caretaker and build a tenement for him. In the old cemetery the graves are also mutilated, and the interior of the old Church of England has been disgracefully treated.

THE TEMPLE OF CHANCE.

CONSULTING THE MOST MYSTIC GOD.

I sacrificed—for it is a sacrifice to forsake the incomparable play of the stars and moon on the divine Mediterranean. I sacrificed a few evenings of my stay in the land of the sun to the consulting of this most mystic god of this world of ours in the busiest the most gorgeous, and the most individual of the temples (writes Maurice Maeterlinck in the "Daily Mail").

This temple stands down there, at Monte Carlo, on a rock bathed in the dazzling light of the sea and sky. Enchanted gardens, where blossom in January all the flowers of spring, summer, and autumn, sweet-scented thickets that borrow nothing from the hostile seasons but their perfume and their smiles, lie before its porch. The orange, most lovable of all trees, the palm, the lemon tree, the mimosa wreathe it with gaiety. The crowds approach it by royal stairways.

This, I think, is the spot in which more nervous force and more human passions are accumulated and absolutely squandered than in any other in the world. This is the ill-omened spot where the peerless and, perhaps, divine substance of substances, which in every other place works pregnant miracles, prodigies of strength, of beauty, and of love, this is the fatal spot where the flower of the soul, the most precious fluid on the planet, leaks away into nothingness. . . . No more criminal waste can be conceived. This unprofitable force, which knows neither whither to go nor what work to do, which finds no door nor window, no direct object nor manner of transmission, hovers over the table like a mortal shadow, falls back upon itself and creates a particular atmosphere, a sort of sweating silence which somehow suggests the fever of true silence.

In this unwholesome stillness the voice of Fate's little shopman snuffles out the sacred formula:—"Faites vos jeux, messieurs, faites vos jeux!"

That is to say, make to the hidden god the sacrifice that he demands before he shows himself. Then, somewhere from the crowd, a hand bright with certainty places imperiously the fruit of a year's work on numbers that cannot fail. Other adorers, more cunning, more circumspect, less confident, compound with luck, distribute their chances, compute illusive probabilities, and, having studied the mood and peculiarities of the genius of the table, lay complex and knowing traps for it. Others, again, hand over a considerable portion of their happiness or their life at random, to the caprice of numbers.

But now the second formula resounds:—"Rien ne va plus!"

That is to say, the god is about to speak! At this moment an eye that could pierce the easy veil of appearances would distinctly see scattered on the plain green cloth (if not actually, then at least potentially, for a single stake is rare, and he who plays of his superfluity to-day will risk his all to-morrow) a cornfield ripening in the sun a thousand miles away, or again, in other squares, a meadow, a wood, a mountain country house, a shop in some little market town; a staff of bookkeepers and accountants bending over ledgers in their gloomy offices, peasants labouring in the rain, hundreds of work-girls slaving from morn to night in deadly factories, miners in the mines, sailors on their ships; the jewels of debauchery, love, or glory; a prison, a dock-yard; joy, misery, injustice, cruelty, avarice; crimes, privations, fears.

All this lies there, very peacefully, in these little heaps of smiling gold, in those flimsy scraps of paper which ordain disasters that even a lifetime would be powerless ever to efface. The slightest timid and hesitating movements of these yellow counters and blue notes will rebound and swell out in the distance, in the real world, in the streets, in the plains, in the trees, in men's blood, and in their hearts. They will demolish the house that saw the parents die, carry off the old man's chair, give a new squire to the astonished village, close a workshop, take away the bread from the children of a hamlet, divert the course of a river, stay or break a life, and through an infinity of time and space burst the links of an uninterrupted chain of cause and effect.

But none of these resounding truths utters an indiscreet whisper here. There are here more sleeping Furies than on the purple steps of the palace of the Atridæ; but their cries of waking and of pain lie hidden at the bottom of men's hearts. Nothing betrays, nothing foretells, that there are definite ills hovering over those present and choosing their victims. Only the eyes stare a little while hands shiftily finger a pencil, a bit of paper. Not an unaccustomed word or gesture. Clammy expectation sits motionless. For this is the place of voiceless pantomime, of stifled fighting, of unblinking despair, of tragedy masked in silence, of dumb destiny sinking in an atmosphere of lies that swallows up every sound.

Meanwhile the little ball spins on the cylinder, and I reflect upon all that is destroyed by the formidable power conferred on it through a monstrous compact. Each time that it thus starts in search of the mysterious answer it annihilates all around it the last essential remnant of our social morality; I mean the value of money. To abolish the value of money and substitute for it a higher ideal would be an admirable achievement, but to abolish it and leave in its place simply nothing is, I conceive, one of the gravest crimes that can be committed against our scheme of evolution. If we look at it from a certain point of view, and purify it of its incidental vices, money is essentially a very worthy symbol; it represents human effort and labour; it is, for the most part, the fruit of laudable sacrifice and noble toil. Whereas here, this symbol, one of the last that was left to us, is daily subjected to public mockery. Suddenly, at the caprice of a little thing as insignificant as a child's toy, 10 years of striving, of conscientious thought, of tasks patiently endured, lose all importance.

If this hideous phenomenon were not isolated on this one rock, no social organisation but would have fallen victim to the injury spreading from it. Even now, in its leprous isolation, this devastating influence makes itself felt at a distance which never could have been estimated. We feel that this influence, so inevitable, so malevolent, and so profound, is such that, when we leave this cursed palace where gold clinks incessantly against the human conscience, we wonder how it is that the everyday life goes on, that patient gardeners consent to keep up the flower-beds in front of the fatal building, that wretched guardians can be found to watch over its precincts for a contemptible wage, and that a poor little old woman, at the bottom of its marble stairs, amid the coming and going of lucky or ruined gamblers, for years persists in earning a laborious livelihood by selling pennyworths of oranges, almonds, nuts, and matches to the passers-by.

In truth, Chance, in the sense in which the gamblers understand it, is a god without existence. They worship only a lie, which each of them pictures to himself in a different shape. Each of them ascribes to it laws, habits, preferences which are utterly contradictory as a whole, and purely imaginary. According to some it favours certain numbers. According to others it obeys certain rhythms that are easily grasped. According to others again, it contains within itself a sort of justice which ends by giving an equal value to each group of chances. According to others, lastly, it cannot possibly favour indefinitely any particular series of simple chances for the benefit of the bank.

We should never come to an end if we tried to review the whole illusory corpus juris of roulette. It is true that, in practice, the indefinite repetition of the same limited accidents necessarily forms groups of coincidences in which the gambler's deluded eye seems to discern some phantom laws. But it is no less true that, upon trial, at the moment when you rely upon the assistance of the surest phantom, it vanishes abruptly and leaves you face to face with the unknown which it was masking.

For the rest, most gamblers bring to the green cloth many other illusions, conscious or instinctive, and infinitely less justifiable. Almost all persuade themselves that chance reserves for them special and premeditated favours or misfortunes. Almost all imagine some undefined but plausible connection to exist between the little ivory sphere and their presence, their passions, their desires, their vices, their virtues, their merits, their intellectual or moral power, their beauty, their genius, the enigma of their being, their future, their happiness, and their life.

Is it necessary to say that there is no such connection; that there could be none. That little sphere whose judgment they implore, upon which they hope to exercise an occult influence—that incorruptible little ball has something else to do than to occupy itself with their joys and sorrows.

It has but 30 or 40 seconds of movement and of life, and during those 30 or 40 seconds it has to obey more eternal rules, to resolve more infinite problems, to accomplish more essential duties than would ever find place in man's consciousness or comprehension. It has, among other enormous and difficult things, to reconcile in its brief course those two incomprehensible and immeasurable powers which are probably the inform soul of the Universe: centrifugal force and centripetal force. It has to reckon with all the laws of gravitation, friction, the resistance of the air, all the phenomena of matter. It has to pay attention to the smallest incidents of the earth or sky; for a gambler who leaves his seat and imperceptibly disturbs the floor of the room, or a star that rises in the firmament, compels it to modify and begin anew the whole of its mathematical operations. It has no time to play the part of a goddess either well or ill disposed towards mortals; it is forbidden to neglect a single one of the numberless formalities which infinity demands of all that moves within it.

And when at last it attains its goal, it has performed the same incalculable work as the moon or the other cold and indifferent planets which, outside, above, in the transparent azure, rise majestically over the sapphire and silver waters of the Mediterranean. This long work we call Chance, having no other name to give to that which we do not as yet understand.

A CORSICAN MONASTERY PILLAGED.

A Reuter's telegram from Bastia (Corsica) on April 26 says:—On Monday last the Dominican Monastery of Cordara was attacked by a mob of 400 persons, comprising men, women, and children, armed with axes and clubs. The rioters destroyed everything, down to the doors and windows, and the furniture, bedding, and personal belongings of the monks were all looted. The scenes of violence lasted 24 hours under the eyes of the eight helpless monks who occupied the building. It was not till the following day that the Sub-Prefect, the Public Prosecutor, and the Commissary of Police, who had received intelligence of the outbreak, were able, with the aid of four detachments of gendarmerie, to restore order. An inquiry into the circumstances of the riot was at once opened. The majority of the population are indignant at the outrage. The monks, who left the monastery under the protection of the gendarmerie, sailed from Corsica on Wednesday.

AMUSEMENTS.

THEATRE ROYAL.

This evening Mr. J. C. Williamson's Musical Comedy Company will enter upon the last week of their season with a revival of "The Belle of New York." The characters of this mirthful piece, now all of them old friends, will be interpreted as follows:—Ichabod Bronson, Mr. Fred. H. Graham; Young Bronson, Mr. Arthur Crane; the Polite Lunatic, Mr. Maurice Dudley; "Doc" Snifkins, Mr. C. R. Bantock; Comedian Kenneth Mug, Mr. Arthur Lissant; Blinky Bill, Mr. Fred. Leslie; the Twin Counts, Messrs. Whitfield and Watt; Violet Gray, Miss Rose Musgrove; Fifi Fricot, Miss Lilian Digges; Cora Angelique, Miss Blanche Wallace; Mamie Clancy, Miss Olive Lenton; Kissy Fitzgarter, Miss Annie Cobb. There will be a matinee of "The Belle of New York" on Wednesday.

Next Saturday the "Sherlock Holmes" Company will open at the Theatre Royal with Gillette's famous drama, in which Mr. Cuyler Hastings will be seen once more as the imperturbable detective. It will be seen that Mr. J. C. Williamson has in this way made a change of plan. He has decided to stage a new play for each of the three weeks of the brief season, and "If I Were King" will now be the second of these pieces instead of the first. The plan for "Sherlock Holmes" will open at Paling's on Tuesday.

PALACE THEATRE.

Only six more evening performances, with a matinee on Wednesday, can be given of "Struck Oil" at the Palace Theatre, where Miss Maggie Moore's revival of the evergreen drama is drawing large audiences. Miss Maggie Moore's quaint and amusing portraiture of the Dutch-looking Lizzie Stofel, whose devotion to her father is so touchingly shown, forms the central attraction of the drama, in which all the favourite songs, from "For Her, Her, Her," to "Lizzie's Farewell," are nightly applauded. Next Saturday Miss Maggie Moore will produce "The Widow from Japan" for the first time.

LYCEUM THEATRE.

The last six nights of "Man's Enemy, or the Fatal Wedding," are announced at the Lyceum Theatre, where the new piece has tableaux both realistic and beautiful, in which elaborate mechanical effects are introduced. Amongst the former are the scenes at the London "doss" houses, and amongst the latter may be named the pretty wedding ceremony towards the end of the play. Mr. W. Anderson's production for next Saturday will be "Night Birds of London," a drama which ran for several weeks at the Lyceum during Mr. Anderson's last season of management.

TIVOLI THEATRE.—"RUDINOFF."

Important changes will be made this afternoon and evening at the Tivoli Theatre, where Mr. Harry Rickards will bring forward Rudinoff, as well as the Hallen-Fuller comedy combination. M. Rudinoff, in virtue of appearances before King Edward VII., is described as the "Royal Society Entertainer." Of Polish descent, he is an artist of cosmopolitan tastes, a fine linguist, and accomplished as singer, painter, mimic, and humorist. During his stay upon the stage Rudinoff, who studied painting at the Royal Academy of Munich and the Julien School at Paris, will rapidly make sketches with smoke (lamp-black), will whistle mellifluously, will imitate a love duet between a pair of nightingales, and will sing various baritone songs. The other new artists to appear, who are from America, will be Mr. Frederick Hallen, Mr. Eddie Simmons, and Miss Mollie Fuller, who will make their Australian debut in the sketch, "A Desperate Pair."

Mr. and Mrs. Rickards and family will sail by the Oceana on June 27 for Marseilles and London, and will not return to Sydney until the end of November. During this absence Mr. Rickards will search for novelties and new artists of every kind, first in Paris and then successively in London, the English provinces, New York, and Chicago. The actor-manager will then return to London for five or six weeks' holiday-making with his family, after which he will make further engagements in Paris, Vienna, and Berlin on his way back to Australia. Miss Fanny Powers is accompanying the Misses Rickards to Europe, and during the visit to London arrangements will be made for a few appearances by that youthful singer and comedienne on the London variety stage.

TOWN HALL ORGAN RECITALS.

This evening the city organist will give his usual recital of popular music at the Town Hall when his programme will include selections from "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Songs Without Words," Grieg's "Bridal March," and other pieces. Miss Leila Waddell, Miss Mabel Ward, Miss Edith Bunting, and Mrs. P. J. Cornwell will assist.

FINAL STROH VIOLIN CONCERT.

This evening at the Centenary Hall Mr. E. Stevenson will give his final demonstration concert with the Stroh violin. Mr. Stevenson will play Wieniawski's "Legende," Bach's "Air for G String," and, with Herr Otto Vogt, Scharwenka's "Melodie" composed expressly for violin and Mustel organ. Miss Maud Fitz Stubbs' piano numbers will include Edward German's "Torch Dance." Miss Marie Torrance will make her debut as a storyteller, and Miss Hilda Lane, Miss M'Kechnie, Messrs. J. Hinchy, F. Smith, and N. Gehde will also assist.

THE "ISRAEL IN EGYPT."

Next Thursday evening the Sydney Philharmonic Society will perform Handel's colossal oratorio, the "Israel in Egypt," with an augmented orchestra (led by Mr. Rivers Allpress) and chorus, the whole under the inspiring baton of Signor Hazon. The soloists will be Misses Nora Long, Lynn Mills, Blanch Thomas, and Mr. A. R. Richards. Amateurs will no doubt welcome the reappearance of Miss Thomas after her year of study in London and Berlin. The double-choruses of this oratorio furnish some stupendous ensembles, and the "Hail Stone," "He Spake the Word," "The Horse and His Rider," and other famous numbers, render the work especially attractive. The plan is now open at Paling's, where the advance booking is large.

THE ENGLISH CONCERT COMPANY.

The popularity of the English artists recently supporting Mr. Edward Lloyd was so marked that Mr. J. C. Williamson has united them with a fresh concert party for a rapid tour of Australia. As far as this State is concerned the tour will open at Albury on Thursday, and there will be a second concert at Wagga, an arrangement rendered convenient by the fact that the majority of the artists engaged pass those towns on their way from Melbourne to Sydney. The only concert announced for this city will take place at the Town Hall next Saturday. The following attractive combination has been formed:—Miss Marjorie Nairne (soprano), Miss Emily Foxcroft (contralto), Miss May Mukle ('cellist), Mr. W. A. Peterkin (basso), Mr. Arthur Mason (organist), and Herr Benno Scherek (musical director and pianist). The plan for this concert at popular prices will open at Paling's on Tuesday. On June 23 the English Concert Company will appear at Newcastle, en route to Brisbane.

MATINEE MUSICALE.

At the fourth of Mr. G. de Cairos Rego's student matinees this season, held at Paling's-buildings, the programme comprised Saint Saens' G minor Concerto (Miss Queenie Berry), Delibes-Lack "Coppelia" suite for two pianos (Misses Marion Carr and Hartigan), Chopin's G minor Ballade and G flat Study (Miss Lilian Burcher), Beethoven's Sonata No. 11, op. 32 (Miss Ida Porter), Chopin's F sharp Nocturne (Mr. Stanley Mortlock), Scarlatti's Caprice (Iris del Rego), and Wagner's "Marche de Guerre" (Misses Ford, Sim, Hartigan, Berry). Miss Alice Kennedy (soprano) assisted.

TRINITY COLLEGE, LONDON.

This morning the theory of music examination of Trinity College, London (Sydney centre), will be conducted at the Cleveland-street Superior Public School. The packets of examination papers, which arrived from London last week, will be unsealed at 9.50, by which time all candidates are requested to be in the places assigned them. At the close of the examinations the worked papers will be at once sealed up and posted to Trinity College, London.

MRS. LINDA PRINCE'S CONCERT.

There was a crowded house on Thursday at the concert arranged by Mrs. Linda Prince at the Record Reign Hall, Glebe Point, in aid of the W.C.T.U. The stage had been converted by willing hands into the presentment of a charming drawing-room, and the reception of the artists was so hearty that encores were the rule throughout the evening. Vocal numbers by Mrs. Linda Prince, Miss Mabel Ward, Miss Addie Marr, and Mr. S. C. Jeffcott, instrumental pieces by Mr. J. Hugh M'Menamin, and recitations by Mrs. C. Martel, were included in an enjoyable programme. The only absentee was Mrs. George Marshall, who was unfortunately indisposed.

CENTENARY HALL.

There was a crowded house at the Grand Family Night given in connection with the People's Popular Entertainments on Thursday last. A varied programme was contributed to by, amongst others, Mr. Mr. J. C. M'Clelland, lecturer and entertainer, whose ventriloquial numbers pleased the young people. He was supported by Mrs. A. J. Buchanan, Miss Elsie Peerless, and Mr. F. Bullock.

BANK DRAMATIC SOCIETY.

The New South Wales Bank Musical and Dramatic Society will perform the romantic drama "Bendigo" at the Queen's Hall to-night under Col. D'Orsay Ogden's direction. Messrs. J. Turner, H. Baxter, E. F. Brown, Misses Blanche M'Carron Maguire, Meta Hayter, Mrs. B. Page, and others will assist.

MRS. WALTER BAKER'S RECITAL.

Mrs. Walter E. Baker will give an elocutionary recital at the Centenary Hall on June 30 in association with Mr. Hugh Buckler, a drawing-room elocutionist from London. Scenes from the "Lady of Lyons" will be rendered by these artists. Mrs. Baker will also appear with Mr. Fred Penley (son of the comedian who owns Penley's Theatre, London) in the comedietta "Mrs. or Miss?"

GLEBE MUSICAL SOCIETY.

The Glebe Musical Society held their twenty-first grand concert in the local Town Hall on Wednesday evening last before a crowded audience. The first part of the programme consisted of Van Bree's cantata, "St. Cecilia's Day." Miss Annie Perry assisted (as principal). The orchestra and chorus, under the baton of Mr. Arthur Massey, was performed in first-class style, the chorus being evenly balanced. In the second part the orchestra played the overture from "Fra Diavolo." The chorus sang the "Miller's Wooing" and "Hail to the Bride." Miss Annie Perry was in fine voice, and rendered three selected songs before the audience was satisfied. Mrs. J. Roland Hogue sang "Doreen," and was encored. Mr. Sidney T. Price contributed a couple of humorous items.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE CONCERT.

A concert will be given under the direction of Mr. Lawrence Campbell, in aid of the St. John Ambulance Association, in the Town Hall, on Thursday, the 25th instant, when the following artists will appear:—Misses Ruby Bowring, Blanche Thomas, Lilian Frost, Messrs. W. H. Parkinson, W. Burns-Walker, Reginald Goood, Henri Staell, Laurance Phillip, Lawrence Campbell, and the Paldwick Quartet. The concert will be under the patronage of the Governor-General and in the presence of the State Governor, Sir Harry Rawson, who will present special awards received from H.R.H. the Prince of Wales and St. John's Chapter. The plan will open at Paling's on Wednesday next.

CHARITABLE ENTERTAINMENT.

An entertainment of some novelty will be given at the Criterion Theatre on the 26th instant by the pupils of the Deaf and Dumb Institution, Waratah. The programme will consist of an exhibition of educational training and of the silent singing of songs and drama. A strong committee has been formed, and a large audience is anticipated. The hon. secretaries are Messrs. H. G. Quinlan, C. G. Hepburn, and H. G. Bartlett. The plan is at Elvy's.

"THE MOTH AND THE CANDLE" AT MANLY.

A dramatisation from Ouida's "Moths" by Mr. Albert Gran was presented at the Victoria Hall, Manly, on Thursday, and was well received. The cast was as follows:—Prince Zouroff, Mr. A. Caldwell; Duke of Muil, Mr. C. Story; Sir Edward Brackett, Mr. W. Allen; Correze (a singer), Mr. Stuart Clyde; Lord Jura, Mr. A. G.; a serfe, Mr. N. Daly; Princess Nadine, Miss A. Perry; Duchess de Sonnaz, Miss Pauline Cooper; Vere Herbert (Princess Zouroff), Miss Gertrude Lyndon; Lady Dolly, Miss E. Ellison; Fuchsia Leach (an American), Miss Bodmenory; a servant, Miss Clarke. The play was appreciated by a large audience.

THE CYCLORAMA.

The interest shown on the part of the public in the realistic delineation of the battle of Gettysburg, as now on view at the Cyclorama, George-street, continues unabated. Country visitors are conspicuous amongst the spectators, the popularity of this illustration of war, with its accompaniment of booming guns and strains of martial music, having apparently increased.

It is announced that on Friday, the 26th instant, Mr. Bearpark Dimelow will give an invitation entertainment at the Protestant Hall.

PELAW MAIN TRAMWAY.

PUBLIC WORKS COMMITTEE INQUIRY.

UNFAVOURABLE REPORT BY THE RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS.

The proposal to construct a line of tramway from East to West Maitland, and on to the Stanford-Merthyr and Pelaw Main collieries, was before the Public Works Committee yesterday afternoon.

Mr. H. Deane, Engineer-in-Chief, Railway Construction Branch, Department of Public Works, gave evidence. He said the proposal first came before the department in May 1, 1902, when instructions were given by the Minister for a report to be obtained on the proposal. Mr. Shaw visited the district, and after going into the question of route stated in his report of July 7, 1902, that he was shown over two of the coal mines, viz., Stanford-Merthyr and Pelaw Main and was much impressed with the wonderful seams of coal, 19ft. thick, perfectly uniform in quality, and without a single band of foreign matter. All the mines along the route, he said, were working, each turning out some 300 to 400 tons of coal per day, although some of them have not been in existence as mines more than 12 months. This officer also said that population was growing fast at each place, and when the mines had all machinery in order, which he was informed would be within six months, they would be able to employ four or five times the number of hands, as it was contemplated each mine could turn out 3000 tons per day.

THE ENGINEER'S DESCRIPTION.

On November 6, 1902, the Minister gave instructions for the matter to be prepared for submission to Parliament, and on the 28th idem the Engineer-in-Chief for Railway Construction supplied the following estimate and description:—"Length, 14 miles 60 chains: estimated cost, £58,088, or £3950 per mile, exclusive of land resumption and rolling stock. The tramway commences at East Maitland Railway station, turning to the right into Lawes-street, thence along that street for about 20 chains, thence via Day-street, Melbourne-street, Newcastle-street, and High-street, to West Maitland. Turning off after crossing the Long Bridge to the left along Regent-street, to the railway level crossing, and then along Dagworth-road to the boundary of Bloomfield's 2000 acre block, across that block along a proposed surveyed road until it strikes the main road again opposite East Greta Hotel; from this point the road could be followed if grades are cut down for 50 or 60 chains, or, failing this, the route should continue across the 2000 acre block until the road is again found and followed until the Heddon Greta's mining lease is entered. After leaving this township the road is followed to Pelaw Main Colliery, a distance of about 13 miles 12 chains single, track from East Maitland. The ruling grade will be about 1 in 30 chains."

RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.

The Railway Commissioners estimated the annual cost as follows:—Interest on capital at 3½ per cent., £2033, maintenance of the line and for traffic and locomotive expenses, £6627; total, £8650. Estimated revenue, £6500; leaving an annual loss of £2160. The Commissioners went on to say:—"Having made due inquiry into this proposal we have arrived at the conclusion that there is no present justification for the construction of the line. While there would be a fair traffic between East and West Maitland that to the mines would not at the present time exceed £2000 per annum. If the line between East and West Maitland were separately dealt with it could be more favourably reported upon, as there is evidence that it would about pay working expenses and interest on capital. Although this is considered to be the position in the matter, it does not appear to us that there is any pressing necessity for the construction of the line, and, in view of the desirability of curtailing expenditure which is avoidable, we could not think of suggesting that it should be undertaken."

Mr. Deane, in reply to questions, said that the enlarged surveyor's map was not ready. The route of line formed a deep loop, presumably because it followed the grouping of population.

MR. KNEESHAW'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. J. Kneeshaw, traffic superintendent, Tramway Department, said that after visiting the locality he had come to the conclusion that the traffic on the town portion of the proposed line (from East to West Maitland) would be about £1500 per annum. The receipts for the length from Long Bridge (West Maitland) to Pelaw-Main, on four 2d sections—or a through journey for 6d—would be about £2000 per annum. If the mines were opened out to the extent that was anticipated the receipts might be increased 50 or even 100 per cent. The construction of the line from East to West Maitland might be considered, but the Pelaw-Main extension was premature. A great deal of the roadway over which the line was proposed to be constructed was only 33ft. wide, and costly resumptions would have to be made. There would be a fair pick-up traffic between East and West Maitland. Eight omnibuses were running on that route, the fare being 6d. The fare on the tramway would be 3d; and he thought it would pay expenses.

The inquiry was adjourned until Monday afternoon.

SHIPWRECK RELIEF SOCIETY.

The monthly meeting of the committee of the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society of New South Wales was held in the Royal Exchange, Bridge-street, on Thursday, when there were present Mr. J. H Storey (chairman), Mr. J. Russell French, Mr. W. S. Buzacott, Mr. A. Kethel, M.L.C., Captain J. M. Banks, Captain G. S. Lindeman, R.N., and the secretary (Captain A. W. Webber). The business transacted was confined to the granting of relief to widows and orphans and surviving seamen in connection with the disasters to the steamer Oakland and the schooner Ellston, and some others. Sums of money totalling nearly £700 were passed on account of these cases, some of which were not finally dealt with. The consideration of awards for bravery in saving life was postponed until the next meeting of the committee.

TYPHOID.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The recent revelations with regard to this terrible complaint coming so strongly from the country as well as from well-regulated suburban municipalities should cause more than passing consideration.

It is my only intention in this to draw attention to some observations reported in your columns as made by Doctors Kendall and Ashburton Thompson. The former, in a report to the Water and Sewerage Board referring to Balmain cases, suggests the extremist individual care and attention to sanitary matters, and the exercise of untiring watchfulness and cleanliness in households, and also points out that if the "buried germs" had not been disturbed in a named locality probably we would never have heard of the extraordinary outbreak at Balmain.

Whilst frankly admitting my ignorance on the subject of typhoid and germs, and acknowledging, from the fact of his position, confidence in the board's medical adviser, I would like to know from him if it is bad to disturb buried germs at Balmain why he does not prevent the probability of germs being spread broadcast over the foreshores of North Shore.

The treatment of sewage at the outlet near Folly Point is known to be defective, and what is considered by experts to be an exceptionally good system when properly applied is there made a source of danger and probably loss beyond computation to a population of 50,000 persons.

Dr. Ashburton Thompson, through your paper, informs us that another bill is to be put before Parliament having regard to the treatment of garbage. Surely that gentleman should know that all the suburban municipalities are heartily sick of the "tinkering" business, and are hampered considerably in their finances by never ceasing "makeshift" legislation in this connection.

What he might suggest with undoubted advantage and by way of satisfying experiment, would be the formation, at North Shore, of a board, consisting of the Mayors of North Sydney and Mosman, and three local medical practitioners, to supervise and report to him at regular periods the state of the districts named in matters of sanitation. If it cost the ratepayers £1000 per annum for this board it would be an assurance to property owners not now enjoyed, and to residents a feeling of security which the natural features of the Shore demand. I am, &c.,

North Sydney, June 11. ROBERT MOODIE.

SOME COMPARISONS OF JAPAN.

The place which Japan holds in relation to some of the other principal countries of the world is considered by the "Anglo-Japanese Gazette." Concerning the United Kingdom, the following points of resemblance between it and Japan are remarked. Japan consists of a group of islands lying to the east of the continent of Asia, as the United Kingdom consists of a group lying to the west of the continent of Europe. Both groups extend from north to south; the main islands of the Japan group are about the same length as the United Kingdom—viz., about 700 miles; both groups have a similar population—Japan 44,000,000 and the United Kingdom 42,000,000; both groups have a similar area—Japan 147,000 and the United Kingdom 120,000 (English) square miles; both groups are washed, and their climates modified, by important ocean currents—the British Isles by the Gulf Stream and Japan by the Japan current. The resemblance ceases, however, when the two are contrasted as empires. The one is the land of the rising sun, the other that on which the sun never sets, whilst the population of the British Empire is about 400,000,000, nearly a quarter of the population of the globe, and nearly ten times that of Japan.

The revenue of the United Kingdom is more than four times that of Japan, but the foreign trade is 17 times and the National Debt 12 times greater. The marked contrast between the national debts of the United Kingdom and Japan is that the former has been raised almost entirely for carrying on the wars in which this country has been engaged during the last 200 years, whilst that of Japan has been chiefly for public works and industrial enterprises.

In the United States the population is, roughly, twice the number in Japan, its size is 23 times as large, its revenue four times as great, whilst the foreign trade of the United States is nine times and its national debt seven times that of Japan. Russia covers one-seventh of the surface of the globe, is 60 times the size of Japan, but its population is less than three times greater, consequently population in Japan is 20 times thicker than in Russia. France has an area nearly 40 per cent. larger than Japan, but a population 10 per cent. less, and not growing. Its national debt is enormous—the largest of any nation in the world—nearly double that of the United Kingdom, and 20 times that of Japan. Germany, which now aims at becoming a world power, is about the same size as France, or 40 per cent. larger than Japan, whilst its population is one-fourth greater. A striking feature of the population of Germany is that it is growing at a much greater rate than that of the United Kingdom or Japan, and justifies, in some measure, the desire for expansion.

HOW LADY RUSSELL'S MARRIAGE WAS EFFECTED.

EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA'S "SON."

At Portsmouth on April 27 William Brown was charged on remand with having caused a false entry to be made in the Portsmouth marriage register (says "St. James' Gazette"). The prisoner, alleged to be a valet, married Mabel Edith Scott, ex-Countess of Russell, as Prince de Modena, and shortly afterwards left her. The court was crowded, many ladies being present. Ex-Countess Russell was an absentee, but her mother, Lady Scott, fashionably attired, occupied a seat in court. Mr. Williamson prosecuted for the Treasury.

Prisoner, who was defended by Mr. Allen, a local solicitor, stood unconcernedly in the dock. He is a slim man of medium height, with features of a distinctly aristocratic type. He listened intently whilst Mr. Williamson recited the facts of the case. He was introduced, counsel said, to Countess Russell as Captain Archibald Stewart. Afterwards he told her and her mother that he was the son of an Austrian Princess, and they believed him.

Mr. Williamson said prisoner about the end of July became engaged to Countess Russell. He was known in the house as the Prince. He subsequently told Lady Scott that his father was the Emperor of Austria. He particularly desired his marriage to be secret, otherwise it would injure his financial prospects. He objected to the marriage at Maidenhead on the ground that he was watched. Consequently they went to Southsea, where he made a declaration before the Registrar.

Lady Scott gave evidence. She said the prisoner told her that his father, the Emperor of Austria, was a wicked old man. He said that his income was £8000 a year. After the marriage they stayed at the Berkeley Hotel, Albemarle-street, London. On December 25 prisoner left them, after a disagreement.

Lady Scott said prisoner told her that his father had treated his mother very badly. He said she has written on her deathbed to the Pope.

Mr. Williamson: We need not go into that.

The Clerk: No; leave the Pope out.

Counsel said prisoner, instead of being a prince, was the son of a coachman.

Charles Brown, prisoner's father, said prisoner had been footman for 12 years. He was not a prince, nor was his father Franz Joseph. (Laughter.) Prisoner had no independent means.

Detective-sergeant Gough, of Scotland Yard, said prisoner went to Bow-street and inquired what the police wanted him for. He was arrested, and on the way to Portsmouth he said: "I was in hopes I would have got a separation and freed the poor girl." (Laughter.) Prisoner told a Portsmouth detective that he was literally dragged into the marriage, and had no idea of committing an offence. He went to Madeira afterwards with a friend.

As Lady Scott left the court the prisoner laughed openly at her.

Prisoner was committed for trial, and no application was made for bail.

THE INCREASE OF SUICIDE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As pathetic as it is significant was it to read the record in your paper within a day or two of each other of the suicide in the one case and the attempted suicide in the other of two children. It may well be asked, Are there any children nowadays? What is amiss?

But not now to inquire into the cause of the mischief do I write, but to point out that whilst every precaution is seemingly taken by law to prevent the purchase of poison, by young and old alike, it is not thought necessary to put any kind of restriction on the sale of other means by which human life may be destroyed.

Any youngster may now enter a shop and purchase a revolver and cartridges, and no questions are asked.

In the last number of "The Times Weekly" I read "The Pistols Bill, which prohibits the sale of pistols to persons who cannot produce a gun or game license, and requires the keeping of a register of sales, was yesterday considered and ordered to be reported to the House by the House of Commons Standing Committee on Law."

Might it not be well if some such measure were to become law in the Commonwealth?

I am, &c., S. S. TOVEY.

June 14.

DO YOU EVER WATCH A CHILD

when the little child is suffering from teething troubles? It is at this period that convulsions often attack children, and you have the horror of witnessing their really acute sufferings—always a pitiable thing where children are concerned. It is such a mistake to make light of teething troubles, just because they have to happen. But it is not necessary to describe these sufferings; you are concerned only in their cure.

DO YOU EVER WATCH A CHILD when teething and suffering from the arrival of these necessary adjuncts to the human body, and long for a cure? That cure is to be found in Scott's Emulsion, which removes the sufferings and troubles of teething by direct action as a medicine, and by indirect action as a tonic food which strengthens and helps the child's vital organism to throw off and eliminate the conditions that cause teething troubles. Yet while Scott's Emulsion will cause the troubles of teething to disappear, there is something better to be done. When the child is three months old begin with Scott's Emulsion, which supplies earthy matter, lime, &c., needed to make teeth, and you find that the baby's teeth will arrive on time and without pain to the child.

SCOTT'S EMULSION. The use of Scott's Emulsion is likely also to make the teeth more perfect. You have one precaution only to take, and that is to see that on the wrapper of the bottle there is a picture of a man carrying a big cod-fish; if that cod-fish is not there, you are not getting what we promise you—a cure. You can obtain a sample of Scott's Emulsion and the choicest children's booklet of the year, "A Bunch of Roses," beautifully printed in colours, by sending 4d to Scott and Bowne, Ltd., 483 Kent-street, Sydney, and mentioning this paper. All chemists sell Scott's Emulsion.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

All Advertisements charged to account must bear the authorisation of insertion. The number of times they are to appear must be stated, otherwise they will be inserted till countermanded. No verbal communication can be attended to.

While every care is exercised, the proprietors do not hold themselves responsible for non-insertion of advertisements through accident or otherwise; and they reserve to themselves the right of omitting advertisements received and paid for in the usual course of business if they appear to be objectionable.

For the convenience of advertisers, replies to advertisements may be sent to the Herald Office, Hunter-street; also the Branch Office, King-street; but the proprietors do not accept any responsibility in this respect.

ADVERTISEMENTS are classified as far as possible for convenience of readers, BUT NO CLASSIFICATION CAN BE MADE UNLESS THE OBJECT OF THE ADVERTISER BE DISTINCTLY STATED IN THE ADVERTISEMENT ITSELF OR ON THE MS. No guarantee is given that advertisements shall appear under special headings.

Advertisers in the country can remit payment by Cheque, Money Order, Postal Notes, or Postage Stamps.

Births, Deaths, or Marriages, 2s each insertion. This includes publication in the Sydney Mail.

Notices of BIRTHS and DEATHS cannot be inserted in this journal unless endorsed with the name and address of the person by whom they are sent.

Notices of MARRIAGES cannot be inserted unless certified as correct by the officiating Minister or Registrar.

This rule is rendered necessary in consequence of false and malicious notices having been sent for publication for the purpose of annoying respectable persons.

IN MEMORIAM advertisements and RETURN THANKS, 3s each insertion.

The Pillar Box at Redfern Railway Station for receipt of advertisements and communications is cleared every evening at 8.30, 9.30, and 10.30.
